LEAVING MOTOR FIRM

George Romney Enters Michigan Governor's Race

DETROIT (AP) — George Romney declared himself a Republican candidate for governor of Michigan Saturday, but refused to be drawn into a discussion of any possible presidential hopes in 1964.

Romney said at a news conference he would request a leave of absence Monday as chairman and president of America Motors Corp., a $150,000-a-year job, to seek the $25,000 one now held by first - term Gov. John B. Swainson, a Democrat.

The industrialist, however, said he would not become an active candidate until Michigan's constitutional convention, to which he is an elected delegate, has completed its months-long job of drafting a new constitution "with the very heart and core of good government," or until "I am satisfied that such is clearly destined to be the case."

GEORGE ROMNEY

TARGET DATE SET

The convention has set an April 1 target for adjournment, but Romney said he was "more concerned about the quality of the document than in meeting a deadline."

Neil Staebler, Michigan Democratic national committeeman, termed Romney's announcement "well-staged" and added that "It was difficult to tell whether it was an announcement as Republican candidate for governor or for president."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his vice president, Richard M. Nixon, both have suggested Romney would make "an attractive candidate" nationally for the GOP.

However, Romney told his news conference these comments had no bearing on his decision to seek the governorship and refused to discuss any plans for 1964, when his two-year term as governor would end if he were elected.

He added in a formal statement: "As a gubernatorial candidate, I will have no interest in

Nine Hurt In Million Dollar Fire

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The worst fire in Fort Wayne's history raged out of control in the downtown business section more than six hours Saturday before it was contained. Firemen said it could possibly last into Sunday.

Nine persons were injured, none critically, in the million-dollar blaze which started in a department store's warehouse store. The cause of the fire was not established.

Hundreds of firemen and volunteers were called to duty as the flames spread through four large buildings.

The warehouse store and an appliance store, both three-story brick structures occupied by the Wolf & Dessauer department store firm, were destroyed. A seven-story building, formerly Wolf & Dessauer's main building, was badly damaged. Another old building, once a newspaper plant, also was heavily damaged.

Firemen were hampered in early efforts to battle the flames because of heavy smoke. False walls and ceilings in the store buildings also protected the spreading flames.

The injured included two firemen, a city detective, three store employes and three customers. Six were treated for smoke inhalation or cuts and released. Three remained in St. Joseph Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

An influx of sightseers jammed the area, forcing police to reroute traffic around the center of the city.

Fire Chief Howard Blanton said the blaze was checked but not under control. Other buildings in the block were evacuated.

State GOP Sets Member Drive

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Louisiana Republicans made plans Saturday for a state convention next month and efforts to lure Democratic voters into the party.

The GOP state central committee decided to hold a state convention March 10 at Shreveport.

State chairman Leroy Smallenberger of Shreveport said the principal agenda for the convention will be the adoption of a policy statement reaffirming the state party's conservative stand.

Ronald Gossen of Lafayette, 3rd congressional district chairman, said the "party should unequivocably declare itself as conservative and as the party of responsible constitutional government."

Plans Ready For Glenn's Orbital Ride

Shot Scheduled For Early Hour Next Wednesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—After several frustrating delays, the United States plans to try again Wednesday to send Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. whirling into 'round-the-world orbit.

If everything goes precisely on schedule, an Atlas missile will blast off at 7:30 a.m. that day to boost Glenn, 40, toward his long-awaited date with the heavens.

THREE ORBITS

A perfect flight would take him three times around the world in 4 hours 50 minutes at an incredible speed of 17,500 miles an hour. Near the end of the third orbit, braking rockets would slow his "Friendship 7" spacecraft and bring it down for a parachute landing in the Atlantic Ocean 800 miles southeast of here.

The flight is intended to reap a harvest of information on how man is able to cope with the dangers and unknowns of the space environment, and especially how he is able to react in prolonged periods of weightlessness.

Glenn, the Atlas, the capsule, the worldwide tracking network, the recovery forces and other elements all were reported in "go" (ready) condition Saturday as the seventh scheduled date for the launching neared.

Officials kept a close eye on the weather, which can be tricky this time of year in the Cape Canaveral area and in the Atlantic recovery zones. An all-night rain drenched Cape Canaveral Friday night and clouds hung overhead much of Saturday. Weathermen were making no long-range predictions for Wednesday.

A heavy cloud layer forced postponement of the flight on Jan. 27 after the countdown had progressed to within 20 minutes of launching. Glenn was in the capsule atop the Atlas for 5 hours 13 minutes that day.

ACQUIRES COLLECTION

Illinois Gets New Abe Lincoln Items

CHICAGO (AP)—The state of Illinois announced Saturday it has acquired 29 of Abraham Lincoln's letters, notes and papers, a collection described by state historian Clyde Walton as the "largest Lincoln find in recent years."

The papers were collected by Oscar A. Kershner of Greenville, Ill., who died last March at the age of 70. Walton said Kershner was a semirecluse and a former government clerk and bookkeeper in Washington, D.C.

The documents were transferred to the state historical library by the owners, Elsie O. Sang and Philip D. Sang of River Forest, Ill.

The Lincoln letters included some addressed to Gen. Joseph Hooker, Postmaster General Montgomery Blair, Gen. George Meade, and Jackson Grimshaw, a Pittsfield, Ill. attorney.

Most are pardons, endorsements, commissions or brief notes.

One item is a "carte de visite" photograph of Lincoln autographed by him. Sang said this is rare.

Such photographs, the size of a calling card, were in vogue in the 1860s as a substitute for calling cards.

In one instance, Lincoln signed his name on an envelope as a frank instead of affixing a stamp.

Kershner's collection included letters from many other famous men including Robert E. Lee, Jefferson Davis, Rutherford B. Hayes, James Buchanan and Herbert Hoover. Kershner also collected about 1,500 photos, many autographed.

LEARN GOOD NEWS

Phones Shatter Sleep At Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phones shattered sleep at four homes in Georgia, Virginia and Maryland early Saturday to bring the Powers family news that was doubly sweet because it was wholly unexpected.

Almost simultaneously with the 3:19 a.m. White House announcement that Francis Gary Powers had been freed by the Soviet Union, this same word sped by wire to the wife, parents and sisters of the onetime U2 spy-plane pilot.

Close behind the phone calls came the newsmen and photographers who found all the Powers in a happy daze—but awake and with no thought of finishing the night's broken sleep. Through the delighted comments of all ran the theme that it was all so unexpected.

At her mother's home in Milledgeville, Ga., the flier's wife, Barbara, 27, said "It was so unexpected and wonderful that I've just been crying for joy—I really have."

But by 7:30 a.m. she was able to check her tears and laughter enough to receive a hairdresser to help the attractive brunette prepare for a reunion with the husband she has not seen since August 1960.

Mrs. Powers explained in his latest letter, received about three weeks ago, Powers told her he had no hope of clemency that would shorten his 10-year sentence for espionage.

Mrs. Powers said because of this lack of hope, she had been despondent "but now my ordeal is almost over, but not quite—it will be when I see him again."

She said she has no idea what the future holds but her husband "always has been a flier and I assume he will continue flying. But that is up to him."

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers, received the glad word at their home in Pound. Va. They dressed quickly in preparation for the reunion and went to Powers' shoe repair shop in Norton, Va., about 15 miles away.

There they talked to newsmen

Four Hurt In Mishap By Trains

Fourteen freight cars were derailed when a wheel broke, a railroad spokesman said. The Chicagoan sideswiped them on parallel tracks.

Twelve of the 15 passenger train units were derailed, but only one overturned. About 70 passengers were on the train.

Taken to Goshen General Hospital were Don Noel, 68, Toledo, Ohio, engineer; Joseph Leonti, Auburn, N.Y.; Orbert Largelere, 40, Toledo, and Weldon Turner, Chicago. Largelere and Turner were treated and released. Noel remained for observation with cuts and bruises and Leonti for X-rays.

Several other crewmen suffered minor cuts and bruises but didn't need hospitalization. Six were trapped inside until a jammed door was cut open. The second unit, a mail storage car, flipped over and was the most severely damaged. No one was aboard.

The accident was 1½ miles west of this northeastern Indiana city, about midway between South Bend and Fort Wayne.

West Coast Storm Takes Seven Lives

California Rains Ease; Snow Hits In New England

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A marathon storm that drenched Southern California with up to nearly 9 inches of rain eased Saturday, but another storm dumped 3 to 5 inches of snow on southern and central New England.

At least seven deaths were related to the torrential rains in Southern California.

COLD SPREAD

Slimly landslides cascaded over many mountain roads. Rising flood waters forced evacuation of more than a score of homes in low-lying areas near the Pacific coast.

Snow fell over much of New England and in scattered sections of the Appalachians. Bitter cold kept its grip in extreme northern sections of the Midwest and colder weather spread over much of the eastern half of the country.

Cold wave warnings were issued for most of New England and Upstate New York. Temperatures were expected to drop well below zero by Sunday morning.

Mother's Feet Care For Infant

BREWSTER, Minn. (AP) When Helen McNab was 3 years old she started sewing — with her feet.

Now, as Mrs. William Baughn she uses the agility gained from a life without arms to care for her new baby with as much loving care as any mother.

Mrs. Baughn, 27, has overcome a handicap that might have stopped one with less courage. She graduated from high school, earned her college degree and worked for a time as assistant recreation director at Gillette State Hospital in St. Paul despite being born without arms.

The new baby, Marc Joseph, was born Jan. 8. Now a husky 12-pounder, Marc is well on the way to overtaking the weight of his slight mother who weighs but 80 pounds.

SOME IN U.S. CRITICAL

Spy-Swap Reaction Mostly Favorable

By United Press International

Most Americans agreed with former President Harry S. Truman Saturday that the spy-swap of Fancis Gary Powers for Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel was "a fair trade."

Typical reaction was that of Colorado Republican State Sen. Carl Fulghum who said, "Let them have him (Abel). I would rather have our boy back."

Powers' wife was ecstatic. His father was "thankful." And his mother was "tickled to death."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose administration came under fire when the U2 incident occurred, declined to comment.

Some Americans were critical of Powers.

Newburgh, N.Y., Attorney Martin M. McKneally, former national commander of the American Legion, said Powers was a "weak American" who had "served his country badly." He wondered whether Powers should be charged with misconduct by the government.

Mrs. Ann Crenshaw, wife of a Dallas, Tex., doctor, said she didn't think Powers should come home. "I think he should stay over there because of the way he acted at his trial and the things he said."

Another Texan, Dallas store manager Arthur Lowry, 27, said he thought it was "wonderful that the poor guy got out. It looks like somebody in our government finally quit playing Mickey Mouse and shaped up. We didn't seem to put up much of a fight for him and the guy was just doing his job for our country."

Sixteen-year-old Judy Heilbrunn of Chicago approved of the exchange but "I think the Russians made a lot out of the Powers' incident. I don't know whether

Powers Is Freed In Berlin, Takes Plane For Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers walked to freedom in the center of a Berlin bridge Saturday in a drama-packed trade for Soviet master spy Rudolf Abel.

Russia contended it was a gesture of friendship. The United States still is looking for demonstrations of friendship of greater proportions or significance.

HELD 21 MONTHS

The flier, 32, had spent 21 months in a Soviet prison after pleading guilty to spying for his high-flying photo plane that was downed in Russian territory on May 1, 1960.

Freed far sooner than he apparently had dared hope, Powers quickly was whisked away from the Berlin bridge in a convoy of cars. He was rushed to a plane and soon was on the way home by air, to a reception to be shrouded in secrecy and uncertain official warmth.

Abel disappeared behind the Iron Curtain. He had been serving a 30-year sentence as a spy convicted of stealing military and nuclear secrets from this country and slipping them to the Kremlin.

One other person was involved in what was a two-for-one swap. The United States got back Frederic L. Pryor, 28, who was study-

U.S. Checks On Student Before Swap

BERLIN (AP) — Frederic L. Pryor, 28, a Michigan student, may not know it, but he kept President Kennedy waiting for 20 minutes Saturday.

He also kept these others waiting: Francis Gary Powers, the U2 pilot downed over the Soviet Union in 1960; Col. Rudolf Abel, Soviet master spy, and about 20 assorted U.S. and Soviet officials.

Pryor was the third man in a historic swap—his freedom and that of Powers for Abel.

DISAPPEARED

An economics student, Pryor disappeared in the Soviet sector of Berlin last August. The East German Communists referred to him vaguely as a spy in the guise of a research scholar.

Reliable informants said U.S. authorities held up the exchange of Powers and Abel in a West Berlin suburb for 20 minutes while an American checked to see if Pryor had come safely through "Checkpoint Charlie," a dozen miles away in midtown Berlin.

Then the word came from the U.S. Army checkpoint that Pryor had come through and had joined his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard H. Pryor of Ann Arbor, Mich., who had been waiting in West Berlin for a month.

Only then was the Powers-Abel exchange made, and the word flashed to Kennedy, who had been waiting at the White House in the early morning hours for the message.

A short time later it was reported the Pryors had left Berlin, taking their son with them.

The release of Pryor raised some questions: Why did the Russians find it necessary to give two prisoners for Abel, especially in view of the importance previously attached to Powers?

Why, if the Russians had to give two prisoners for Abel, did they have to take one who was nominally a prisoner of the "German Democratic Republic?" Usually the Soviet Union makes every effort to emphasize the "independence" and "sovereignty" of Communist East Germany.

Solons Cool On Walker As Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker seems to have become the witness almost nobody wants in the Senate hearing on charges that military leaders were muzzled in efforts to denounce communism.

Those who have pressed such charges, led by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., made considerable capital of the Walker case when the veteran officer was relieved of command and admonished for alleged mixing of politics with his military duties. Walker later resigned and this provided fresh ammunition to use against Defense Department policies.

Even when, at Thurmond's insistence, the "muzzling" inquiry was set up late last year and entrusted to a special Senate Armed Services subcommittee, the Pentagon's critics were looking to Walker as one of their ace witnesses.

But things have changed in intervening months and some of those who were most enthusiastic about Walker as a witness now wish the former general would ask to be excused. While none will talk on the record, they have told a reporter privately that Walker's plunge into politics—he's seeking the Democratic nomination for the Texas governorship—greatly diminishes the potential impact of anything he may tell the subcommittee.

A spokesman for Thurmond, however, told a newsman he was authorized to say that Thurmond is not advising Walker either ing in West Berlin, entered East Berlin last August and vanished. Word seeped into the West weeks later that he, too, was in prison, accused of espionage.

Pryor was released at a different spot on the Berlin border, Checkpoint Charlie. Not until he was free, and reunited with his waiting parents, did the Powers-Abel exchange go through, 12 miles away.

It was 8:52 a.m. Berlin time when it happened. That was 2:52 a.m. in Washington.

The President had slipped up to the living quarters in the White House an hour before to await the flash from Berlin.

Until then, he had been attending a gay, black tie, White House dinner dance. He and Mrs. Kennedy had planned it some time before to bring together about 100 friends of the President's sister Jean and her husband, Stephen Smith. Smith is a former State Department official who is moving to New York to handle Kennedy family business matters.

Newsmen routed out of bed by press secretary Pierre Salinger got the word of the exchange that had taken place on Berlin's Glienicke Bridge.

Salinger announced that Powers and Pryor had been turned over to U.S. authorities and that Kennedy had commuted Abel's sentence. That action was effective at the moment of Powers' release.

A formal statement said Powers soon would be on his way to the United States and that: "He will have an opportunity to meet privately with his family and will be interviewed by appropriate United States government officials."

None of them, they said, had had any inkling of Powers' impending release in the latest letters he sent them.

The pilot's wife, Barbara, broke into tears of joy.

"I'm so happy. . . . My heart is bursting," she exclaimed.

At Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers were overjoyed and surprised.

"We didn't have any idea this would happen—and he apparently didn't, either," said Powers' father, a shoe repair man.

But a reunion of the flier and the family was put off, apparently, at least until Sunday.

Salinger announced in the early afternoon that it might be Sunday before Powers arrived.

Newsmen were kept in the dark, purposely, as to when and where Powers would land. They apparently were to have no opportunity to see or question him for perhaps 10 days or two weeks, and meanwhile he was to be interviewed by government officials.

The Justice Department disclosed that late in 1960 Abel's wife wrote Donovan from East Germany asking whether he could get clemency for her husband. Donovan reported this to the Justice Department, then suggested she appeal straight to Kennedy after Kennedy's inauguration.

Apparently the Soviet government was interested also in getting Abel back. At the time of his arrest he was called the top Soviet spy in the United States.

Discussions and dickering went on. Then, about six weeks ago, Donovan was told by the Justice Department to go to East Berlin to look into the situation. He reached there about two weeks ago.

Once the negotiations reached the point where success evidently was sure, Kennedy signed a commutation for Abel and sent it to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, where the Russian was imprisoned. It was to take effect only when the prisoner exchange took place.

Soviet authorities said Powers had been removed last Thursday from a prison at Vladimir, 110 miles northeast of Moscow. Except for the period of his trial in the Soviet capital, Powers had been confined there since the day his plane exploded over the Ural Mountains in May 1960.

It was an unarmed plane, but it carried tape recorders and cameras, which the Russians said recorded what was going on from a height of 70,000 feet. The plane had flown over territory where there is considerable Russian activity with rockets.

The United States at first denied Powers was on an espionage mission. The initial word was that he was on a weather reconnaissance flight. Later on, this country backed away from the story. Khrushchev seized on the incident to touch off a series of tirades that resulted in blowing up the 1960 summit conference in Paris.

But U.S. sources said Abel was flown from Atlanta to New York early Wednesday, to McGuire Air Force Base at Ft. Dix, N.J., on Thursday and wound up at Templeh of Airdome in Berlin Friday afternoon. He was kept in a cell in Berlin until time for the exchange Saturday morning.

There was something of a cloak-and-dagger aura over the whole affair.

Mrs. Powers En Route To Join Husband

She was driven from her family home at Milledgeville about 100 miles southeast of here. Her party switched cars on the way apparently to keep her movements secret.

However, shortly after her arrival, a spokesman for Eastern Air Lines said Mrs. Powers and her party would leave for Washington on a jet flight at 2 a.m. EST.

"I don't know when I'll get to see Gary," she said. "I think it will be sometime tomorrow, but I have to get up there."

Her mother, Mrs. Monteen Allen, drove Mrs. Powers and Moore to the outskirts of Milledgeville where they transferred themselves and their luggage to a car driven by a government official, who identified himself as E. A. Jones.

as they awaited word on when and where they would see their son. The father said he and his wife never lost faith that Francis would be freed, but:

"His mother and I both thought it would be a much longer time—at least four or five years. And our son thought it would be much longer than that. We didn't have any idea this would happen—and apparently he didn't either."

The mother said "Our prayers were answered."

Delighted amazement was the keynote also with Powers' two sisters, both of whom live in suburbs of Washington, and both of whom were routed from bed by newsmen's predawn calls.

Mrs. W. E. Hileman of Glass Manor, Md., said "Goodness! I just can't believe this. We had no idea it was coming."

Mrs. Wesley Melvin, Falls Church, Va., found the news "just too good to be true—we hadn't given any thought to anything like this."

Better U.S. Relations In Cuba Sought

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Neutralists were trying to work out a new resolution Saturday to have the U.N. General Assembly seek better relations between Cuba and the United States.

Their object is to produce a passable substitute for a pending Communist Czechoslovak - Romanian proposal that is so anti-United States in tone it has no chance of getting the two-thirds vote necessary for adoption.

Two diplomats in touch with talks on the subject said they expect a new resolution to be submitted early next week, after further consultations Monday among interested delegations. Others were not so sure.

The Czechoslovak - Romanian proposal is before the assembly's 104-nation Political Committee, which since last Monday has been debating a Cuban complaint that the United States is planning an attack on Cuba.

This resolution appeals to the United States to end interference in Cuba's internal affairs and "actions directed against the territorial integrity and political independence of Cuba."

It calls on Cuba and the United States "to settle their differences by peaceful means, through negotiations, without recourse to the use of force."

Delegates say it cannot get more than 25 votes and may even get no more than those of Cuba, the 10-nation Communist bloc and one or two others.

Michigan Republican leaders anticipate Romney, 54, will have no opposition in the party's August primary. His announcement quickly was hailed by many of them, including Chairman George M. Van Peursem and State Sen. John H. Stahlin, an announced candidate for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor.

Romney, who occupies a position equivalent to that of a bishop in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) said he reached his decision to run after "seeking guidance beyond that of man." He said he had prayed.

No Democrats have indicated they plan to challenge Swainson, 36, who took over as governor a year ago in succession to the 12-year administration of a fellow Democrat, G. Mennen Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Swainson said Romney's announcement came "after the longest political countdown in Michigan political history.

"It is curious that someone who has complained about the sorry record of the Republican party and about being forced to publicly identify himself as a Republican, now is so eager to become its leader," Swainson added.

Romney said at the time he dearly would have liked to run on a nonpartisan ballot for constitutional convention delegate, "but the legislature made that impossible. He listed himself as an "Oakland County Republican."

way. Thurmond is a member of the investigating subcommittee and had helped to have Walker invited as a witness.

Others, declining to be quoted by name, said they think Walker should stand on the written statement the subcommittee already has accepted from him roundly criticizing restrictions he contends are faced by those in uniform who would fight communism. But Walker has indicated he is looking forward to appearing.

The subcommittee's announced position is that Walker is on the witness list, and probably will stay there—to testify after the senators switch from their current stormy investigation of censorship to an inquiry into troop-training programs.

The investigation stands in recess now, for perhaps a week or more, while Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., and his colleagues sort fact from fiction in a row over the conduct of a couple of subcommittee investigators.

The dispute centers on the aides interrogation of Marines to test their knowledge of cold war facts. The quizzing has been denounced in the Senate as smacking of "Gestapo tactics," and defended by Thurmond as proper and well within bounds.

Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine Corps commandant, was reported trying to help restore peace after he had complained to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that the interrogation was highhanded and tended to be "detrimental to morale."

The subcommittee is investigating three phases of Thurmond's charges of muzzling—censorship of anti-Communist speeches before delivery by military men; whether troop indoctrination on the Communist menace and meaning of democracy is strong enough, and what role the military should play in seminars to alert the public against communism.

we did on Abel or not."

Nova Scotian C. W. Bayer, 68, said he believed it "was a wise move. Powers wasn't really responsible for his actions. He was just doing his job, and he got caught because somebody bungled. He shouldn't have been in prison in the first place."

And there were many Americans who felt the way Ned G. Warenski, a dispatcher for the Utah Highway Patrol in Salt Lake City:

"If that's the only way we can do it—that's okay."

Authorities insisted, however, that Powers is not in custody and there are no charges against him.

The State Department said at the time Powers was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment after a Moscow trial that the United States had no intention of prosecuting him "because it sees nothing in his conduct to warrant such prosecution."

Still, the prospective Powers homecoming was sharply in contrast with that of two RB47 pilots, whose reconnaissance plane was shot down over arctic waters in mid-1960. The Russians seized them.

And then, at the first news conference after his election, in January 1961, Kennedy announced that the Soviet Union was freeing the pair. They were flown back to this country, welcomed at the airfield by the President himself and brought to the White House for coffee with the chief executive and First Lady.

One American Is Now Held In Soviet Jail

He is William Makinen, 22, a Fulbright scholar who was sentenced last year to eight years imprisonment on charges of photographing military installations while on a trip through Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Ukraine.

Makinen was seized July 27, 1961 and convicted at Kiev Sept. 5, 1961. A resident of Ashburnham, Mass., he was studying at the Free University of West Berlin when he took the ill-fated trip.

Makinen was fluent in nine languages. The Soviet newspaper Izvestia said he had been intensively trained in espionage by U.S. agents.

The U.S. State Department denied he was a spy.

Four other Americans are imprisoned in Communist China and the case of 11 missing crewmen who were aboard a U.S. plane shot down over the Soviet Union Sept. 2, 1958 is still unsettled.

Those in China are

John T. Downey, New Britain, Conn., and Richard G. Fecteau, Lynn, Mass.,—U.S. Army civilian employes convicted in 1954 in Peiping of attempting to contact Nationalist Chinese agents. They were in a plane downed in Manchuria. Downey was sentenced to life imprisonment, Fecteau to 20 years.

Bishop James E. Walsh, Cumberland, Md. — Roman Catholic missionary, sentenced in Shanghai March 18, 1960 to 20 years.

U.S. OFFICIALS SAY

Soviet-China Rift May Have Helped Free Pilot

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet decision to release U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers probably was inspired at least partly by concern in Moscow over its increasingly bitter political conflict with Red China.

U.S. officials said Saturday the latest move in the complicated diplomatic game now being played between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev gives new evidence that Khrushchev wants to improve relations with the United States when he can do so at little expense or inconvenience.

Thus in recent weeks he obviously has favored an increase of top-level exchanges of ideas as exemplified by the visit to Kennedy of Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law.

The reasons Khrushchev wants to improve Soviet-U.S., relations are: 1. The widening rift between Moscow and Peiping holds danger of a future threat to the Soviet Union's power position, and 2. Khrushchev fears the consequences of a U.S.-Soviet nuclear war and hopes to avoid any such catatstrophe.

Those reasons received high priority in administration quarters as experts on Soviet behavior puzzled over the answer to the question: Why did Khrushchev agree now to approve the swap of Powers for Col. Rudolph Abel, Soviet "master spy" who had been imprisoned here during the Eisenhower administration?

Washington efforts to win Powers' release back in 1960 and early 1961 had gotten nowhere.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., put his finger on a point that interested officials. He said he had felt for some time "that the growing tension between the governments of Red China and Russia would tend to make the Russians more friendly with us."

"Soviet leaders," Aiken said, "have far less to fear from the United States than from Red China, and they know that."

Government informants said Soviet leaders seemed anxious to get Abel back to the Soviet Union just as the United States for its own reasons was anxious to recover Powers. But they figured that in the Soviet agreement were elements of much greater significance than the desire simply to recover a has-been master spy.

One striking aspect of the deal is similar to that which has characterized other Khrushchev moves. It cost him nothing in terms of real Soviet aims or in vital interests—nothing more than it cost, for example, to make friendly statements to President Kennedy following his election in 1960 and thereafter to agitate for a summit meeting with Kennedy.

Thus the really critical question in the policy considerations underlying Saturday's dramatic event is this: Does Khrushchev fear nuclear war enough, does he think better East-West relations important enough to begin to make accommodations on major issues with the West which will involve real changes in policy and real concessions?

So far there is no evidence that Khrushchev is prepared to pay any such price.

Possibly he thinks nuclear war can be avoided with less upset to his grand designs. Perhaps he really hopes to split the West by negotiating separately with Germany over Berlin. Or he may hope that in some such crisis as the Algerian agony of France the West will split itself.

The real test of Soviet policy will come, Kennedy administration policymakers are convinced, in fields other than those of prisoner exchanges.

The return of Powers therefore is judged as significant of a trend but not significant of any actual alteration so far; nor does it offer assurance that the whole trend may not blow up tomorrow or next week in some angry new conflict. There are many places where this could occur.

The United States, with reluctant British approval, seems to be on the verge of a decision to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere. Khrushchev has been maneuvering to prevent the United States from resuming or to make it pay a price if it does. If he overplays his hand on this vital issue tensions could mount very fast.

Officials expect that this week the Soviet Union will reply to a bid from Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for a foreign ministers' meeting on disarmament at Geneva in mid-March. Officials find it difficult to predict what the response will be.

In Moscow Friday Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told the Western powers once more that the Soviet Union wants Western troops withdrawn from West Berlin, or Soviet troops added. His presentation indicated no change whatever in the Soviet position. U.S. officials said they see no possible basis for Berlin negotiations and the stalemate is discouraging.

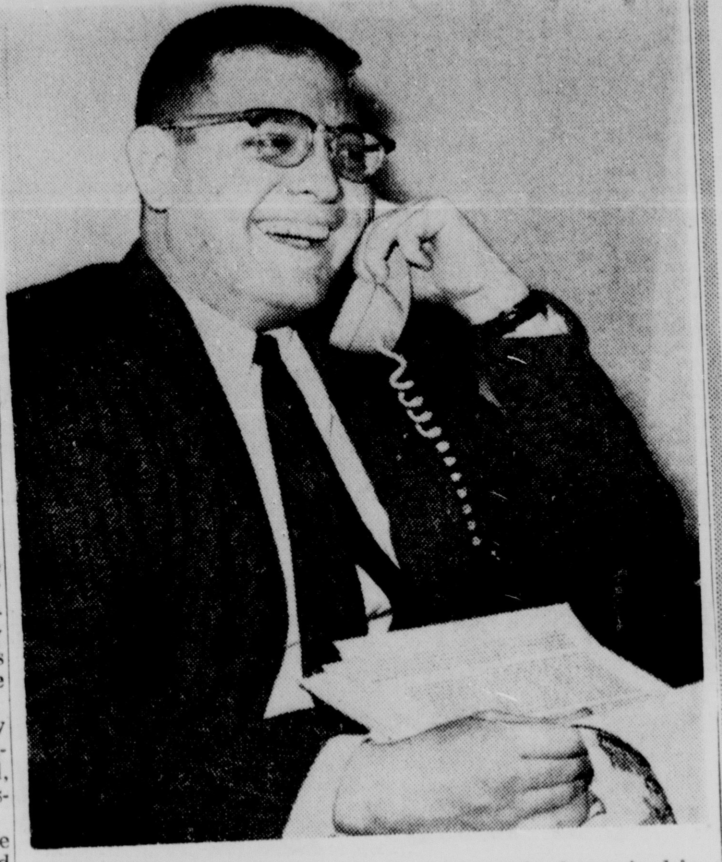
In Laos State Department officials have been encouraged by the seeming Soviet willingness to support a compromise, neutralist peace settlement. But some of the best-informed officials here privately fear a Communist trick. They see danger of a Red military buildup followed by some new effort to take over the whole country.

More immediately the issue is focused on South Viet Nam where a U.S. training mission is growing by thousands as Kennedy seeks to carry through a policy of defeating a Red guerrilla campaign fed from North Viet Nam with Soviet support.

Despite Soviet hostility in most of these areas of conflict, the President is known to feel it is of great importance to explore all avenues of accord with the Soviet Union and to keep lines of communication open.

Kennedy's policy is a calculated maneuver based on two principles: The United States can gain only by trying to open up more windows to the Soviet people: and the United States has nothing to lose by anticipating possible changes in Soviet policy as a result of the conflict with Red China.

No one guarantees any changes but there is a feeling here that the split in the Communist bloc will compel Soviet leaders to be guided more and more by Soviet national considerations and less by the revolutionary aims of the international Communist movement.



MILLARD H. PRYOR, Jr., posed on telephone in his New York City home Saturday after learning his twin brother, Frederic Leroy Pryor, had been released by the East German Communists and reunited with their parents in Berlin. "Delighted," he exclaimed. Frederic was freed in the swap of American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers and Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.

Leader Accepts Resignation Of Italy Premier

ROME (UPI) — President Giovanni Gronchi Saturday accepted the resignation of Amintore Fanfani as middle-of-the-road premier and promptly asked him to form Italy's first left-of-center government with support of the left-wing socialists.

Fanfani, leader of the Christian Democratic Party, reserved his decision—as customary—until he has conferred with prospective partners in the new coalition. But he is expected to form the new government within a week.

Fanfani tendered his resignation eight days ago when his Christian Democrats voted at their convention in Naples to seek an informal alliance with the Socialists. The Socialists would help by voting with Fanfani—or abstaining — in parliament.

Pietro Nenni's neutralist-thinking socialists have a strong pro-communist wing. They would not actually be in the cabinet which would be composed of Christian Democrats, Social Democrats and Republicans. But their support in parliament would give Nenni the right of life and death over the government for the first time in 15 years.

Fanfani said after his one-hour, 45-minute talk with Gronchi that he was "conscious of the great importance of the effort everyone is now expecting.

DOWNTOWN BATON ROUGE

Merchants Seeking To Solve Problem

By JIM HUGHES
The BATON ROUGE MORNING ADVOCATE
Written for The Associated Press

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Baton Rouge's central business district —like that in many another American city—is feeling the pinch of competition from outlying shopping centers, and despite all efforts has thus far been unable to fetch the shopper back to town.

Third Street, the city's major downtown commercial complex, now counts 14 vacant store buildings, and two others will soon be vacated, one of them by one of the larger downtown department stores.

A number of medications have been concocted in futile efforts to cure Third Street ailment, the most recent a short-lived pedestrian mall which revived the patient through the Christmas season but lost its healing powers shortly thereafter and was abandoned. The mall was promoted by the Downtown Promotion Association, a group composed solely of merchants, and one of those merchants, Boris Bagalman, attributes its limited success not along to the mall per se, but to the intense promotion and advertising which accompanied it. The failure of the mall as a lasting solution to the central business district's problems, Bagalman says, is not peculiar to Baton Rouge. Pedestrian malls in other cities have likewise failed except at certain times of the year.

I. H. Rubenstein, another Third Street merchant, says the mall was a success as a temporary business stimulant, but, he adds, to be a success on a sustained basis, such a mall would have to be a permanent installation with covered walkways permitting shoppers to move about freely even in inclement weather.

There is general agreement that one of the major hurdles which shoppers won't attempt to leap to shop on Third Street is the want of free customer parking. Merchants and property owners alike agree that there is no such thing as free parking. Reasonably, they contend that someone has to pay for it, and to that end the Downtown Development Association, Inc., an organization made up of merchants and property owners, in 1960 attempted to get legislative approval from the state of a downtown development district with authority to levy taxes to provide needed improvements, among them free customer parking. The plan overall, prepared by W. J. Evans, local architect and planner, recommended a variety of improvements as well as parking, among them a mall, a revised flow of traffic downtown and modernization and beautification of downtown facilities. The association's bill failed to achieve the necessary legislative okay.

What to do about meter parking along Third Street has long been a touchy subject here. Merchants have contended that as many meters as possible should be provided along Third Street's 5½ blocks of concentrated commercial development. In the past six years, parking has been removed from one side of the street to both sides of the street and subsequently restored to both sides. Today, parallel parking is permitted on both sides of the street and Rubenstein has suggested that this be replaced with angle parking, a suggestion promptly vetoed by city officials.

The traffic pattern leading to the immediate downtown area has also been a contentious matter for several years. A pattern of one-way pairs of east-west streets leading to and intersecting Third Street has been discussed by at least two city administrations. In recent years, the Third Street merchants have favored this, but the merchants whose stores are located on those streets but removed from the immediate downtown area have put up very vocal and effective opposition. Today the one-way pattern exists leading to Third Street, but it came into being only after completion of a section of the Baton Rouge Expressway, a part of the Interstate Highway system, demanded it. The Expressway was designed with one-way pairs of east-west streets in mind.

Memphis Plans For Survey Of Police Setup

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The Memphis Police Department, shaken by a series of burglary incidents resulting in the arrest of eight officers, may undergo a $15,000 survey by a team of experts in police administration.

Police Commissioner Claude Armour said Friday he had requested a "complete and general survey" of the department by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, now conducting a similar study at Denver.

Armour estimated the survey would cost about $15,000.

He said it would deal with such matters as organization, policies, manpower, pay "and all other items that are so important to the administration of a successful police department."

The survey would not "eliminate personnel who go bad," said Armour. "We have had them in the past and we will have more in the future, regardless of the car taken in selection."

"When you have 650 men to supervise, and they are constantly faced with temptation, occasionally their resistance weakens," he said.

'BACKDOOR SPENDING'

Byrd Hits Cost Of Urban Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., raised a claim of "backdoor spending" Saturday against President Kennedy's urban affairs department proposal.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he supports the plan but doesn't believe it goes far enough in coordinating federal programs affecting the cities. He complained that Democrats have injected the race issue into controversy over the proposal.

The Senate will begin debate Feb. 19 on Kennedy's reorganization plan which has brought a political clash between the President and a possible 1964 presidential race opponent, GOP Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Administration leaders have predicted Senate approval of the proposal, a development they think might aid them in their fight to prevent the House from vetoing the plan. A majority of either house can kill it.

Byrd, head of the Senate-House Committee on Elimination of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, said in a statement that the proposed new agency ought to be called a "department of backdoor spending and contingent liabilities."

He said total spending authority for the agencies which Kennedy wants combined is estimated at $13.7 billion, all but $300 million of which he said would be through the Treasury's "backdoor." Most of the housing programs affected are now financed that way.

The Virginia senator said such spending is carried out by authority to use proceeds from the sale of federal bonds, under contract authorization and out of revolving funds. He added that all of this is "outside of effective appropriation control" by Congress.

Beyond this, he said, the housing and other agencies which would be consolidated "have used the public credit to underwrite outstanding mortgages and other contingent liabilities of about $45 billion."

Byrd said that if the proposed new bureau follows the pattern of the Welfare Department it will become a $165-billion agency in 10 years.

Case said in a television program taped for New Jersey stations that it was a "completely unworthy thing" for Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey to suggest that Republicans who are opposed to creating the department are anti-Negro.

Rockefeller called it "political fakery" when Kennedy announced that if the agency were set up he would name Housing Administration Robert C. Weaver as the first Negro in the Cabinet.

Kennedy replied that Rockefeller had done an about-face, after proposing a similar Cabinet department in 1956 and 1957.

As a civil rights advocate, Case said he thinks Negroes are entitled to high appointments. But he added that anyone can be against the new department proposal "without in any way being opposed to the elevation of Negroes to the highest positions in government."

Case complained that Kennedy's plan would not give the new Cabinet member enough authority to coordinate highway, housing, urban renewal and transit programs.

The 1960 Republican platform, Albert said in a statement, called for "a stepped-up program to assist in urban planning."

IN MOLOTOV LETTER

Dulles Says Soviet Policy Challenged

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Allen W. Dulles, former U.S. intelligence chief, said Saturday night the Soviet Communists are suppressing a letter in which V. M. Molotov challenged the Khrushchev regime's peaceful coexistence policy.

"I regret to say we haven't got that letter yet," Dulles said, "but some day that letter's going to turn up."

Dulles, interviewed on the national educational television program "Prospects of Mankind," said the Stalinist former foreign minister is known to have written the letter to the Communist party's Central Committee because there was a reference to it in the proceedings of the 22nd party congress in Moscow last fall.

"And as far as we know," Dulles said, "that letter was a strong presentation of the view that Lenin was not a disciple of coexistence, but Lenin was a disciple of the stronger policy that Stalin advocated, the Chinese are following, and which I think Molotov still adheres to."

Molotov has dropped pretty much out of sight since Premier Khrushchev denounced him at the party congress along with other members of a so-called antiparty group.

Dulles, who was interviewed by Eleanor Roosevelt, said he did not know what will happen to Molotov but added: "They don't liquidate people any more because they hold different views; they put them on a nice estate somewhere near Moscow and see that they're pretty well ignored."

Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said he doubts there will be a complete break between the Soviet Union and Communist China. He said the fact they have a common enemy in the Western world will pull them together, even though the Red Chinese believe in a tougher policy than Khrushchev's coexistence line.

The program was taped at Brandeis University as part of a panel discussion.

Church Board Urges Break With Council

MANSFIELD, La. (AP) — The Official Board of the First Methodist Church of Mansfield urged Saturday that the Methodist Church withdraw from the National Council of Churches.

The board, which is the governing body of the church, made public a resolution asking Bishop Aubrey G. Walton of the Louisiana Methodist Conference to "take such steps as may be expedient and necessary to cause the Methodist Church in the United States to withdraw from the NCC.

John Sly, chairman of the Mansfield church board, said the group also endorsed a report by the vestry committee of St. Marks Episcopal Church of nearby Shreveport dealing with the NCC.

The St. Marks church in April, 1961, adopted a report accusing the NCC of taking part in politics, aiding communist causes, publishing obscene literature for church reading, assuming pacifist stands and engaging in economic and political fights.

The report also challenged the NCC claim that it represented 39 million American Protestants, and directed the Episcopal bishop of Louisiana to take steps to withdraw the Protestant Episcopal Church of the USA from the NCC.

In seeking withdrawal from the national council, the Mansfield church report said it had received criticism of the church's participation in the NCC, and after consideration of the complaint it is "our firm conviction that membership in the National Council of Churches is detrimental to the Methodist Church in its work of proclaiming the Gospel of Our Lord Jesus Christ."

PREDICTS 1964 SHUTOUT

LBJ Pokes Fun At Republicans

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson poked fun at the Republicans Saturday night with a rhyming prediction that their 1964 presidential candidate won't carry a single state.

Johnson quoted what he called this "prophetic poetry" in a speech prepared for a dinner honoring Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey.

"Nelson, Richard and Barry;
"They haven't much longer to tarry.
"But regardless of whom
"Is their prophet of doom
"There won't be a state he can carry."

The reference was to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Johnson took note of reports that American Motors Co. President George Romney, who announced his candidacy for the GOP nomination for governor of Michigan earlier in the day, may be a contender for the party's 1964 presidential nomination.

"There is, as a matter of fact," he said, "so much confusion the Republicans are trying to bring in a new model—the compact candidate—since their last candidate ran out of gas and had a hard time finding a place to park.

"But the people of this country do not want 'wonder boys' which the Republicans seem determined to make and serve."

Johnson teed off, also, on the "Ev and Charlie" show, weekly news conference taped for television by Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

He called it "The only commercial on the air that is against everything."

"They don't want a Cabinet department to give attention to the problems of cities," he said. "They didn't want a minimum wage in the first place and they've fought every move to expand it. They really don't want anything except to turn back the clock."

Johnson praised the record of the Kennedy administration's first year.

"We've had some hits and some runs and some errors," he said. "We will have some more. But this country is moving.

"No one can deny that: a million more people are working today than this day last year; income from wages and salaries has gone up 7 per cent; net farm income has been increased 6 per cent; corporate profits have risen from $40 to $50 billion and no one can deny that we are stronger militarily than we were a year ago."

Caroline Kennedy May Be Southpaw

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four-year-old Caroline Kennedy seems to be developing into a southpaw, or portsider.

After a year in the White House, life is anything but dull for the little blonde, blue-eyed daughter of the first family.

Caroline, like all little children, seems to be learning something every day. Her latest achievement is to learn to sing the "Marine Hymn"..."From the halls of Mont zuma, etc"., from beginning to end.

She learned the leatherneck song at play school, which she attends several times a week with several playmates, in the third floor solarium of the executive mansion.

Because Caroline has become probably the nation's number one child air passenger, with helicopter and jet plane flying almost a weekly routing, her mother has wanted her to have the experience of old time ground travel.

Her morning routine of walking her father to his office is a familar sight. Most of the time she wears bright red corduroy play togs with a bright red matching jacket. She holds tightly to her father's hand as she trips along beside him.

Caroline began to show grown-up tendencies this week when she sat through a whole opera without fidgeting, though she gave her mother a big kiss at intervals.

29th Nuclear Powered Sub To Join Navy

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — The Navy's 29th nuclear powered submarine, the BARB, will be launched at the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp. yard Monday.

The speedy attack sub of the Thresher class will cost more than $50 million dollars, including its reactors.

The Navy said it is the first underwater craft to be built literally around its sonar detection equipment and can operate faster, deeper and more silently than its prcedessors.

The new fighting vessel is designed to cruise more than 60,000 miles without refueling—or more than twice around the world at the equator.

The 270 foot Barb will be capable of submerged speeds in excess of 20 knots. Its torpedo tubes are mounted amidships—on each side.

The new vessel is named after a World War II submarine. The original Barb sank 17 ships totaling 96,628 tons, for the third highest tonnage total among the Navy's top submarines.

The new Barb will be christened by Mrs. Eugene Fluckey of Washington, wife of a rear admiral who won a medal of Honor as a skipper aboard the first Barb. Fluckey took over command of the sub in 1944 and guided it through six war patrols.

Fluckey, now president of the U.S. Navy board of inspection and survey, will be one of the speakers at the launching ceremony. Another speaker will be undersecretary of the Navy Paul B. Fay.

Mrs. Fluckey's matron of honor will be her sister, Mrs. C. C. Gold of Seattle, Wash.

Cmdr. Charles D. Grojean, a native of Jacksonville, Ill., will take over command of the Barb. A veteran of 11 years in the submarine service, Grojean's last tour of duty was as executive officer aboard the Navy's second Polaris submarine, the Patrick Henry.

LA. TECH CONCERT

Bach, Shaw Group Enliven Gospel

By JOHN CALE
Staff Critic

Bach's religious oratorio, "The Passion According to St. John," reveals that composer's grasp of the simple truths of the Bible set to some of the most complex musical forms ever devised.

The Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra matched skills with the early 18th Century composer to bring a well-nigh faultess rendition of the work to the Louisiana Tech audience Friday. Another performance is scheduled for tomorrow at 2:15 p.m.

At a time when many serious performers are prone to consider the field of lighter entertainment to "reach" the audience, conductor Shaw has adhered to the most serious compositions in the field of music. Thus his problem — or challenge — is to create a performance which in itself convinces the listeners such a composition can live up to its reputation.

LESSON

Robert Shaw conducted his musicians as if Bach's life depended on it. The result was—through all the complex instrumental and vocal webbing — a Sunday School lesson as simply stated as if Bach had been teaching it to his many children.

There were some points of the continuity which bore the stamp of "the old way of doing things" musically speaking. Several of the vocal solos followed a long form typical of the 18th century. The excessive repititions and coloratura lines may have caused interest to sag for some.

Yet the word inflections in the recitatives, the use of instrumental choirs — even with "extinct" instruments, and Bach's unforgettable chorales are as fitting now as the day they were written.

Thomas Paul's handling of the lines spoken by Jesus can best be described as appropriate. A Bass, Paul sang the part with simplicity, dignity and authority. Many latter day composers have grappled with the words of Christ and the prophets and have fallen into poetic pitfalls or musical currents which seem to run shallow.

SOLOISTS

Noteworthy also were solos by Benita Valente, soprano; Florence Kopløff, contralto; Jon Humphrey, tenor; Gene Boucher, bass; Robert Davis as Pontius Pilate, and Henry Nason as the narrator.

Refreshing rather than archaic were uses of the old instruments of Bach's day. One woodwind choir was made up of a flute, oboe d'amore (alto) and English horn. The cellist alternated with a smaller viola da gamba on occasions. And one bass aria was accompanied by a gentleman playing the lute. We though those had taken the name of the "dulcimer" and retired to the mountains of Tennessee and Kentucky generations ago.

ON URBAN AFFAIRS

SAMO On Record Against New Post

The Southwide Association of Municipal Officials went on record in Birmingham, Ala., Saturday in stating their opposition of the proposed creation by President John Kennedy of a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing which is before Congress now.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard, president of the association, said last night after returning from the meeting, that the opposition was abased on the minority report of the committee on government operations presented by U.S. Senators McClelland, Mundt, Curtis and Ervin.

The 40-man board of directors of SAMO, representing 10 Southern states, in a called session, stated that "it does endorse and support the minority report of the committee on government operations . . . in opposition to the creation of the Department of Urban Affairs and Housing."

The board also resolved to send a copy of the resolution to each member city of the Association and to each Congressman and Senator of the U.S. Congress.

They also approved and passed a resolution commending Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia for his stand in matters concerning the national debt, and urging him to continue his "fight for fiscal responsibility and a balanced budget."

The first resolution pointed out that the minority report said that a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing would "absorb the functions of the existing housing and home finance agency," and many other agencies in the field of housing.

The minority report opposes the creation of such a department, and the resolution adopted by SAMO said "the inevitable result of the creation of such an agency would be to shift responsibility for the solution of municipal problems from the local level to the federal level, and whereas the competition for the tax dollar for municipal improvements would tend to force local municipal officials into conformity with the programs of the reigning political party and would thus bring the influence of the Washington scene into even greater play in the every day lives of the citizens of our communities and where as the tendency to look beyond local resources and city hall for the solution to our local problems would be encouraged and whereas such a move would be another step in the ever pyramiding structure of a bureaucratic state now," the resolution will be adopted by SAMO.

The board also set up a committee to select a site for the annual convention to be held in September. The committee will invite cities who wish to bid for the annual convention to contact the board.

Negro Is Booked In Theft; Police Probe Incident

A Negro man was booked for theft last night by Monroe police who are also investigating the report of a purse which was snatched from the hand of a woman on DeSiard Street last night.

Chief James C. Kelly said that Mack Will, 39, Negro of 200 North 10th St., was booked for theft in connection with the theft of a radio from a car at C & M Motors at 112 Powell Ave., on Feb. 7.

The radio, valued at $20, was reported stolen from the vehicle as it was parked at the business establishment. The report was made by Jack Cannon at 2212 Dianne St.

Under investigation is the theft of a purse from the hand of Negro woman Maureen Belton of 1706 Hollywood Dr., Monroe.

The Belton woman told officers that what appeared to be an 11-or 12-year - old Negro boy snatched her purse from her hand as she walked down DeSiard Street around 8 p.m.

It was described as a red suede purse with a gold chain-type handle and contained various cosmetics along with her billfold contained $11 in cash.

Leesville Gets A Big Boost For Freedom

By SMILEY ANDERS
Oil Editor
The Shreveport Times

LEESVILLE, La. (AP) — For over 20 years the fortunes of this west-central Louisiana community have been dependent on the U. S. Army.

Ft. Polk, the giant military installation on the outskirts of the Vernon Parish town, has played a major role in the economy of Leesville. But too often the fort has meant economic disaster to the neighboring civilians.

Built in 1941 as Camp Polk, the installation has closed four times since then, the last time in 1959. Each closure has meant the sudden withdrawal of thousands of soldiers from Leesville, and a sharp dip in business.

When the fort opened again last year, the people of the town, which has a normal population of about 5,000, vowed that they would be prepared for another shut-down.

Last month the population of Leesville, and Vernon Parish, was given a big boost toward freedom from dependence on Ft. Polk.

An oil company brought in a wildcat gas well less than 20 miles southwest of Leesville, the first producing well in the parish. Until that time, Vernon was one of only four Louisiana parishes with no oil or gas production. (The other three, all in southeast Louisiana, are East and West Feliciana and St. Helena).

In addition to this well, two other deep test wells were also being drilled last week in the parish. And a number of oil firms have leased a major part of the parish's 870,000 acres for future exploration.

The gas well was the Pan American Petroleum Corp.'s No. 1 Lutcher-Moore, drilled in the pine forest owned by Lutcher-Moore Lumber Co. Its estimated production is eight million cubic feet of gas and 50 to 100 barrels of gas condensate per day.

The well came in suddenly while the drillers were testing the Wilcox sand at a depth of 11,622-38 feet.

The main concern to the people in the area is the fact that the oil and gas industry is at last interested in their parish.

Mayor F. E. Hernandez, also a merchant, said, "We're glad to have this gas discovery so close to our town. This well will help to bring money into Leesville, and will benefit our citizens in that manner.

"The discovery wasn't noticed as much as it might have been here, because right now we're all concerned about the activation of Ft. Polk. And so far the greatest benefit has been from money paid local residents for oil and gas rights. This lease money has been spent in Leesville, and it's helped us."

Bank president Robert Shaver estimated that the lease activity of last summer brought about $500,000 to the parish. He believes the discovery will have a decided effect on the town.

Shaver said the government and the large lumber companies own about 80 per cent of Vernon's acreage, and this will keep the royalty benefits to private citizens at a low level.

There's no oil boom yet, and it's doubtful that there ever will be a full-scale boom in Vernon Parish. But with a new industry eyeing the parish, the people here are apt to be less apprehensive about the future.

They probably still won't be able to accept the closing of Ft. Polk, when and if it comes, with a shrug. But next time it may not mean an economic collapse.

Opposition Seen In Jena Election

JENA (Special) — At 5 p.m. Saturday, deadline for qualifying for the Democratic primary, all incumbent officials were seeking re-election and all were opposed with the exception of Marshal Ed McClure.

In the April 7 primary, Mayor O. N. Edwards will be opposed by E. W. Plumer. The four incumbent aldermen, James Hodges, Virgil Terral, J. M. Walker, and R. L. Keene, are opposed by five candidates who include Tommy Drewett, J. E. Cammack, Bill Brasher, Jimmy Humphries and Jimmy Wallace.

Board Organizes Study Of Needs

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University board Saturday authorized a study to evaluate needs and academic goal at the LSU branch in New Orleans.

The board also approved a study of failures and drop-outs at LSU, first study of its kind started in 15 years.

Chairman John A. Hickman of the faculty and studies committee told the board, "With four years of enrollment completed, the university administration feels that it is now time to consider the purposes of LSU in New Orleans in the light of student population, trends in registration, of community needs and of its ultimate relation to a university system."

Fire Damages Track Quarters

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A fire roared through the jockeys' quarters at the Fair Grounds racetrack here early Saturday, but there were no injuries and the usual afternoon race program was run off.

Howard Dey, superintendent of the fire department, estimated damage of $25,000, mostly in the jockeys' exercise and steam room. Silks and boots, in an adjoining locker room on the second floor of the two-story building, were damaged by water and smok There was some water damage in the track administration offices on the ground floor.

Dey said the cause of the blaze was under investigation.

District Solon Predicts Defeat Of Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (Special) — Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman Saturday expressed his belief that the Kennedy administration will be unsuccessful in its efforts to create a new Department of Urban Affairs, with Cabinet-level status.

"Members of the House of Representatives from the South will stand practically solid in the fight against this reorganization move of the President's," he predicted, "and if the Republicans hold firm in their declared opposition to the plan, we can defeat it."

He stated that Kennedy's point in wanting to create this new Cabinet post was "entirely political," declaring that he wants to be in a position to proclaim himself as the first President ever to appoint a Negro Cabinet secretary.

"Mr. Kennedy is following his regular line of appealing to the minorities," he said, "not necessarily because of his personal interest in them, but for reasons of political expediency."

Congressman Passman charged that such a new department in the executive branch would be "another big and damaging step toward centralization of power in Washington."

"It would tighten the federal government's — and therefore, the administration's — control over America's cities," he asserted, "and the cities in the long run, having to look to Washington for guidance and support, would necessarily be the losers, and not the gainers.

"Besides" he added, "we have already got far too many federal departments and bureaus, and there is surely no need for increasing and strengthening the bureaucracy in this instance, while at the same time further diminishing the sovereignty of our states."

Former Head Of Legion Raps Powers

NEW YORK (UPI)— A former national commander of the American Legion said Saturday he still thinks Francis Gary Powers "served his country badly" and is a "weak American."

The Legionnaire, Newburgh, N.Y., attorney Martin M. McKneally, applied those labels to Powers after his spy trial, and reasserted his position when questioned by a reporter.

"He disowned his mission," McKneally said. "He said things prejudicial to the interests of his country. As a matter of fact, it's interesting to note that Col. Rudolph Abel said nothing."

McKneally said Powers' mission was an honorable one. "I was one American extremely happy to think that our administration was using all of the methods that it could find to locate strategic bases of the enemy," he said.

McKneally, head of the Legion in 1960, said he would have to study the record before expressing an opinion on whether Powers should be charged with misconduct upon his return to the United States.

"I have no right to rule on the merits of trading Powers for Abel," he continued. "A fruitful relationship between Russia and the United States is being hampered by fundamental differences in idealogy and the Soviet's imperialistic designs, and Powers' release will not affect the situation one jot."

McKneally said "a very large number of people" feel as he does about Powers' trial testimony.

Hope Wanes On Survivors Of Airplane

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Hope dimmed steadily Saturday for any survivors among the seven man crew of a U.S. Air Force tanker plane that crashed in flames into the Atlantic Ocean off Bermuda Friday.

A small armada of Navy ships and small boats combed the waters where the giant six-engined jet-and-piston KB50 went down about six miles south of Kindley Air Force Base.

Radio operators at Kindley said they thought they may have heard a "we're bailing out" from the plane's radio. But a U.S. Air Force spokesman said sea search parties found only articles of clothing and pieces of wreckage floating on the ocean thus far.

Officials said the tanker plane apparently exploded while coming in for a landing at Kindley. Eyewitnesses said they heard an explosion and saw a ball of flame plunge into the sea.

The air force spokesman said the plane was on a refueling mission for jet fighters crossing the Atlantic. It was attached to the 622nd Air Refueling Squadron at England Air Force Base in Louisiana.

A spokesman at the Louisiana base identified the crew as Capt. Roman J. Pallow, 38, St. Cloud, Minn.; Capt. John B. Tracy Jr., 25, Syracuse, N.Y.; Capt. Gaines G. Wilbanks, 30, Decatur, Ga.; Sgt. 1-C E. P. Horton, 36, who entered the Air Force at Memphis, Tenn.; Airman 3-C Ralph E. Reutzel, 19, Fremont, Neb.; and Airman 1-C Guy Powell.

Germans Mourn 287 Victims Of Mine Disaster

LUISENTHAL, Germany (UPI) —Germany was united in sorrow Saturday as it mourned the 287 victims of its worst mine disaster since 1946.

As church bells rang out over the Saarland, West German president Heinrich Luebke told 5,000 persons at a televised mass funeral at the mine that the entire German people was grief-stricken.

The coffins of the identified victims of Thursday's disaster were lined up in long rows during the open air services. They were later taken to the 52 hometowns of the victims by army units.

The official death toll was still listed as 287, including 20 unidentified bodies which will be buried in a mass grave. But the toll was expected to rise. An estimated 10 to 15 bodies were still believed in a collapsed shaft near the disaster site.

Vice chancellor Ludwig Erhard and minister Christoph Seebohm also attended the funeral.

The Papal representative to Bonn, Archbishop Jean Baptist Bafile, and protestant church officials attended, as well as high ranking officers of the German, French and American armed forces.

In East Berlin, delegates to the seventh congress of the Society of German - Soviet Friendship observed a minute of silence for the miners, the east German news agency ADN reported.

Ellender Hasn't Quit In Effort To Curb Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Loser again in his annual effort to curb funds for Senate investigating subcommittees, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Saturday he isn't giving up.

Ellender made a virtual one-man fight on the Senate floor a few days ago in opposition to resolutions appropriating $3,977,000 to finance the various subcommittees.

"I was only sorry that I was not able to generate additional support from my colleagues so that we might have secured a real decrease in spending," Ellender said in a talk for radio and TV broadcast in Louisiana.

"Believe me," he added, "it is frustrating. . .to note how taxpayers' money is wasted on Capitol Hill."

40-Car Freight Train Derailed

ALEXANDER CITY, Ala. (UPI) —Forty cars of a Central of Georgia freight train — including two filled with butane gas—derailed three miles north of here Saturday.

No one was injured and fire and police officials along with the highway patrol roped off the area around the gas-filled cars, fearing a spark would cause the volatile liquid to explode.

Wrecker crews began immediate clearing operations shortly after sunrise but it was doubtful the tracks would be open to traffic for several days.

RULING DUE LATER

Court To Study Meredith Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals took under advisement Saturday a request by James Meredith, a 29-year-old Negro, for an injunction that would admit him to the all-white University of Mississippi.

Meredith's attorneys asked the injunction pending an appeal on U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize's ruling that Meredith was not denied admission to the university on racial grounds.

Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle promised the court would rule "promptly" as Meredith, of Kosciusko, Miss., sought admission to Mississippi's current semester, for which registration ends Thursday. He is scheduled to graduate from Jackson State (Negro) College this June.

Meredith's attorneys said an appeal would normally take several months. They argued that unless the court admits Meredith now, the entire matter would become "moot."

Attorneys for the state of Mississippi, however, argued that the Air Force veteran could prevent the case from becoming moot by dropping out of Jackson State before his final term starts next month.

The hearing, originally set for 1 a.m., was delayed for four hours by the late arrival of Judge Tuttle and Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, New York Negro counsel for Meredith. The hearing lasted nearly three hours.

In addition to the request for an injunction, Meredith's attorneys have appealed Judge Mize's ruling, handed down last Saturday in Jackson, Miss.

The court also agreed that in order to issue the injunction it would have to agree that Meredith had been denied admission on racial grounds and that he was qualified for admission now.

Sitting in the case besides Judge Tuttle were Judges Richard T. Rives of Montgomery, Ala., and John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans.

Mrs. Motley conducted the entire argument for Meredith. For Mississippi, assistant Atty. Gen. Edward Cates conducted the bulk of argument, assisted by special assistant Atty.Gen. Charles Clark. State Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson summed up the state's case.

Mrs. Motley argued that "unless this relief is granted, this appeal will be meet." She insisted that her client would suffer "irreparable harm" if he is not admitted since he would lose his right to obtain a degree from the university.

She charged that four Negroes who had told the district court in an affadavit they had lied when the certified Meredith's good character, changed their statements "out of fear." She said they were not brought to testify because it would delay a decision in the case.

Cates later denied any pressure had been brought on the four. He said they "were not coerced in any way."

She agreed with defense charges that Meredith is a "trouble maker" but said he was one "in the good sense" because "he is against the whole system" of segregation in Mississippi.

Cates was interrupted frequently by questions from the three judges. He repeated the assertion made in the district court trial that "there is no written or otherwise policy, practice or custom of limiting the university to any race."

Clark said argued the court had no "original jurisdiction" in the request for an injunction but agreed that the appellate body had the power to issue the injunction in the case would otherwise become moot.

Pointing out that Meredith's education would be delayed by his admission to Mississippi, since some of his credits from Jackson State might not be accepted, he suggested Meredith drop out of school at the end of the present semester to await disposition of his appeal.

He said the plaintiff was trying "to moot this case." Judge Tuttle said every delay in the case so far had been asked by the state, not by Meredith.

Patterson said issuance of the injunction would mean the court felt (1) that Judge Mize's decision was erroneous; (2) that the university's trustees acted in bad faith; (3) that Meredith was fully qualified; (4) that the four Negro witnesses had lied on their affidavits; and (5) that the four Negroes were intimidated and coerced.

In indicating a swift decision was likely, Judge Tuttle noted that "passage of time may deny him the right he may ultimately be entitled to."

The same three ujdges ruled last month against Meredith's appeal for an injunction before the trial of the case on its merits.

Tshombe Says U.S. Refuses Visa For Visit

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—President Moise Tshombe said Saturday American authorities have told him he would not be welcome in the United States at present. He had hoped to go to receive a "Freedom Award" from American supporters.

Tshombe told newsmen the U.S. consul here, Lewis Hoffacker, had passed on to him verbally the American government's view.

"This is equivalent to a refusal [illegible] me the entry visa which I [illegible] requested," Tshomb esaid.

He added there was no truth [illegible] reports that he had been refused a visa because of trouble over documents.

"My request for a visa was properly made last pril 21 at the U.S. consulate general in Elisabethville," Tshombe said.

Deputies Trek To Get Prisoner

Two deputies of the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department are leaving today to transfer a prisoner from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to the parish jail.

J. C. Rhodes, recently arrested in Hollywood, Fla., will be returned to Ouachita Parish to face charges of theft. He is charged with the theft of a watch valued at $125 from a West Monroe jeweler.

First Termite Swarm Of Season Occurs In Monroe

Henry Cohn, Mgr., and Owner of Arrow Pest Control Co., was called upon Tuesday, Feb. 6, to identify a horde of swarming insects in a Monroe home kitchen. These insects proved to be termites in their swarming stage. Mr. Cohn says this is the earliest he ever recalls seeing a termite swarm in his 12 years experience in this field. Home owners can avoid costly damage caused by termites by watching for flying insects, especially in Spring and early Summer, which might prove to be termites.

For free identification of insects and, or free termite inspections—call Mr. Cohn—Arrow Pest Control Co., Phone No. 373-1721.—Adv.

Steel Pact Talks To Get Early Start

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel contract talks will be getting off to one of the earliest starts this Wednesday in an atmosphere of union-management cordiality.

Both sides have asserted they intend to strive for a settlement well before present pacts expire June 30.

This promise is in response to a plea by President Kennedy, who considers a speedy agreement vital to the nation's economic well-being.

The President fears, that the longer the situation is muddled, the more steel users will be building inventories as a hedge against a possible strike.

He views this as potentially detrimental to the over-all economy as steel customers would live off stockpiles and mill production would slump once a settlement came.

Negotiations will be held in Pittsburgh between the United Steelworkers and 11 major producers, employing the bulk of the estimated 430,000 basic steelworkers now working.

The basic steel agreement also is expected to serve as a pattern for bargaining later in behalf of an additional half-million USW members in other industries, chiefly aluminum and steel fabricating.

The last steel negotiations in 1959 didn't get under way until April 30. Two and one-half months later the steelworkers went on strike. The nation's mills lay idle for 116 days.

In three days of conferences last week, union officials spelled out in broad terms their contract goals. Most observers thought the program temperate in comparison with the one presented in 1959.

Heading the list of goals are increased job security and improved unemployment benefits. Specific ways of achieving these aims are to be thrashed out at the bargaining table.

The union also cited a need for higher wages, but observers don't feel this will be a paramount issue. Basic steelworkers now earn between $2.28½ and $4.38½ an hour, depending on job classification.

MAIN STREET IN LOUISIANA BEGINS HERE

Yes, the progress and economic health of every Louisiana village town and city Main Street begins at the remotest tip of a member-owned Electric Cooperative's power line.

Agriculture, forestry and rural natural resources out-value the combined assets of all other businesses in our great State. Every foot of the 25,000 miles of Electric Co-op lines in rural Louisiana is a pathway to Progress—helps insure continued development, more jobs, better living, improved technology and the prosperity of both Town and Country.

Somewhat like millions of FHA and VA-financed home-owners, the Electric Co-ops borrowed REA funds, at interest, simply because there was no other way to provide rural electricity for ALL rural people at reasonable rates. While repaying the loans ahead of schedules, the Electric Co-ops are building a better tomorrow for every citizen of our State.

That's why it is so important that these home-owned private enterprises be protected by fair and just LEGISLATION from invasions and needless line duplication by those who belatedly see visions of profits on the rural horizon.

Only non-profit Electric Co-ops can serve ALL rural people with rates ALL can afford. This is so important to both Town and Country progress.

Tax Collections In State May Hit $50 Million

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' fiscal ofifcer said Saturday night the state should collect at least $50 million of the $62 million increase in state revenues he had predicted for this fiscal year.

Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily said this would depend partly upon the April 11 mineral lease sale since the budget expects $27 million from this source.

As for the difference between the $62 million budget-estimated increase in state revenues, and the $50 million increase he now expects, Reily said the $12 million loss should be erased by the five per cent holdback in appropriations originally set up in the current budget.

Reily took part in a televised panel on state fiscal affairs, sponsored by the Association of Louisiana Chambers of Commerce (ALCC). On the panel with Reily were Claude Duval of Houma, ALCC president; executive director Edward J. Steimel of the Public Affairs Research Council, and Donald M. Ewing, Associate Editor of The Shreveport Times.

Reily predicted a $30 million to $40 million increase in state revenues for next fiscal year "and therefore I'm not going to panic."

Earlier in the week, State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell warned he might have to shut down the state general fund March 15 because he has been forced to tap special funds for $110 million to pay monthly state obligations. Tugwell said he would have to start repaying those funds during the windup of this fiscal year.

ESTIMATING TIMBER in the bottomlands of Union Parish, Paul White, forester for Union Producing Co., of Monroe, records what he sees. This was a "breakthrough" timber estimate in that horses were used for speed and accuracy—for the first time in 30 or 40 years. "Red," a young horse with quarterhorse blood, was trained by White for the job. (Staff photos by Sam Hanna)

CRUISING ON HORSEBACK is a new approach for foresters conducting timber estimates. Paul White (right) and Vance Reitzell of Union Producing Co. make time galloping through the Monroe Field in Union Parish. They finished the survey in 30 calendar days—a job that would have taken them three or four months on foot. The riding foresters spent 180 hours in the saddle.

Conveyance For Timber Estimators

Horses Speed Survey

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Paul White and Vance Reitzell just finished cruising 20,000 acres in 30 days.

Sounds impossible, but these two foresters for Union Producing Co. at Monroe, in a month of working days, conducted a timber survey that would have taken three or four months on foot.

They did it on horseback.

FIRST IN YEARS

It marked the first time horses have been used in this area for estimating timber in many years.

"I don't know of any real systematic use of horses for this kind of work in the past 30 or 40 years," explained the boss, Chief Forester J. S. (Scott) McWilliams, in his Monroe office.

McWilliams, a 22-year forestry veteran with degrees from Purdue and Duke, knows his business.

Prior to the saddle work of Paul White and Vance Reitzell, horses, according to Scott McWilliams, hadn't been used extensively since the South's "timberlookers" rode horseback a half of a century ago during the preforester era.

While the purpose of their survey was to give Union Producing Co. an estimate of the timber it owns in Union Parish, the horseback cruise may have pioneered a "breakthrough" in forestry.

SPEED, ACCURACY

It meant speed for Paul and Vance and accuracy for the company.

"I've worked on jobs similar to this one in size that took us all summer long working everyday," explained White.

Begining in early October, the riding foresters bucked rain, cold weather and backwater to complete the job in late December—after 30 calendar days and a total of 180 hours in the saddle.

"The reason we used horses is for speed," Vance said. "You can cover it a lot faster. And it's a lot nicer to ride than to walk."

Of course the terrain has much to do with whether horses can be used. Some of the jungle-like backcountry of Louisiana is too tough.

But in this case the bottomlands of Union Parish were ideal. Located on the banks of the Ouachita River from north of Sterlington all the way to the Arkansas line, the tract of land surveyed on horseback is made up mainly of hardwood timber with a cypress brake thrown in every now and then.

"There was not much underbrush," Paul pointed out.

NOT EASY

Still in all, the job the Union Producing foresters performed was not an easy task. It entailed the talents of men who could make their own way in the woods. They had to be foresters, horsemen and woodsmen — all wrapped up in one.

Both men fit the role perfectly.

Paul is a tall, ruddy-complexioned man of 33 who grew up in Catahoula Parish where he learned to ride, camp and hunt. He obtained a forestry degree from Louisiana State University. He has a wife and three children.

His partner, Vance, a husky 25-year-old forester, has a similar background. He was a boy in Caldwell Parish where he too learned the outdoors. A Louisiana Tech graduate, Vance is married also.

And each man is a pretty good hand around a camp, and a good thing, too, since they spent several nights in the woods.

They were up early on the days of the cruise work loading the horses into a two-horse trailer hauled by a half-ton truck, then heading to the bottomlands.

CAMPED OUT

Once in the woods, a normal saddle day consisted of six hours riding, from 10:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Often, when the day's end left them deep in the woods, they camped out at the truck and trailer to save time the next day.

There they would make camp, pour a cup of water in the beans, fry the bacon and boil a pot of coffee, eat, bed the horses down and then turn in for the night with nothing but the stars up above and the hoots of the owls in the air.

But, beyond the flicker of the campfire, thousands of acres of timber waited to be surveyed. With winter coming on and the backwater already rising, the foresters, Paul and Vance, didn't waste any time going to sleep.

They had work to do and plenty of it.

While speed was important, as it is in any job these jet age days, Paul and Vance would have never saddled a horse if a system hadn't been devised to conduct the survey accurately.

This was done in the office, as all Union Producing surveys are pre-planned.

MORE CONSISTENT

"We found that the horse is more consistent with his gait than a man is," McWilliams explained.

Before the foresters went out on the first saddle cruise, they gaited the horses to determine the pace. Red, a young horse trained by Paul for the job, and Peanut, a brown-colored pro of the woods with quarterhorse blood in his veins, were put over a course and by the time the preparations were complete, the foresters knew, almost to the inch, the amount of footage covered by each step of the horse.

"After working this out, we simply counted the horse's step," Paul said. "Everytime he put his right front foot down, I counted. Then I knew how far I had gone. Vance worked it the same way."

Working on this system, the foresters could stop after so many hoof-steps to make an estimate. Using a wedge prism, Vance and Paul selected the trees to count from horseback.

The wedge prism was used because it is adaptable to horseback, since with this instrument it is not necessary to measure the distance to trees measured or to measure land areas.

ASSORTMENT

Oaks, cypress, gum, hickory, but mostly oak, made up the stand of timber with a few scattered pines on the edge of the bottoms.

"Git up, boy," Vance would shout, nudging his horse in the flanks as the riding foresters pushed on.

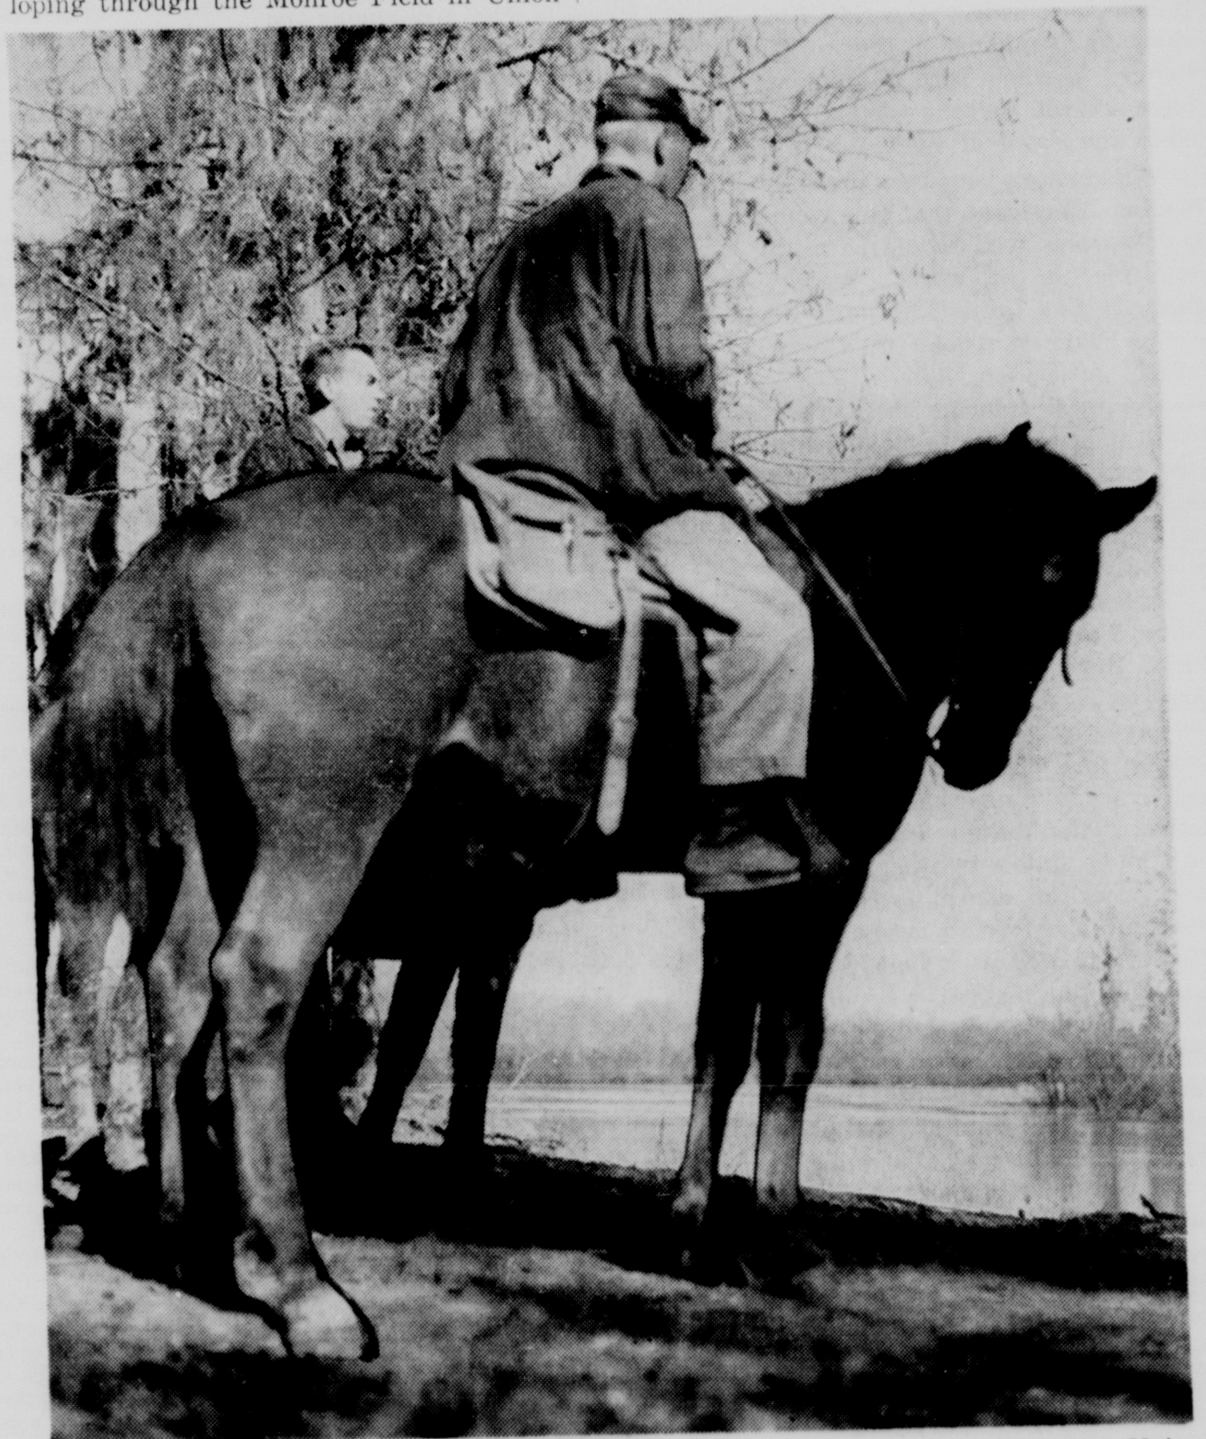
A day or so later, back in the comforts of the Monroe office at the main United Gas building (Union Producing is a wholly-owned subsidiary of United Gas Corporation), Vance and Paul would sit down to compile their estimates. And from this, Union Producing Co. would know within reasonable limits, what its forestry assets are in a country once known only for gas production.

The company could make a decision with its timber plans.

But for Paul White and Vance Reitzell, with Scott McWilliams calling the shots from the office, it was just the beginning.

Cut off by backwater from the last, but small portion of timberland to be surveyed in the Union bottomlands, they saddled up, then struck out into Lefourche Swamp in Richland Parish to estimate another strip of timber.

It didn't take them long. They did it on horseback!



THE OUACHITA RIVER provides a fitting scene to pause and see for foresters Paul White (foreground) and Vance Reitzell, who just completed a timber survey on horseback in Union Parish. Foresters normally estimate timber on foot, but Union Producing Co., under Chief Forest Scott McWilliams, approached the job with a new, but old-fashioned method. Saddle up!

Sickly Lion Venture Basis

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Take a sickly mountain lion and $50. Toss in an old typewriter, add determination and stir with enthusiasm.

Then, says Dale Logston, "work like hell."

With these unusual ingredients, Logston, blind since childhood, has built an international wild animal import and export business.

"Five years ago I was jobless. I had about $50 and a sick little mountain lion given me by a Tulsa zoo.

HOCKED TYPEWRITER

"I came to Fort Worth, put $50 down on a house and hocked my old college typewriter for $35. I cured the mountain lion and traded him to the Central Texas Zoo in Waco. In return, I got 35 rattlesnakes, a dozen great horned owls, a few miscellaneous animals like raccoons and skunks and some hawks.

"I sat down and wrote a dozen people I knew who fool with these things and I made the price so cheap they had no alternative but to buy.

"I wound up with $300.

"To supplement things, I put my wife to work for two years. We got things rolling pretty good and now, well, I can't complain."

Why should we? Logston's Animals International supplies zoos in many cities in the United States and Canada as well as such circuses as Clyde Beatty's and Gil Gray's.

Logston struck out on his own into the wild animal business because, as he says, "I couldn't get a job in a zoo.

LOST EYESIGHT

"When I was 3, I lost my eyesight because of illness. My father would bring me small animals to play with and I guess you might say they were my only companions much of the time.

"I can't explain it, but I enjoy animals more than most people who can see them. By sound, touch and patience I can tell many things about them."

Logston has a touch with animals. He's only been in serious trouble with snakes. Two rattlers have bitten him as well as two copperheads, one of which was a pet that some one alarmed while Logston was holding it.

He's had more problems from un-understanding humans.

"The neighbors got kinda tired of antelope and the sort roaming around their lawns."

One woman gazed in terror as an anteater ambled into the yard where her daughter was playing. One of Logston's chimpanzees startled another housewife by walking in the kitchen door as she was cooking dinner.

Nine of his pet crowd scattered a nearby picnic, a bobcat played too actively for a visiting minister, and a bathtub full of baby alligators gave a female visitor near hysterics.

Needless to say the neighbors finally called the zoning board.

"I can't blame them," said Logston. "I'd probably complain, too, if I had a neighbor like me."

The zoning board gave Logston until next summer to relocate.

Since then, Logston has been boarding some of his animals at a friend's farm and others at a zoo he owns in Mesa, Ariz.

Logston, a sturdy, quick-witted man, was born 30 years ago in Bigelow, Mo. He attended the Missouri School for the Blind in St. Louis and St. Joseph's (Mo.) Junior College but admits, "I spent too much time in the local zoos."

THEN SUCCESS

When he found he couldn't get a zoo job, he started a trained bear act which fizzled. So did a pet shop in Bartlesville, Okla. Then came the sick mountain lion he parlayed into his present career.

Logston does most of his business by wire, but a year ago toured the world buying up animals.

His only close pet is Hugo, a weatherbeaten Chesapeake retriever. "He's not worth 25 cents but I wouldn't take million dollars for him."

Logston's house looks like any other in the residential neighborhood except for the occasional squeal of a bird or the howl of a wild animal.

QUESTION

"How about a Siberian lynx or a snow leopard? Maybe an Indian elephant or an African lion? A water buffalo, a skunk or a Malayan tapir? Or if you like snakes how about ordering a king cobra or a redtail boa constrictor?"

A wild screeching came from outside.

Hypothetical Talk

Doomsday Devices

EDITOR'S NOTE — Mankind has debated furiously for centuries on the question, how did the earth begin? As a sign of the times, it's interesting to note that the old argument rapidly is being overtaken by a new one: How will the earth end?

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — As if super H-bombs, and possible death rays, were not fearful enough, there's now talk of doomsday machines.

Entirely hypothetical talk, as yet. And there's no evidence anyone is planning to build one.

But the ideas are spine-chilling, nevertheless. For the horrendous has merged more and more with reality in the last few years, and who can tell what's ahead?

There are several iffy formulas for building doomsday machines. One involves meddling with the cosmos so that an asteroid, a little planet, would be pushed out of its orbit and sent careening into the earth with continent-busting force.

CONCEPT

This concept was recently discussed by Dandridge M. Cole of General Electric's missile and space vehicle department, in a report to the American Astronautical Society.

Essential would be a really big rocket, of the kind expected to be ready after 1970. With the aid of this rocket, a number of hydrogen bombs would be exploded behind as asteroid orbiting between the earth and Mars.

The asteroid — so the theory goes—would be propelled out of its orbit and hit the earth with the force of several million megaton-type H-bombs.

The victim country, Cole thinks, might believe it was a natural catastrophe, and wouldn't know where to pin the blame, or where to strike back with its retaliatory force—if it had any left.

"If it is assumed," Cole said, "that the Russians would like to obliterate the United States and run little risk of retaliation, then they would reasonably consider the use of (an) asteroid for this purpose."

A somewhat less earth-shaking recipe for a doomsday machine runs as follows: Take a sort of hydrogen bomb, containing 1,000 tons of heavy water. Wrap around it a blanket of sodium, the common, cheap element that is in your table salt.

Back your submarine off—way off—and detonate the barge by remote control. The neutrons from the blast make the sodium radioactive; it becomes sodium-24.

'Food For Freedom' Plan

One of the best proposals ever submitted for counteracting Russian propaganda in the cold war and for making some valuable use of our present give-away program was made by Cal D. Johnson of Upper Marlboro, Md., former member of Congress, when he spoke in Monroe recently at the annual meeting of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce. Johnson offered a plan whereby whatever we donate in food to the so-called underprivileged nations would be distributed through the military service of the United States. He believes this system would carry more force and win more respect.

Concerning his program, the former congressman said:

"Have the military initiate a giant 'Food for Freedom' program utilizing present farm surpluses and starting with 1962 supplement the Program with approximately two billion dollars of military or foreign aid funds to purchase additional farm products over and above those originally purchased by the Department of Agriculture. This would permit the acquisition by the military of special foods to meet the needs of various religious or ethnic groups. It would also permit the military to order the production of products other than feed grains to supply various needs. The transfer of corn acreage to soybean production would materially help to remedy the world's food shortage as millions of the world's hungry to whom corn is unknown have known soybeans as a food since the dawn of history.

"Suggestions have been made by leading Americans that this country's surplus food should be made available to the world's hungry through the United Nations. I would suggest instead that we merely notify the United Nations of the total tonnage of various foods we are willing to make available, but let the United Nations act only as an allocating agency, setting the amount to be delivered to each respective country.

"I reemphasize, DO NOT let the United Nations distribute our products. Have every pound of food carried abroad by American ships, delivered by American Military Trucks, and distributed to the needy under the supervision of men clothed in the Military Uniform of the United States. In other words, have American armed forces approaching the foreign needy with a biscuit as well as a bullet, and thus build the image of a benefactor as well as a protector.

"I would also suggest that in every package of prepared food supplied by this country, that we enclose a minature plastic replica of the Statue of Liberty or an American Flag or a miniature Uncle Sam. Children would keep these and they would serve as a continuing underfoot reminder of American help. It is hightime that America starts getting credit for her generosity. The psychological effect of a program of this type would be enormous.

"If every American base overseas is a food distributing center, I cannot imagine any nation demanding that we remove that base as long as it is used to distribute food to needy of that country. In countries where there are no bases, establish military missions (with uniforms but without guns) to handle the distribution of all foods supplied by the United States. Men in uniforms of the United States distributing food to the needy countries will go a long way toward removing the stigma of "militarists" and "imperialists" so successfully applied to our Armed Forces by the Russians. That term just doesn't apply to a man giving you food for your needy family.

"No doubt the Russians would object to a program of this kind, as for the first time, it would put them in a position percentagewise where they have always belonged.

"To the total amount of food made available for allocation by the United Nations, it would probably be necessary for the United States to put up 95% with Russia and the rest of the world putting up the other 5%. If the Russians insisted upon initiating a program of this type of their own, it would be fine for us as we would be distributing nineteen (19) pounds to their one (1) pound.

"No doubt the charge will be made that we are destroying the markets of our allies, namely, Canada, Argentina and New Zealand. To meet this charge, I would suggest the following:

Insist that any country participating in the United Nations allocating program must purchase annually one-fifth of the total tonnage purchased during the past five years before they became eligible for additional assistance. This could be modified if it could be proven that economic changes within a country made this procedure impossible. This however, will be the problem of the United Nations, but my personal thought is that we should insist on the adoption of this Grandfather Clause in order to protect our allies. It should be our intention to assist the needy-not the greedy.

"In conclusion, the military of this country does things in a big way. We appropriate forty (40) to forty-three (43) billion dollars for defense, and food for a freedom program should definitely become a part of our military operation. Building good will among the people of the world is as important as manufacturing guns with which to subjugate them. Thus taking one to two billion dollars of this military or foreign aid appropriation and going to the American farmers asking them to produce instead of curtailing production, then distribute the results of their efforts to the world's needy would build unlimited good will throughout the world and restore confidence to the American farmers. There are 2,800,000,000 people in the world and 1,800,000,000 of them go to sleep each night having consumed less than 2,000 calories of food. Communism thrives on empty stomachs and 1,800,000,000 of them is a fertile field in which to propogate."

Not only does the proposal for supplying food and other aid through the military services give promise of being far more effective than anything ever devised heretofore but the proposal to have everything of this kind administered strictly by the United States military service, and not through any United Nations agency, is in line with true Americanism and democratic freedom and against one-worldism administered through the now communist-dominated United Nations.

Every member of the United States congress should give this proposal serious consideration.

Views Of Our Readers

Writes To Congressman

Monroe, La.

To the Editors:

Enclosed you will find copies of a letter that I wrote to Representative Passman and Senator Long and copies of their replies. This is pursuant to our recent telephone conversation.

I failed to mention on the phone how much I appreciate the effort you and your newspaper are making toward regaining constitutional government for our nation and would like to offer my services in any way possible in the furtherance of this aim.

I am an avid reader of your editorials and find myself in wholehearted agreement with the vast majority of them. My fervent hope is that our pleas will not be lost in the wilderness and that favorable action on a national and international level will someday occur.

Fred A. Marx, M. D.

Jan. 20, 1962

Congressman Otto E. Passman
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Dear Congressman Passman:

I should like to express my feelings relative to legislation soon to come before the Congress.

Mr. Kennedy and his Administration apparently look for advice to a select set of socialistically minded "experts" in their fields. Thus far, it seems to me, their judgement has led to great gains for the Soviet block of nations, and great losses for our own nation. Therefore, I feel tremendously more confident in the advice which Congress might give to Mr. Kennedy rather than the advice he might receive from his associates, as well as from himself. For this reason I am opposed to his manipulation of tariffs and the income tax as he wishes. This is the prerogative of the Congress and should not be usurped by any single person. If he is allowed to usurp these functions of the Congress, he will seek to usurp more and more until finally, I'm afraid, there will be no further need for a Congress. Or it might become an important body as we see in so many of the other nations in this world.

From previous correspondence you know that I am opposed to the King Anderson type legislation as being one step closer to government control of the people, eventually, in every facet of their lives.

Apparently the Administration intends to socialize the nation even more rapidly than it was at first thought when Mr. Kennedy was running for office. I believe that we were forewarned of his attitudes and this turn of events is actually no surprise to me. The thing that does surprise me, however, is the tremendous success that he seems to be having within the Congress and only through your efforts might we help stem the spending flood, veer away from Socialism and return the country to constitutional government. The best way that I might serve, as I see it, is to inform you of my attitude. I hope that it will be of some value.

Thanking you for your time and consideration, I remain

Fred A. Marx, M.D.

Dr. Fred A. Marx
417 Wood Street
Monroe, Louisiana

Dear Dr. Marx:

This will acknowledge your letter of January 20, giving me your views on various bills to be considered by the Congress this year and especially expressing your concern over the socialistic nature of many Administration proposals, for which I thank you very kindly.

I have read your letter with interest, and I am happy to assure you that I am in complete accord with your views. You may be sure that I shall oppose any bill or proposal which, in my opinion, would lead to socialization in any field, and this certainly includes the medical profession.

I am always happy to have your views and counsel on any matter of interest to you. It is a great honor to represent you in the Congress, and I want to again invite you to request of me any Congressional service which, in your wisdom, would be of benefit to our community and to our District.

Thank you again for your letter, and with kindest regards and best wishes.

Sincerely yours,
OTTO E. PASSMAN
Member of Congress

Dr. F. A. Marx

Monroe, La.

Dear Dr. Marx:

I appreciate having the expression of your views as set forth in your letter of January 20.

As you may know, I have opposed placing medical aid under the social security insurance system; and I know of nothing now that would cause me to change my views in this matter.

Our views concerning what "socialism" is may not be in accord. Actually, socialism refers to government ownership of industry and other means or production, including the railroads. I do not consider it to be socialism when we try to care for our needy and aged, to provide adequate housing for our citizens, to assist our farmers, to provide a living wage for our workers.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,
RUSSELL LONG.

Writes To Passman

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter sent to Congressman Otto Passman pertaining to the Department of Urban Affairs and Housing.

Letters were also sent to Senators Ellender and Long.

Sincerely,
C. W. COLVIN.

The Honorable Otto E. Passman,
M. C., House Office Building
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Representative Passman:

It is my understanding that the Department of Urban Affairs and Housing will become a cabinet level department within 60 days from January 30, 1962 unless it is defeated by a simple majority of either the House or Senate.

I hope that you will do everything in your power to see that this proposed department is defeated. I believe the time has arrived when Congress should be looking for ways to reduce federal controls, rather than ways of increasing them.

Let me give you an example of growth by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. HEW started out January 1, 1954, with a budget of $1,982,000,000 and 34,939 employes on its payroll. In January 1961 the number of employes had reached 65,433. The proposed 1963 budget for HEW is $5,183,000,000.

It looks to me as if the potential cost of operating a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing will be greater than that of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. When and where is the stopping point?

I hope to hear from you and what your position is on the proposed department. Thank you.

Sincerely yours,
C. W. COLVIN.

Denounces Communism

Dodson, La.

To the Editor:

Literally speaking, communism, scientific socialism is a strange new ideology, the most perplexing in the history of mankind; more arbitrary than Feudalism. Although Karl Marx is known as the author of communism the agitation for property reform may be traced to the Chaldeans and Babylonians, almost to the dawn of time. The Hebrew Patriarchs were communistically inclined. Communism itself is a patriarchal ideology; a dictatorship wherein one person is the exclusive ruler.

The "Republic of Plato," outlined an early conception of a communist society. Writers of other books dealing with an ideal commonwealth were St. Augustine, Sir Thomas More and others that recommended certain remedies for the evils of private ownership. Sir Thomas More for instance, portrayed the inhabitants of his "Utopia," living in a state of complete communism.

Karl Marx's conception of communism is the collective social ownership of material goods and the social control of the conduct of the individual in his relation to the economic group. Which he said is an inevitability. It's distinction from modern socialism is not clear.

When tenderness and compassion are excluded people are not easily suppressed. Marx didn't learn this, as his theory was only a theoretical contrivance he could not prove without experimentation which was an impossibility under extant conditions.

Logical materialims is a philosophical science that produces under one law one of the most universal swindles of nature, society and thought.

The father of modern socialism, as well as the most distinguished "Utopian," was Robert Owen, a wealthy English Manufacturer who devoted his life and fortune to establishing socialistic colonies in England and the United States.

During the 19th century various groups in the United States organized communistic societies. Among them were the Amana Society, the Doukhobors, Harmonists, Menonites, Mormons, Perfectionists and Shakers. They all came to nil, because as Karl Marx said, "they were not scientific."

In the United States, such distinguished Americans as Albert Brisbane, Horace Greely, and George William Curtis took part in the early socialistic movement.

Communism in Russia and the communist world is not pure Marxiam communism. Lenin learned by 1921 that pure Marxist communism will not work in practice, accordingly, he sounded his famous "economic retreat" to a modified system of state socialism under which the state remains in possession of all land, all natural resources, all industrial equipment, and all means of transit and distribution leaving the management of other economic departments to private enterprise.

Despite this retreat Russia and her satellites have become Police states. The citizens behind the Iron Curtain are not much better off than the slaves in the southern states prior to the civil war. In a way not as well off, because they are forced to subsist on a meager wage their communist bosses see fit to allow them while they are forced to work upon the jobs alloted to them under cruel task masters. Whereas the slave holder was responsible for the subsistence of his slaves.

It's amazing to watch the rising tide of communism with all its blood baths and hollow promises. But it is preying upon the more backward nations, and holding out golden promises of a classless society and equal rights for all to the more impoverished peoples. These people don't know they are being deceived until the shackles are on them, the cordon of steel has already been throw around them. Take Hungary for example and the blood bath Castro gave the antis in Cuba.

In the fact of all this none but the most intrepid ever defects, the more docile are already cowered and accept their plight, perhaps sullenly, for better or worse no matter how burdensome.

I'm reluctant to say it, but capitalism is largely responsible for the problem that confronts us today. What capitalism has not done is to prove that it can or will produce a system that promotes economic justice.

The classless society has never been, such a society is an utter impossibility, as such that's contrary to the laws of human nature.

Either a communistic or socialistic form of government without dictatorship, is as impossible as two hills without a hollow. That's why I'm not a communist.

J. P. Waller

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

In Sunday's paper I read about the difficulties that Mrs. Mary Van Landingham is having. Surely her ill health and financial condition will touch others, as it has me.

I would like to be among the first to donate to a Mary Van Landingham fund and I hope the response is sufficient and that this lady will be given peace of mind to face her ill health and make a quick recovery.

Some one has said "The greatest exercise for the human heart is to reach out and touch another person." Also other quotations fitting would be — "One of the great truths of this life is that it's impossible to help another human being without at the same time being helped yourself."

"Kindness to others is like putting perfume on some one else; you, yourself, enjoy it at the same time. And yet the greatest is—"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." (Bible)

Enclosed is my check for $10. May it start an avalanche of gifts from others.

Honorable Otto E. Passman
Member of Congress from Louisiana

Dear Mr. Passman,

I was selected out of 101 of my school-mates in the fifth grade of the Rayville Elementary School to write you how we feel about our government.

The 87th. Congress is just beginning, and we believe you will want to know how we stand on many things.

We thank you for doing such a good job for us. We hope you will keep up the way you have been fighting for us. We ask that our money be wisely and carefully spent, and that each state be given the right to manage its own business in such things as our schools. Please protect us from foreign countries who do not have the kind of government American people can live by.

I hope when you vote for some of the laws you will remember that what you do will affect each one of us and for that reason you will vote for the very best ones.

This, Sir, I believe you will do, for I am sure you love America just as we do.

The members of St. Francis Hospital Guild, and its president, Mrs. Bert Root, appreciate very much the fine publicity given us, the Pink Ladies and the Candy Stripers, recently. Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, recent CIO attorney, was architect of the plan which the President approved. President also held that he could achieve the union recognition by executive order. Union dues checkoff system, however, will require legislation which Congress may be reluctant to pass. With encouragement from President of United States, labor thinks recruitment of members in Government will be considerable. It will be a boost to Union Labor which has been losing strength to such an extent that the percentage of organized industry has dropped since 1945 from 38 per cent to only 32 per cent today.

THE CONSENSUS among Washington insiders about the President's sudden "astonishment" over defense stockpiles is that the administration has discovered a stockpile of political weapons that will come in handy in the battle for Congressional seats. This, of course, should be no surprise to anyone. It has been noted privately some weeks ago that "if a congressional committee ever gets into this stockpile business they'll be busy for years. Republicans are arming themselves for a juicy headline fight. One weapon they'll use is the Kennedy and Symington senatorial voting records on stockpiles. We understand it is a dilly ......

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW how to influence your Congressman? The key fact to keep in mind is that most congressmen are currently very susceptible to outside influences, simply because they don't know what the voters think about many new issues. More than most voters realize, a letter can have impact . , . providing it's intelligent, and does not look as if it's part of an organized pressure campaign. In writing don't promise or threaten ... the legislator will feel insulted at the suggestion he can be bought or threatened. Be careful to avoid sounding the least bit like a crank — for while cranks always get polite replies, their views don't register. Also remember there are two sides to each issue, and that a bill is seldom enacted in the form in which it was introduced ..

WE ARE THE OTHER PEOPLE

Federal aid is also Federal dictation.

If anybody had doubt of this fact, the doubt should have been removed by the decision of a New York Supreme Court on the efforts of Newburgh to reduce the cost of public welfare.

The court has made permanent an injunction prohibiting Newburgh from proceeding with an overhaul of the city's welfare program. The Newburgh plan, the court said, violates both state and Federal laws.

In other words, Newburgh cannot administer public welfare as it thinks it should be administered, it must administer it as Federal and state governments dictate. Since state welfare policies, Washington dictates the rules. It makes no difference that the Federal policies bring about a steady increase in welfare costs while the country is increasingly prosperous. Economy cannot be carried out by local action.

As the Wall Street Journal says, "He who accepts a gift from the government cannot exchange it later for something he may like better."

Newburgh's experience with welfare, we think it is quite obvious, would be repeated by any municipality that, in the interest of economy and of justice, tried to change the Federal rules applying to any program to which Federal funds are contributed.

This means that, to effect economy and justice locally, states and municipalities must either reject Federal aid or must strive to bring about revision of Federal policies.

When a state or municipality accepts Federal aid, it accepts other people's money. Therefore, it must expect that the other people will insist on a voice in how the money is spent. The "other people" theoretically express themselves through Washington. But all people are "other people," and nowhere are they more willing than the people of Newburgh to have their money spent unwisely.

Their fault is a form of blindness; they do not see that, since they too are "other people" their money is being misspent by unwise Federal policy.

The fundamental question raised by Newburgh's experience is: Will the people's eyes be opened to profligate Federal policies before submission to Federal rules has reduced the people to the level of vassals of bureaucrats?

JUST SO ONE OF THEM DOES

The following was penned by Jesse Helms of Raleigh, North Carolina:

We don't care which party balances the budget—just so one of them does.

We don't care which party calls a halt to the myraid of give-away programs which are nothing more than political footballs—just so one of them does.

We don't care which party honestly sets about a program of tax reduction—just so one of them does.

We don't care which party does something to prevent the further deterioration of the dollar—just so one of them does.

We don't care which party musters up the courage to confess to the people that so-called Federal aid, without Federal controls, is a myth and a delusion—just os one of them does.

We don't care which party first decides to stop playing politics with minority groups for the purpose of getting votes—just so one of them does.

We don't care which party is first to acknowledge that the salvation of this nation lies in a renewed faith in God, and a willingness on the part of all citizens to devote hard work, imagination and personal initiative to preserving our heritage.

These are cur beliefs. Whatever label they earn for—Democrat, Republican, Liberal, Conservative, reactionary, even super-patriot—we cheerfully accept.

THE POSTMAN MAY RING ONLY ONCE

The U. S. Post Office Department has selected a prosaic solution to a touchy problem. The problem is that dogs bite letter carriers — frequently and painfully. After 1957, a year in which more than 6,000 carriers were assaulted by canines, the department began warning the dogs' owners tp keep the mutts shut up. But this didn't work out too well. The warnings were sent by mail, which meant the postman had to run the gauntlet a second time before he could expect any action.

So s month ago it was decided to change the department's policy on dogs. And the American public, hearing of this, decided to suggest a few solutions. One man, who said he didn't hate dogs, suggested that the mailmen be given baseball bat-shaped walking canes, along with "permission to remove the offending dog's head right out from between his ears . . . " Another thinking citizen produced dogbite-proof pants made of aluminum. A third suggested that each letter carrier carry a cat, and, "when the dog attacks, turn the cat loose and while the dog is chasing the cat, the mailman can get his work done.

The department chose none of these suggestions. Under its new policy, which becomes effective on Jan. 13, if your dog bites a postman you will be informed(by telephone) that is you want your mail you'll have to come to the post office and pick it up.

This is, we reckon, the wisest solution. But in a way, we're a mite disappointed. We were beginning to look forward to seeing the monthly bills delivered a baseball bat in one hand, a cat under one arm and a ladder strapped to his back to be used in getting the cat back down from the nearest tree.

SLIDE SEQUENCE for a tape-recorded sound story can be arranged more easily when all the slides can be studied together. A sheet of frosted glass or plain glass covered with tracing paper makes an impromptu viewing table to sort, eliminate and edit the slides conveniently.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Camera fans who want something superspecial in their home slide shows can get it by capturing on-the-spot sounds as well as pictures. A portable, battery-operated tape recorder has become a camera accessory for many photographers to add the dimension of realistc sound to still pictures.

It is easy to visualize how the showing of a vacation trip by plane or boat can be enhanced with the sound effects of a jet's roar or boat's whistle followed by the actual chimes of London's Big Ben, the merriment of an Italian carnival or bedlam of the Parisian flea market. On the home front, there are occasions when baby's first steps and words, a family celebration, graduation, wedding ceremony or the hilarity of an outing takes on added significance when the sounds are permanently recorded along with the picture.

CHANCE

It gives a photographer, after the initial job of editing and synchronizing the pictures and sounds, the chance to sit back and enjoy the show, again and again, without further effort. He can have memory lapses and forget names, dates or places, be afflicted with laryngitis or be busy as a host can be without affecting the audio-visual combination once it has been made.

The first requirement is a well-edited picture story. This is the time to weed out inferior pictures and near-duplicates. You must be ruthless to attain and maintain a high quality final result.

It is easier to edit and arrange slides in story sequence if they can be seen together in a group. You can improvise a viewing table by obtaining a sheet of frosted plate glass about two feet by three feet. Support this at two edges at a comfortable height and place a desk light underneath it. Put a large sheet of tracing paper on plain glass and it will diffuse the light so you can sort the pictures.

SAVES TIME

This arrangement not only saves time lost in viewing and reviewing individual slides but spares them the prolonged heat of projection.

When the story sequence has been selected, you can write your script using interesting information gained from travel folders and personal observations about specific pictures. It may be necessary to fill in with title slides for certain groups by shooting close-ups of postcards, maps, signs or souvenir menus.

After several "dry runs" for rehearsal, you can tape your commentary at a "live" show with a small audience so that you can muster the spontaneity and enthusiasm of a genuine performance. In the script, however, it is necessary to leave designated spots for the sound effects which must now be inserted.

You will have to borrow a second recorder to play the sound effect tape at the precise moment for inclusion in the commentary.

BACKGROUND MUSIC

Background music, from a hi-fi or phonograph, may also be added while you're at it.

When the complete sound tape is finished, it must be synchronized with the slide projector. Some tape recorders have built-in electronic sensing devices which will activate a slide change by remote control. Otherwise a special, moderately priced synchronizer attachment can be obtained which does the job. In either case, a small piece of Scotch sensing tape is attached to those points on the commentary tape at which a slide change is desired. Sensing tape is a metallic foil with pressure-sensitive adhesive which automatically triggers the remote control mechanism of a slide projector for a slide change.

NEW SET

Tunisia has issued a new set of stamps featuring her national Coat of Arms, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The set of four stamps — 1, 2, 3 and 6 mils — commemorates the 10th anniversary of the start of the campaign for the independence of the Republic of Tunisia. Inscriptions are in Arabic and French.

BOOK

By special arrangement with the publishers in England, the American Topical Association has imported a newbook, "Stamps & Aircraft," by James Watson, noted topical philatelist and associate editor of Gibbons Stamp Monthly. This 160 page book has more than 100 illustrations and is easy to read. It sells for $3 postpaid in this country and is one of four matching volumes by the same author. The other three give similar treatment to "Stamps & Railways", "Stamps & Music" and "Stamps & Ships."

New Space Book Gives Moon Plan

By 1968 the world will see an American space man land on the moon and return to earth. After the last stage of his three-stage rocket burns out, and before he makes his soft landing on the moon, he will coast for some 60 hours in the darkness of space.

The text and pictures describing this event are among a host of others in Will Eisner's "AMERICA'S SPACE VEHICLES," just published by Sterling at $4.95. Much of the material has been authenticated by the National Aeronautical and Space Administration, the Department of Defense, aircraft corporations and other authorities.

Beginning with the NASA calendar of space probes, this pictorial review offers a projecton of things to come in the 1960's and even in the 1970's and toward the turn of the century. We will see the realizaton of world-wide telephone and television service, phenomenally accurate weather forecasting, establishment of bases on the moon for interplanetary flights and much, much more.

The book shows graphically what America has done and where it is going in its space program. Facts on the Soviet space program, space vehicles, interplanetary vehicles and space communications add up to informative reading for everyone and provide a permanent reference volume for every library.

Biography Of A Wit

Paradoxically, this biography is about a single, remarkable individual, a first-class American humorist—and yet it is simultaneously a mirror of an age.

The younger generation may not know that Marquis (who died in 1937) was a reporter, columnist, short story writer, poet, playwright, actor, novelist, essayist, magazine writer, film writer, letter writer, bon vivant and all-around good soul. And above all, a humorist.

He made his mark as a columnist, in the earlier sense of that word. That is, his column was filled with wit, poetry, social commentary and bright nonsense in the field of letters.

His most popular creations were a pair of imaginary characters who said pungent things—archy the cockroach and mehitabel the alley cat. (They contributed to his column by jumping on the keys of his typewriter, but they couldn't operate the shift key, so there were no capital letters.)

And like most true humorists, he had a streak of the serious and the tragic. His own life, filled with deaths and ailing relatives, was a tragedy in itself, but he was an extremely prolific writer, whose wit and imagination poured forth in a stream for years. He stands in the tradition of Mark Twain.

Anthony has sifted through a mountain of references in compiling this thorough biography, and has included a tremendous amount of detail life and times. His task obviously was a labor of love.

The upshot of his work is that he has preserved for posterity a graphic picture of the best that came from the wits and literary figurs of the early part of this century, among whom Don Marquis was one of the best.

Confederate Stamps Gain New Status

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Save your Confederate money, boys. You may not have to wait for the South to rise again.

Indications are that the Yankees now running the government already have yielded to the point of recognizing Confederate stamps as proper postage for the U.S. mail.

If that is the policy, it is only a matter of time until they begin accepting the currency as well.

Evidence that confederate stamps are back in good standing with the Post Office Department was obtained this week by Rep. James W. Trimble of Arkansas, who gleefully spread the glad tidings to such newspapermen as happened to be within earshot.

RECEIVED LETTER

Trimble received from the postman, via a circuitous route, a letter dropped in the mailbox by someone in Fayetteville, Ark.

The fact that the envelope bore a replica of a five-cent Confederate stamp and was addressed to the Honorable Jefferson Davis, in care of the Congress of the C.S.A., Richmond, Va., did not stay the couriers from their appointed rounds.

The letter was duly cancelled by the Fayetteville post office and forwarded to Richmond, where it apparently caused some confusion.

My guess is that the Richmond post office has been infiltrated by illiterate Yankees. At any rate, someone there decorated the envelope with a rubber stamp reading "insufficient address. No such street number."

Well, I'ii be John Brown! You would think even a displaced Yankee would know who Jeff Davis was.

Judging from other cancellation markings, the letter was sent on to New York, where a high level decision apparently was made to deliver it to Trimble.

NO RESEMBLANCE

This was peculiar because Trimble doesn't look a thing like Jefferson Davis. I assume the reasoning was that since he represented the congressional district in which it originally was mailed, it was somehow his responsibility.

The letter was dated June 28, 1863, and expressed the opinion that a charge against Cemetery Ridge was "most deplorable strategy." It recommended a flanking movement instead.

It arrived 99 years too late to alter the outcome of the Civil War, but the South can take heart from the fact that it was delivered at all.

Functions Of Ouachita Library Are Outlined

By FRANCIS FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

One of the functions of a Public Library is to gather and preserve material relating to the local history of the area which the Library serves. This week the Ouachita Parish Public Library received a gift which is a most valuable addition to the historical collection of the Library. This is Volume 1 of "Biographical and Historical Memoirs of Louisiana." This set of books was published in 1892 by the Goodspeed Publishing Company. I knew about the book, but this is the first copy that I have ever seen. It contains an authentic and comprehensive account of the history of the state and a history of every Parish and biographical information about the outstanding citizens of the state who were living in 1892. Volume I takes up the history of the Parishes A through L and biographical sketches A through L. This book was given to the Library by Mr. Milton King, whose family had owned the book for many years. If there is anyone in the community who has Volume II of this set, we would be extremely happy to have it. Please if you have a library of old books, check through it and see if you can locate Volume II. It would be a wonderful contribution to the historical collection of the library. Another most valuable gift this week, came to the Library from our Congressman, Mr. Otto Passman. He sent us a copy of the new edition of "Biographical directory of the American Congress, 1774-1961. This book contains sketches of each person who has served in Congress from the time of the Continental Congress in 1774 through the eighty-sixth Congress which convened on January 3, 1961. The last edition of this directory was published in 1927 and the Library is fortunate enough to have a copy of this work, but we were absolutely delighted to have the new edition and are most grateful to Mr. Passman for another evidence of his interest in the Library.

A most interesting collection of new books have been added to the Library collection this past week. There are books for almost every type of reader and the use of the Library grows continually. 249 people who had never used the library before registered during the month of January. Although some of these people were newcomers to the community, others were permanent residents who were just availing themselves of the services of the Library.

Charles Knickerbocker is the author of an exciting book of fiction, called "Dynasty" which is the story of a family through many years. "The Whole Creation" by Theodoer Morrison is a book which will be extremely popular. It has it's setting in New England and presents an exciting cast of characters. A historical novel which will interest many readers has its setting at the beginning of World War I. The author is Barbara Tuchman and the book is called "Guns of August." A new book by Pearl Buck is always eagerly awaited. Her latest one is a collection of fourteen short stories and is called "Fourteen Stories."

"The Voice of the Lord" by Laurene Chinn is a novel with a biblical setting, a type which is always popular. "The land is bright" is a new historical novel by Noel B. Gerson, with a setting in the Western part of our own country. Olive Eckerson is the author of "The Golden Yoke," a novel of the War of The Roses. This period of English history when the houses of Lancaster and York fought for the throne of England is one of the most colorful in English history. Although many books have been written about this period, there is always room for another. There are three novels of mystery and intrigue in this week's additions. They are "Point of Impact" by Robert F. Mirvish, "And Left For Dead" by Frances and Richard Lockridge and "The prime of Miss Jean Brodie" by Muriel Spark. Each of these will have its devotees.

Everyone who has ever visited Mexico City, driven along the Paseo de La Reforma and visited Chapultepic Castle will want to read "The Cactus and the Crown" by Catherine Gavin. This is the story of an American brother and sister, Andrew and Sally Lorimer, who moved to Mexico in 1860 to accept an inheritance from their uncle. Andrew carries on his uncle medical practice in Mexico City and Sally lives in Cuernavaca, where she manages his estate. They soon become involved with the charming, but ill-fated Emperor Maximilian and his beautiful wife Carlotta. This is the story of one of the most romantic, although tragic love affairs of history and it takes new substance when told through the eyes of two Americans.

Books of non-fiction present a variety of material. A timely and pertinent book is "American Education; facts, cancies and folklore" by Raymond P. Harris. Everyone who is interested in the American educational system should read this one. Some of the most delightful books in the field of natural history are written by Gerald Durrell. Personally I like him much better than his famous brother, the novelist, Lawrence Durrell. Gerald Durrell has a new book called "The whispering Land" which is the story of the collection and preservation of zoological specimens in the Argentine. It is a book which all who enjoyed "A Zoo in My Luggage" will want to read. A new cookbook is always eagerly received and the latest one is "Southern Cookbook" compiled by Sallie F. Hill and the staff of the progressive farmer. It contains many recipes of interest to people in our area. A new book in the field of child training is "Teaching your child right from wrong" by Dorothy K. Whyte. This should be most useful to many parents who are disturbed about the behavior of their children.

Books about antiques and their collection are always in demand. There are two new books in this field "The Lure of Antiques" by Gordon Hampden is a general book on the subject, while "Clocks" by Simon Fleet specializes in one type of antique material. One of the most popular musicals now appearing on Broadway is "Camelot" by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe. The library has had the recording of this lovely item for some time, but the book has just been released and we are happy to have it. A book which every Southernor should read is "The Case For the South" by W. D. Workman, Jr. It gives much valuable information about the conditions in our part of the country.

Books about the Second World War are becoming very popular again. The old ones are being re-read and new ones are being published. Richard Collier is the author of a new title "Sands of Dunkirk" which relives in detail those days in June of 1940, when the fate of England hung in the balance. The literature of the Civil War period is constantly growing and there are two new titles this week. "Legacy of the Civil War" by Robert Penn Warren, gives his view of the Centennial. "Lincoln and the Civil War" is a study of Lincoln and a history of the war, written by Courtlandt Canby.

32,814 books were read by the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library in the month of January. How many of these books did you read? Your library card is a passport to the world of the mind, if you do not have one, come in and get it at your earliest convenience.

Auditions Winners Concert Highlight

By JOHN CALE

With one more performance of the choral masterpiece, Bach's "Passion According to St. John," set for tomorrow afternoon at Louisiana Tech, musical activity will increase its pace for the late winter season.

A writeup of the Friday presentation of the Bach work by the well - known Robert Shaw chorus and orchestra is elsewhere in this issue. Tomorrow's program will begin at 2:15 p.m. in Tech's Howard Auditorium.

The 1962 winners of the Twin City Symphony Orchestra's concerto auditions will appear in the Thursday concert of that organization here. Reversing the trend of the westward march on Highway I-20 over the week end for the Shaw concerts, the two soloists — both Ruston youths — will journey to Monroe to play with the symphony here.

Bob Wallace, auditions winner in the senior division, will play the first movement of the Piano Concerto in A Minor by Schumann, and Steve Lawson, junior division winner, will play the same portion of the Haydn Piano Concerto in D Major. The concert will be under the direction of James T. Poulos professor of violin at Northeast.

CONFLICT EASED

The announcement that "Bye Bye Birdie" would open at the Little Theatre Strauss Playhouse on February 22 landed smack in the middle of the only performance of "Mary Stuart" on the Tech series.

But an announcement from Chairman L. V. E. Irvine notes that the Schiller drama has been moved to March 16. This will allow a conflict - free run of "Birdie" also the Northeast series presentation of "The Music Man" booked for March 7.

PHOTOGRAPHY

With the live performances enjoying a late winter's rush, many are apt to get the idea that art is forever bound to song, dance or perhaps the artist's brush. Don't try this line on the Northeast Louisiana Camera Club. At a lengthy session of salon print judging last week, the group rated three pictures as tops out of a stack of some 90 fine photographs from throughout the Gulf States and Southwest. The club's judges work on a rule - of - thumb point system including general interest, composition and technique — just as though they were judging paintings. These folks are convinced —with good reason — that they are dealing with a medium of art. True, the basic instrument is a camera which is a mechanical device. But, on the other hand, so is a brush.

In carrying out the whole process from selection of subject matter to mounting the finished print, the photographer faces many of the problems the artist must also solve.

One interesting aspect of the local club's judging is the post mortem before the whole group. After the three judges made their selections, they read their comments to the club while the prints are put on a viewing stand.

Opinions are seldom unanimous. However, the photograph which took top honors in the local judging, an informal portrait of a one-year-old girl named Vicki, seemed to stand out from the whole pack of nearly a hundred pictures.

Those who still look upon the photograph as a non-artistic intrusion which ran many portrait painters out of business about a century ago should be exposed to one important aspect of good photography. This is the wide difference between a mass - production, contact print and one made by an expert with all the individual attention he can give it. Every improvement involves a know-how common to the other arts.

Scholarly Work On Childhood

JESUS OF NAZARETH — The Hidden Years. By Robert Aron. Morrow. $4.

"Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

Thus spake Jesus at the age of 12, when Joseph and Mary sought him out in the Temple, where he had been conversing with the scholars and doctors.

And except for this one brief incident in his boyhood, there is nothing in the Gospels about the Saviour's life from his first year until he was 30.

These are the "hidden years" which this Jewish author has taken as his subject. Aron has shown a great insight into both the Jewish and the Christian religions in this book.

It is an intriguing subject for anyone who might want to speculate about the human changes through which Jesus must have gone. What would have been the life of a child in that era? What adolescent adjustments, common to all the races, did this young carpenter's apprentice have to make? What human experiences — mental and emotional — did Jesus undergo in his 20s? There ought to be a book on this theme.

Aron has not addressed himself to these literal, temporal speculations. Instead, he has considered the spiritual background of the age in which Jesus lived. He has considered the nature of the synagogue in those days, the Jewish family customs, the tradition that stood behind the worship of Jehovah. He has examined the effect of the Talmud upon Jewish life, as well as the position of the Sanhedrin and the sects of the Sadducees and the Pharisees in a country occupied by the Romans. He has peered even into the intellectual significance of the language structure at that time.

This book is scholarly, and will appeal to scholars and clerics, but it must be said that an uninitiated layman will find it a bit over his head. It is, however, a valuable contribution to an understanding of the Christian tradition.

AFTER FLOUNDERING

Ouachita Parish Rigs Contribute To District Rise

Drilling in the Monroe Oil and Gas District appeared last week to be edging toward pre-Christmas levels after more than a month's floundering in the mid-winter doldrums. Producing areas in Ouachita Parish made healthy contributions to the rise.

Released yesterday, reports on the previous seven days' activity through the office of District Manager Duncan Cook showed a total of six wells completed or placed into production. One of them, a gas rig completed early in the week, is in the Cheniere Creek Field in Ouachita Parish. Three other wells were finalled in Union Parish and two in Tensas.

A total of five new locations in Ouachita Parish—three in the Monroe Field and two in the Cheniere Field—were among an even dozen reported staked around the 14 parish area.

There were 19 rigs actively drilling or testing at week's end, of which two were in Ouachita Parish—one a wildcat, the other spotted in the Cheniere Field.

Four wells were plugged and abandoned and inactive sites numbered 99. There were no recompletions. A total of 41 locations were listed by Cook.

Oil Concerns Record Good Profits In 62

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Most major oil companies recorded rather healthy profits in 1961.

Preliminary year-end financial statements from 11 major firms show nine reporting increases in net incomes and only two reporting declines.

Such factors as record production and sales, in most cases, more than offset such problems as depressed gasoline prices.

Texaco Inc. attributed a net income of $430 million, an all-time high, to new records in production, refinery runs, and product sales.

Record operations of one form or another also were reported by Gulf Oil Corp. Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), and Socony Mobil Oil Co.

The declines in profits were reported by Sinclair Oil Corp. and the Atlantic Refining Co. Both had disappointing fourth quarters but executives of both firms say the outlook is much brighter for 1962.

Sinclair's earnings dropped from $52 million in 1960 to $35 million. E. L. Steiniger, president, blamed the decline on a mid-year strike, increased exploration expenditures, and increased labor costs.

Atlantic's profits dropped from $46½ million to $46 million. Henderson Supplee Jr., president, traced the decline to lower foreign product sales, unstable gasoline prices, and a large increase in Venezuelan income taxes.

Supplee said 1962 definitely will be better than 1961 but indicated the amount of improvement will depend on gasoline prices.

Steiniger said gasoline prices in December declined to the lowest level in 11 years. He said Sinclair anticipates increased sales and production, however, will prompt material improvement in 1962 earnings.

Albert L. Nickerson, Socony chairman, said further increases in efficiency and record volumes permitted the increase even though gasoline prices were particularly depressed the last six months of 1961.

Gulf oil's net income climbed from $330 million to $338 million.

Gulf reported a 6.3 per cent increase in natural gas production with 1961 output averaging a record 1,220,500,000 cubic feet a day.

Texaco boosted its production of oil and natural gas liquids 5.3 per cent, increased its refinery runs 4.6 per cent, and boosted its petroleum products sales 2.4 per cent.

Jersey Standard's earnings jumped from $688 mililon to $758 million. M. J. Rathbone, president, said significant contributing factors included operating efficiency improvements and new records and natural gas.

The preliminary report by Rathbone placed Jersey's total revenues from sales and investments at $9.2 billion and estimated all income and operating tax payments at $2.8 billion.

L. F. McCollum, president, said favorable factors were offset somewhat by lower crude production and depressed product prices. He said only 85 per cent of 1961's expenditures went into exploration and development programs compared to 71 per cent in 1960.

Penney's Chain Celebrates 60th Business Year

J. C. Penney Company this year observes the 60th anniversary of its founding, according to Fred Beckett, manager of Penney's. He said his store is one of 1,700 stores in 48 states forming the chain of retail department stores founded by the man whose name it bears.

Beckett pointed out that James Cash Penney, now 86 and a director of the Company, started the business in 1902, when he opened a small drygoods store in Kemmerer, Wyo. He called this first store The Golden Rule to symbolize his belief that an ethical yardstick is just as applicable in business as it is in one's personal life.

Mr. Penney's policy of selling quality merchandise is still practiced by the chain, which today is one of the nation's largest corporations with annual sales of $1.5 billion.

A number of community and store events has been planned in connection with the anniversary observance, according to Beckett. One high point in the activities will come around April 14, date of the Kemmerer store opening back in 1902.

Bank Directors Review Volume Of Loans For 61

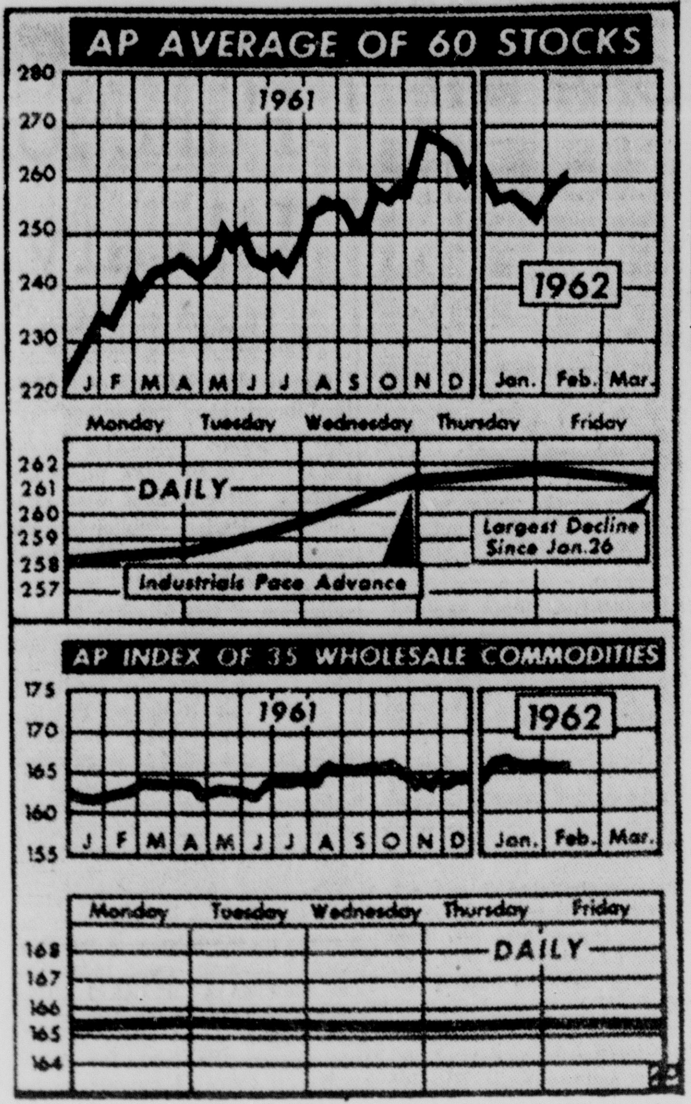
At the annual meeting of the directors of the Farm Credit Banks of New Orleans last week, the 1961 loan volume of the three banks was reviewed and pronounced good. Bank officials reported that loan activity showed a continued increase in Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana.

John L. Ryan, Federal Land Bank president, reported that the land bank made 3,175 loans for over $31 million to farmers in the three states. Volume of loan money represented an increase of almost 9 per cent over 1960.

Ryan added that the bank paid a 5 per cent dividend to the 58 Federal land bank associations during 1961. This was the 17th consecutive year it has paid dividends.

The president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, Stephen Voelker, told the board that the bank extended credit in excess of $176 million during 1961.

Neal F. Pendleton, president of the New Orleans Bank for Cooperatives, informed the board members that the bank made advances amounting to more than $31 million to farmer cooperatives during the calendar year.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced for the second straight week, closing today at 261.1 from 258.1 a week ago. The Commodity Index, with gains and losses evenly divided, closed unchanged this week at 165.3. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

New Oil Find Confirmed By Producer Rig

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Pan American Petroleum Corp. drilled below 13,090 feet last week in confirmation of its recently discovered Collins field in Covington County.

The Collins operating unit No. 2, sec. 15-8n-15w, a southwest diagonal offset to the discovery well, should be completed soon

The discovery well of the field was Pan Am's No. 1 Windham, sec 15-8n-15w, completed as an excellent dual producer from both the Mooringsport and Rodessa sands below 13,000 feet.

High Water has stopped testing operations at Victor Smith's Jefferson County wildcat, the Wood No. 1, sec. 7-10n-12e, located two miles west of High Water.

The operator had re-perforated a sand at 9,351-53 feet and was preparing to commence swabbing the well when operations were suspended.

No information was being released on Humble Oil and Refining Company's Yellow Creek field well, the USA no. 1, sec. 13-9n-8w.

The test was drilled to 12,506 feet with three strings of tubing cemented to below 12,300 feet.

Reports that numerous deep oil shows were logged in the venture have brought speculation the semi-shallow field may become a deep producer. The current producing level is in the Eutaw formation at approximately 5,200 feet.

Shell Oil Company is below 10,600 feet in its third venture in the Lazy Creek field of Pike County. The board of Supervisors No. 16-7, sec. 16-4n-8e, is an east offset to the discovery well.

Also in Pike County, Love Petroleum Co. is drilling below 10,290 feet in its wildcat, the Bacot-Vest unit No. 1, sec. 1-3n-8e, located approximately three miles south of the producing limits of the Little Creek field.

In the Hardrock County of northeast Mississippi, Pan Am has resumed drilling below 7,207 feet in its wildcat, the Ashby No. 1, sec. 15-13s-1e, Calhoun County wildcat. Contract depth is 9,000 feet.

One oil well was completed and a gas condensate well finaled in field drilling the past week.

In the Summerland field in Jones County, Triad Oil and Gas Co. completed the Paluxy sand in its Central Oil Co. No. 1, sec. 34-10n-14w, flowing 125 barrels of oil per day from perforations at 11,688-682 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. completed its Marion County unit No. 1, sec. 15-2n-18w, flowing 1,094,000 cubic feet of gas and 179 barrels of condensate per day from perforations at 9,127-129 feet.

IF PACE MAINTAINED

Automobile Industry Can Boost National Economy

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The automobile industry is barreling along the prosperity road at high speed.

And, if the pace is maintained, it can sweep much of the economy along with it.

Economic well-being in the industry is contagious. It spreads directly to makers of steel, rubber, glass, fabrics and many other manufacturers.

And heavy buying of cars shows that the consumers are well-heeled and that their purchases will lap over into the entire retail field.

Sales of new passenger cars in January totaled 485,962, compared with 368,900 in January 1961. The total was the best for the month since 490,000 were sold in January 1957.

General Motors grabbed 54.8 per cent of the market with sales of 266,290 cars. Ford accounted for 28.6 per cent with 138,756. Chrysler 9.9 per cent with 48,204, American Motors, 5.5 per cent with 26,937 and Studebaker-Packard 1.2 per cent with 5,900.

Only Studebaker-Packard sales showed a decline from January 1961. Its production had been shut down for six weeks by a strike of the United Auto Workers Union. The strike was settled Thursday.

Dealers are optimistic about the outlook for the balance of the year. A survey by C.I.T. Credit Corp. at the National Automobile Dealers Association convention indicated a belief that 6.5 million cars will be sold this year.

With an inventory of nearly one million cars in dealers' hands, production during the week was shaved to an estimated 128,000 from 138,409 the previous week.

Chrysler Corp. reported it made a profit of $11.1 million in 1961. The No. 3 automaker earned $31.6 million in the final quarter, erasing a $20.5 million loss in the first three quarters. Earnings in 1960 totaled $32.2 million.

Business as a whole took heart from the decision of the United Steelworkers Union and steel producers to begin negotiations on a new contract next Wednesday. This earliest date in history was agreed upon under pressure from President Kennedy. The current contract expires June 20.

The union let it be known that its greatest concern in reaching a contract agreement will be job security, which it will seek to attain by a shorter work week and longer vacations.

Steel production during the week reached the highest level in 22 months with some extra buying attributed to hedging against a possible strike. Output totaled 2,446,000 tons, 2.3 per cent above the previous week.

A vast new vista for investment opened up when President Kennedy asked Congress to set up a profit-making communications satellite corporation.

A federally chartered corporation would own and operate the U.S. portion of an international system in which space satellites would be used to transmit commercial telephone, telegraph, television and other communications. An individual could buy a share at not less than $1,000.

Also in the investment realm, the stock market carried through a good rally that began last week with blue chip issues leading the way.

The Commerce Department reported business sales in 1961 increased by $8.4 billion to a record $738.9 billion. However, sales of $67.3 billion in December dropped behind the November level by $310 million.

A leading economist, Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance at New York University, told a conference of the American Bankers Association that the present economic climate requires caution. He said the outlook is clouded by uncertainties over war, whether the Cuban revolution can be kept under control in Latin America, whether a break between the right and left in France can be mended, and the effect of the European Economic Community.

Briefly around the business scene: Consumers' desire for services has soared in the last decade; they spent $132 million in 1960, up from $65 billion in 1950. . . . Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported its sales for the 1961 fiscal year topped $4.5 billion for the first time. . . . The Pentagon has awarded $3 million in contracts for 12 million pounds of survival biscuits for community fallout shelters.

...and we're gonna have our own rooms!

"There are so many things about our new home that please Mom and Dad, Dad keeps saying how confident he is since we have the best financing available and mother is so excited about the modern kitchen we have since we save so much money by financing the First Federal way . . . as for us, the best part is our very own room."

SCENE FROM THE comedy "Sail A Crooked Ship," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre, stars Delores Hart, Robert Wagner, Ernie Kovacs, Carolyn Jones and Frankie Avalon.

HEISTED' SHIP

'Sail A Crooked Ship,' Wild Riot

BUNGLING

In actual fact, Kovacs plays a bungling burglar who is determined to go down in the annals of crime as a genius. With his assembled band of nitwits, he puts back into serviceable shape a mothballed Liberty ship, and heads for Boston. Naturally, Ernie's the Captain, even though neither he nor any member of his crew knows the first thing about maritime lore.

Wagner and Dolores Hart play an engaged couple who become forcibly involved in Kovacs' shenanigans. An inept ex-Navy officer, Wagner helps "drive" the heisted ship to Boston despite fire, hurricane, a mutiny, Kovacs' "cutie" along for the cruise, and sundry other near-disasters.

FUN TEAM

Miss Hart and Carolyn Jones, as the "cutie," reportedly make a fine pair of comediennes, separately and together. The former is seen as a somewhat stiff young society girl; the latter knows all about the fine art of man-handling and is perfectly willing to give lessons. Frankie Avalon, who sings two songs in the film, appears as Kovacs' nephew, a youngster who hopes some day to join the Navy and welcomes this chance to sail with his screwball uncle.

Frank Gorshin also stars in "Sail a Crooked Ship" as a memory wizard who knows just about all about everything and Jesse White and Harvey Lembeck are other members of the zany crew assembled by producer Philip Barry, Jr., and director Irving Brecher to "Sail a Crooked Ship."

Freezes Cut Citrus Fruit Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department estimated yesterday production of citrus fruits declined 6 per cent during January as a result of freezes in production areas.

It said orange production was off 4 per cent and grapefruit 13 per cent.

The total production of citrus fruit was estimated at 179,555,000 boxes compared with 190,975,000 forecast a month ago. Production last year was 174,075,000 boxes and the 1950-59 average was 182,315,000.

The department said freezing temperatures occurred in all citrus states during late December and January but California and Arizona had no significant losses. In Florida, Texas and Louisiana, production was cut back. In Texas, trees suffered heavy damage, but it was said to be still too early to make an accurate appraisal of tree loss.

Nevertheless, the department said, tree damage does not appear to be a repetition of that state's 1951 citrus disaster.

Production of oranges by states compared with month-ago estimates included:

Chairman Robert Munson of the Little Hoover Commission said the reorganization subcommittee, headed by Rep. Edward LeBreton of Orleans Parish, with Sen. B. R. Patton of Farmerville serving as the agricultural specialist, will study the proposals.

Curtain Call

By BB STRON

We hope that by now you have seen the attractive posters which have been placed around the Twin Cities, advertising our forthcoming musical, "Bye Bye Birdie." Not only have these posters been distributed locally, but as far east as Vicksburg, and west to Shreveport.

The cast and crew are still hard at work rehearsing. Visitors to the set, Jackie and Harold Woods, watched the dance routine to "Sincere," done over and over for two and one - half hours last week. Everyone is surprised to learn how much practice must go into perfecting the play for performances.

VISITOR

Another visitor to the set this past week was Pat Davis. You will remember that Pat handled props for many, many Little Theatre shows. It was good to see Pat around and to know that he has not forgotten us.

We want to extend a great big thanks to Rose Pickens for lending us her mink coat. This will be worn by Rooz Haas during the entire play. In fact, Roz already has the coat and is practicing with it — some practicing! You have to really love Little Theatre to part with your mink — now isn't that true girls??? We are also indebted to Allen West for the use of his moose head. Everyone cooperates to make our sets authentic, and for this, we are truly grateful.

Good news — Slade and Jane Brown are coming to Monroe for the opening of "Bye Bye Birdie." We hope thay will enjoy the show, and we know that the Little Theatre will come through with a tip top production of which they will be proud.

IN STORE

All kinds of good things are in store for those of you who plan to attend a performance of "Bye Bye Birdie." During the entire run of the play, there will be an art exhibit in the lobby. This will be under the direction of Gregor Goethals.

The costume committee is still busy. We even learned that Mrs. Becton turned out five (no this is not an error) dresses for a chorus number last week. This is unbelieveable, as will be attested to by those of you who sew. This entire committee is doing a terrific job!

We understand that reservations are coming in steadily by mail. We ask that if you wish to make your reservations by mail, befor the box office opens, please give alternate dates. Also, it is imperative that you enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope, if you wish your reservations confirmed. The Address is: P. O. Box 868, Monroe.

Scherck Bogen will be selling the brick tiles to the cast. Some of you may not know that if you are in a play, you may purchase a brick tile, on which will be printed your name, the date and name of the play. These are placed in the Green Room. Some of you might like to present a tile to a friend of yours who is in the play. We think this would certainly be a wonderful gesture, and would thrill any member of the cast.

The children's play for the summer theatre has been chosen. It is "The Clown and His Circus," and will again be under the direction of the able and talented George Brian of Northeast Louisiana State College.

Humility Needed To Film Picture

When Jeffrey Hunter was selected to play the Christ in Samuel Bronston's spectacular production of "King of Kings," presented by Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer, he approached the undertaking with two guideposts: absolute humility and a willingness to accept emotional and spiritual guidance.

He did not fully realize the responsibility until he found himself, in the robes of Jesus, ascending a hilltop near Manzanares, in the Spanish countryside, for the Sermon on the Mount scene.

MANY EXTRAS

"Some six thousand extras, gathered from the surrounding villages, appeared in this scene," says Hunter. "They were simple country folk, devout people, very far from the world of make-believe we brought to their rugged region.

"To my astonishment, quite a few dropped to their knees. They knew perfectly well, of course, that I was merely an actor playing a part. Still, I was a living representation of a Figure they had regarded since childhood with sacred awe. I didn't know what to do, but instincitvely pretended not to notice rather than intrude upon this gesture of devotion.

"It was then that I began to realize what I had undertaken, and I felt it even more deeply as the film went along."

NOTICED

Hunter states that he also began to notice the effect of his presence, in the Jesus characterization, upon the camera crew and other members of the cast of King of Kings."

"At first, there seemed to be a timidity, then almost a withdrawal from the usual banter and fun - making on the set," he says. "Seldom did anyone engage me in personal conversation. After awhile, rather than make the others feel uncomfortable, I would go to my dressing room and stay there, studying my lines until the next scene was ready."

The actor does not consider himself any more knowledgeable of Jesus Christ than the average man. His religious training was the conventional one for an American child. Coming of a family of Protestant background, he attended Sunday school and church.

"I knew the Bible, of course," he says, "but no better than most. The story of Jesus, as it had come to us, was a sacred legend. But I had never thought very much about Him as a flesh-and-blood person, as a man who lived on this earth amid people and times not so very different from ours, today.

UNDERSTANDING

"As I studied the script and the research that went with it, I began to understand for the first time how tremendously human He was, what His life meant, and what His teachings brought to the world."

Hunter adds that playing the role of Christ was not without its moments of humor. Early one morning, he and Robert Ryan, who plays John the Baptist, were driving to a distant location.

"We were both in costume," he says. "Bob was driving. I sat beside him, wearing the flowing robes of white. On the outskirts of town, we had a blowout. We had to get out, jack up the car, and change the tire. Trucks, motorcycles and buses whizzed by. I don't know what the people thought as they beheld this curious roadside spectacle. I only know the Spanish are extremely polite and very anxious to be helpful, expecially to strangers. But nobody — nobody — stopped for a single instant that morning."

Hunter was born in New Orleans, La., and moved to Milwaukee as a child. He made his acting debut at thirteen at the Whitefish Bay High School, playing a 60 - year - old man. His devotion to dramatics continued through Northwestern University and, after service with the U. S. Navy, at the University of California in Los Angeles. It was here that he was seen by a film talent scout, and his motion picture career began.

State Changes Urged In Debt Restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP)—A commission created by Congress said Saturday many local communities needlessly are being forced to seek state and federal financial aid because they are tangled in a web of outmoded debt restrictions.

This was one of the key findings in a 98-page report prepared by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, set up in 1959 to stimulate discussion of problems involving different levels of government.

Stating that many communities could carry a bigger debt burden than present laws and regulations permit, the commission said: "The present maze of constitutional and statutory restrictions upon local government borrowing constitutes a serious impediment to effective local self-government in the United States. These restrictions handicap self-reliance of local communities and governments, and impel them toward increased financial dependence on state or federal government resources."

The commission urged that the states amend present restrictions so local communities would have more power and flexibility in borrowing. The principal cure which the group endorsed would relate borrowings to the ability of communities to service the debts they incur.

Call To Ministry Confuses Some

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The young man explained that he had studied engineering because vocational guidance tests indicated he had an aptitude for it. But with graduation approaching, he was increasingly sure that he didn't want to spend his life building bridges.

"I've never been able to shake the idea of going into the ministry," he said at last. "But I guess I'm not meant for it, because nothing special has happened to 'call' me."

This incident points up one of the big reasons why there is a serious shortage of clergymen in every major religious body in America.

"Many potential candidates for the ministry are being deterred from entering seminaries," says the Rev. Richard G. Watts Presbyterian minister to students at the University of Illinois, "because they have the mistaken idea that if God wants them there, He'll send a bolt of lightning engraved with their names."

Pastors of other denominations agree that confusion about the nature of a "call" is a major stumbling block for thousands of young Christians who might otherwise be attracted to full-time service in the church.

Efforts are now being made to remove this stumbling block. In talks before young people, and in literature prepared for them, church leaders are emphasizing that God calls men and women into religious vocations in many different ways.

His summons may take the form of a vivid spiritual experience. But there is wide agreement among clergymen that such unmistakeable private revelations are comparatively rare. Most priests and ministers become aware of their vocation in a gradual and undramatic way.

One Protestant minister, for example, says that he was led to the seminary by "a gnawing sense of destiny, suppressed for years until it no longer could be denied."

A priest says that he became a candidate for Holy Orders because of "a conviction that kept growing in me that this was something I had to do, that I would never be happy doing anything else."

A SECRET CALL

According to an ancient tradition, there is a "secret call." It may never be heard as loudly and clearly as the person to whom it is directed might wish. But however quiet, it is always insistent. As the engineering senior discovered, it is hard to "shake" no matter how far a person has gone in preparing for and even embarking on a different career.

The persistence of the "secret call" is reflected in seminary enrollments, which contain a high percentage of older men who have previously spent several years in other occupations. Without these "delayed vocations," the clergy shortage would be even worse than it is. The question is whether the church, suffering acutely from a lack of ordained manpower, can afford the delay in claiming men who are destined for its service.

PSALMS FIRST HYMNAL

Many Traditions Based On Music

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — Music is the eternal language of western religion. It knows no barriers of race or creed. Its themes are as old as the rituals of church and synagogue.

The world's first known hymnal is the Book of Psalms.

BUILT ON MUSIC

Throughout the ages, many Judeo-Christian traditions have been built on music. It is possible to hear substantially the same chants among groups of Jews so widely separated and isolated that historians are convinced they had a common source in Biblical times centuries ago.

An almost endless source of lore is being drawn upon in the 18th Annual Jewish Music Festival (Jan. 20 to Feb. 20) of the National Jewish Music Council. Sponsored by the National Jewish Welfare Board, the festival is dedicated to the memory of Isadore Freed, a noted composer of Jewish music who died in 1960.

The music that will be heard during a month-long series of programs throughout the country will be that of the cantor, whose chants combine the music of the folk-troubador and the religious singer; of the choral groups, whose origin is traced to the late 17th century as a counterpart to the Protestant choir, and of the Psalms and other scriptures, which were sung or chanted in ancient times.

Students of religious music point to much evidence that, in their original form, the Psalms were not pure poetry, but actually songs. The heading for Psalm 8, for example, says: "For the choir leader; upon the Gittith." This is translated today as meaning that the choir sing the Psalm to a melody called "Wine-Press." Other Psalms bear similar headings.

Catholic scholars have written that the Jewish Psalmodic chant was taken into the early Christian church to form the basis of what became the Gregorian chant, one of the pillars of western liturgical music.

OLDEST SOURCE

Possibly the oldest source of Jewish music is known as cantillation, a system of chanting various books of the Bible. Accent marks have been preserved through the generations, with each book of the Bible being chanted in a different way. A single cantillation may differ on various days — the Sabbath, Rosh Hashonah, or Yom Kippur.

Biblical tradition is reflected in the manner in which cantors chant synagogal prayers. Some go back to the ancient days of Sinai; others to the later days of the Temple in Jerusalem. The prayers are sung as free vocal fantasias based on established outlines and are uniquely Jewish in concept.

BACKGROUND

It is against this background that Freed composed his rich Jewish music and that Jewish congregations will honor both him and their centuries-old heritage during the month-long festival.

Rabbi Ario S. Hyams, chairman of the National Jewish Music Council, called on synagogues, libraries, schools and other educational and cultural organizations to perform Freed's music during the observance.

"It is the hope of the council that by focusing upon the composer Isadore Freed, his experience, his aspirations, his struggle with problems that face many composers, we may help deepen the understanding of the role of the creative personality in our time. We wish at the same time to call attention to the importance of creativity to the vitality of our culture."

Little Northeast Beats Giants In Texas Meet

Score 26.5 Points, Win Team Title

FT. WORTH (Special)— Little Northeast State won two first places, tied for first in two other events, set one record, and tied two more in winning the unofficial team championship of the Will Rogers Indoor Games here Saturday night.

Running against the top college track teams of the track conscious Southwest, Northeast athletes scored 26 13 points to easily take the unofficial team title. Abiline Christian was second with 18 points.

Dve Styron of Northeast set a meet record of 6.2 in preliminaries of the 60-yard dash and came back to tie his own record in winning the finals.

Distance ace, Buddie Island picked up another first for Northeast in the mile with a 4;18;0 time in the college and university division, the same time he ran in winning the event at last week's Coliseum Relays and the same as North Texas State's John Cooper ran in 1957 for a meet record.

Northeast pole vaulter, John Pannel went over 15 feet for the fifth straight time to tie Dexter Elkins of S.M.U. and Fred Hensen of Rice with 15¼.

Abiline Christian and Northeast tied for first in the mile relay with times of 3:22.5. Abiline and Northeast ran in different heats. Abiline competing against Southwest Conference schools and Nor east running in a heat with so-called small colleges.

Northeast won its heat easily while Abiline was pushed by Texas.

Don Styron finished a disappointing third in the 60-yard high hurdles, won by T.C.U.'s Bobby Bernard in 7.3. Styron tied the world's record in the event with a 7.0 in the Lubbock Invitational two weeks ago.

Olympian Earl Young of Abiline Christian barely edged Northeast's Randall Walker in what was supposed to have been the 400 yard dash. Meet officials made a slight error in measuring the distance and the runners had to run an extra lap of 176 yards.

Young won the "576 yard dash" in 110.4 and Walker came with a 1:10.5.

In the open mile, Northeast's Jack Williams was third with 4:27.0. Houston's Laurie Elliott, brother of Australia's distance star, Herb Elliott, won the event in 420.9.

Second behind Dave Styron in the 60-yard was Ed Williams of Texas A & M, former Jena, La. High School sprinter.

Northeast athletes will compete as unattached entries in the Mason-Dixon Games in Louisville Ky. next weekend.

Led by musclar Danny Roberts of Texas A&M and Howard Payne's cracker-jack two mile relay teams, a band of talented trackmen crumbled three state indoor dirt records and tied four others in the second annual Will Rogers games here Saturday night.

Roberts set the 16 point shot spinning 57' 3½'' well past the indoor standard of 56' 6'' set by John Frye of Baylor set last year.

Howard Payne's great foursome, of David Noble, Frank Santiago, Doug Reed, and Glenn Petty, whittled almost 13 seconds off its last years mark of 8:01.0. But the Jackets missed their target of 7:45.6, the season's fastest time recorded by Vilanova two weeks ago.

Jackie Upton of TCU high jumped 6' 6'', and teammate Bobby Benard skimmed over the high hurdles in 7.3 to tie state records as did Don Eiland of Northeast Louisiana State with his 4:18.9 in the one-mile run, and Billy Foster, SMU's freshman, with a 6.2 in the 60-yard dash.

Besides Roberts and Howard Paynes' new indoor dirt records, Bill Miler of McMurry broke another in leaping an even 24 feet as one of the favorites, Jerry Dyes of ACC, scratched on all four of his preliminary efforts.

Four more Texas indoor dirt standards found company Jackie Upton of TCU tied his own state mark of six feet, six inches in the high jump.

All of these, with the exception of Eiland's mark were new meet records.

But the crowd's greatest thrill came in the climatic mile relay when Earl Young showed what olympic champions are made of.

Coming up the last curve in fourth place the powerful ACC senior exploded to nose-out Texas Tech's Curtis Hart, SMU's Jimmy Langhan and nip Texas' Randy Cursom at the tape to win by an eyelash.

Styron had a comfortable yard over Ed Williams of A&M in the university 60-yard finish. His 6.2 almost matched the state indoor record and was a new meet one.

Nattin Foul Shots Give LSU Squeak

ATLANTA (AP) — Two free throws by George Nattin with 12 seconds left gave Louisiana State a 52-51 Southeastern Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Georgia Tech Saturday night.

The victory gave LSU a 5-2 SEC record. It was Tech's seventh setback in nine conference games.

Tech led 26-23 at halftime and was out front throughout most of the game, but as has happened frequently of late, the Yellow Jackets came apart in the closing minutes.

Tech led 49-48 after Mike Tomasovich sank a field goal with 2:33 remaining and the Yellow Jackets got a break immediately afterward when Alan Nass intercepted an LSU pass. Teck took time out with 150 left and when play was resumed everything went haywire for the Yellow Jackets.

A bad pass from Tomasovich gave LSU the ball, and Ellis Cooper followed with a set shot that gave the Bengals a 50-49 lead with 56 seconds left. Nass missed from the corner, but Tech got another break when Cooper missed his free throw after a foul. But Josh Powell dropped a pass with 18 seconds remaining.

Tomasovich led the scoring with 16 points. Ray Lewis was high for LSU with 15. Tech took its biggest lead at 40-30 on a fielder by Tomasovich with 12:11 left in the second half. This brought LSU out of its zone defense, and the Bengals began a pressing man-to-man which upset Tech and LSU soon pulled even again.

LSU never led by more than four points, and this was 13-9 early in the game. The Bengals trailed throughout the second half until a corner shot by Lewis put them ahead 46-45 with 3:56 left.

Clay Survives Knockdown To Take Win

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Knocked down in the first round, undefeated Cassius Clay, the 1960 Olympic light heavyweight champion, rallied Saturday night and stopped Sonny Banks in 26 seconds of the fourth round of a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Referee Ruby Goldstein halted the scrap when Banks, who had been floored in the second round and battered heavily in the third, wobbled without being hit in the fourth round.

Banks' left leg buckled and although he straightened up Goldstein immediately intervened.

"Dr. (Alexander) Schiff told me to watch him closely, said Goldstein. "He said if he just wobbled to stop it immediately. He took a good pounding in the third round."

Banks, a 21-year-old unknown from Detroit, surprised the cocky Clay and the slim crowd of about 2,000 in the Garden when he dropped the Louisville favorite on the seat of his pants in the first round. Clay jumped up at the count of two and was given the mandatory eight count.

Clay, 5-1 favorite, was more surprised than hurt by the fast left hook.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Saturday four pitchers, two catchers and a third baseman from their farm system will train with the club at the Clearwater, Fla., spring training camp opening this month.

General Manager John Quinn said the pitchers are Dennis Bennett, 22-year-old left-hander from Yreka, Calif., who had a 4-2 record with Chattanooga in the Southern Association last season; John Boozer, 22, right-hander from Lexington, S.C., 19-5 with Chattanooga; John Morris, 19, Lewes, Del., southpaw, who was 10-9 with Elmira, N.Y., in the New York-Pennsylvania loop, and Jim Ponceroff, 19, Osage, W.Va., right-hander who had a 15-9 record with Twin Falls, Idaho, of the Pioneer League.

The catchers are Bill Heath, 22, of Los Angeles, with the Eastern League's Williamsport, Pa., club, and Fred Walters, 24, Bakersfield, Calif., with Bakersfield of the California League.

Lucas Scores 34; Hits On 14 Of 15

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's dazzling fast-break offense was too much for Minnesota Saturday night as the top-ranked Buckeyes equalled a Big Ten Conference basketball win-streak record by defeating the Gophers 91-66 for their 23rd consecutive victory in the league.

The victory was the unbeaten Bucks' 18th in a row this season and their eighth in their quest for a third straight Big Ten title.

The 6-foot-8 senior bettered a Big Ten individual performance by hitting 14 of 15 shots from the floor. Purdue's Willie Merriweather held the old mark of 11 of 12 set in 1959.

While the Buckeye offense was literally running over Minnesota, the defense kept the equally tall Gophers far out on the court most of the game.

Eric Magdanz, the Gophers' scoring standout, hit for 28 points on 12 of 18 shots from the field.

The Bucks broke into a 6-0 lead and were never headed. The closest Minnesota, now 2-7 in the conference, came was three points, 18-15, about six minutes into the game.

Ohio State held a 15-point advantage at the end of the first half, 47-32 and the nearest the Gophers came in the second half was 13 points.

Ohio State's big three—Lucas, John Havlicek and Mel Nowell—who have never lost a game at home in three years, came out of the contest with 4:2 left and the score at 82-57.

The 23 in a row in the Big Ten equalled a mark set by Wisconsin in 1913. The victory also was the Buckeyes' 32 straight at home—both marks spanning three seasons.

SHOWDOWN MONDAY

Kentucky Defeats Rebel Five, 83-60

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fast-breaking Kentucky pulled away in the last 10 minutes Saturday night and defeated Mississippi 83-60 in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

It was Kentucky's 16th consecutive victory and set the stage for the Wildcats' Monday night contest with ninth-ranked Mississippi State. Kentucky is the nation's second-ranked team.

Larry Pursiful and Cotton Nash were the big men in Kentucky's attack, hitting for 23 and 22 points, respectively.

Mississippi had threatened to come back midway in the second half after the Wildcats built up a 42-27 halftime lead, mainly on close-in shots from its devastating fast break.

But Pursiful, Nash and Allen Feldhaus sparked Kentucky into a 20-point lead at 72-52 with 6:02 remaining. Mississippi never recovered.

Kentucky has a 17-1 record for the season and leads the SEC with an 8-0 mark. The loss was Mississippi's 11th of the campaign. The Rebels have won eight games. They are 1-7 in conference play.

Salley Paces Indian JV's Past Gents

Jerry Salley's 25 points and two big boys on the boards—Larry Butler and John Varino—sparked Northeast's junior varsity to its second victory of the season over Centenary's junior Gents here Saturday night, 66-61.

Salley hit his last six shots of the first half, picked up two more field goals in the second period and made all nine of his charity tries to pace both teams in scoring as Northeast upped its record to 7-2. The Indians whipped Centenary, 76-62, in an earlier game in Shreveport.

Varino picked off 11 rebounds and big Butler hauled down 10 for the winners, who had a 40-31 edge in that department. Varino got 12 points and Butler nine. Little Irby Gamble also came up with 12 points.

Dale Gisby paced Centenary in both points and recoveries, collecting 11 points and 10 rebounds. Jerry Butcher got 10 points for the Gents.

Centenary jumped off to an early lead and remained in front almost the entire first half. Northeast scrambled into range late in the period, thanks to Salley's hot streak, and finally went ahead by one with 1:29 left in the stanza. The Gents pulled back in front, then the Indians took over the lead for good and had a two-point advantage at intermission, 36-34.

Centenary never got back on top. The visitors from Shreveport pulled to within a point of Northeast four times in the final half but could never get the go-ahead bucket.

Little Gamble, besides getting 12 points, was third high in rebounds for the Tribe with five and the 5-7 guard turned in his usual outstanding floor game.

Wildcats Romp By Michigan 5

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern romped into a 12-point halftime lead, checked a brief Michigan rally, and then coasted to an 84-66 Big Ten basketball victory Saturday.

With 17:36 remaining, Michigan had made a bid, cutting the deficit to 41-36 as Tom Cole made two baskets, and John Hall and John Harris one each. That was as close as the Wolverines came.

AT MISSISSIPPI STATE

Paul Davis May Satisfy Victory-Starved Alumni

By VAN SAVELL

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Paul Davis inherited a bundle of "ifs" and headaches as head coach at Mississippi State—but he may be the man to satisfy victory-starved alumni.

Off the football field, Davis is much like his predecessor, Athletic Director Wade Walker. They are mild-mannered and always smiling. But Davis forgets this when practice begins. He's mean.

Although Davis may follow Walker's modified pro-type style of football play, he will not be easy going — the Maroons "will work hard—very hard."

Davis speaks soft and low, but refuses to reminesce about the past. He's interested only in Mississippi State football, not his accomplishments.

One player, a returning backfield starter, says Davis is "great. He could lead us to the top—but we'll have to work. Believe me, I know."

The Maroons' "ifs" are, as Davis describes them, many.

"We've got some question mark positions—tackle, guard, quarterback and halfback," the 40-year-old former pro coach said. "If they are to be filled adequately, we must work hard—then there's no guarantee of success."

The one-time University of Mississippi center made no specific mention of headaches but said "every Southeastern Conference opponent is stronger than last year."

Davis' SEC schedule includes national champion Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana State — all ranked in The Associated Press top ten—plus Auburn, Florida and Tennessee.

CONFERENCE WIN

Bearcats Breeze Past Tulsa, 70-52

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Cincinnati's tall, talented Bearcats scored 11 points before Tulsa got one, then breezed to a 70-52 Missouri Valley Conference basketball victory Saturday night.

Tulsa scored only four field goals in the first half, and trailed the third-ranked Bearcats 44-16 at intermission.

The Hurricane, led by James King, outscored Cincinnati 36-26 in the final period, but never got close enough to threaten. Tulsa scored 14 field goals in the second half to make a total of only 18 for the game.

Tulsa scored its first point on Maloy's free throw with slightly more than four minutes gone in the game. Thirty seconds later Maloy tallied Tulsa's first field goal.

Sparked by Bonham, who scored all his points in the first half, Cincinnati rolled up a lead of up to 25 points before halftime.

AFTER SOME DISCOMFORT

LSU Gives Formal Release To Dietzel

BATON ROUGE (AP)— The Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors, after some discomfort, Saturday gave Paul Dietzel his formal release as head football coach.

Dietzel already has settled down to his new job as head coach at Army.

Debate flared anew, after an hour of closed session, when time came for a full board vote to accept the "committee of the whole" action in an unofficial session last month to sever Dietzel's contract with LSU.

"I'll be glad when this Dietzel business is dead," complained member A. L. Swanson of Monroe.

"I wish the never-never boy would go to the never-neverland and stay there," added member Tom Dutton of New Orleans.

Mrs. Ella V. Schwing, member from Plaquemine, who was absent from the earlier committee meeting, called the committee vote "chicken."

She voted against accepting minutes of the committee meetings to give the Dietzel release full legality.

"I'm not going to move anything," Mrs. Schwing replied when chairman John Doles asked if she wanted to make a motion on the matter.

"I'm just going to vote," she said. "Some of you people who chickened out go ahead and make the motion."

She apparently referred to an unsuccessful effort earlier to decline Dietzel's request for release.

Member William Pitcher of Covington commented, "I'd like to make some kind of motion on that chickening out."

After more dickering among members, Pitcher observed, "conceivably, we could have Mr. Dietzel packing to come back here and negate the action in which this fair lady here is charging us with being chicken."

Member Sterling Gladden of Baton Rouge offered the motion to finally close the deal.

Billy Maxwell Gets Lead At Panama City

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Gunning for his first tournament triumph of the year, rotound Billy Maxwell, defending Seagram Caribbean champion from Dallas, Tex., grabbed the third round lead in the Panama Open golf tournament Saturday by firing a two-under-par 70 for a 208 total.

One stroke better than Canada's George Knudson and Don Whitt of Borrego Springs, Calif., the Dallas shot - maker sliced two strokes off par on the back nine to go with his par 36 for the front side.

The 32-year-old Maxwell, who claims his magic putter has finally returned for the first time this year, was third on opening day and tied for second Friday in the battle for $10,000 and the Seagram cup.

Knudson, of Toronto and formerly of Winnipeg, bounced back into contention with his 34-34 after going one over Friday and slipping to fifth. The Canadian star fired two consecutive birdies on the 17th and 18th holes for his runnerup spot.

Palmer Retains Lead After Three Rounds

By CARL BELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer matched par Saturday and clung to a five-stroke lead in the third round of the $35,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The defending champion, failing to break par for the first time in his last eight rounds, pulled up to the 4-hole mark 10-under-par at 203.

Despite his troubles, mostly with Bouncy greens, Palmer maintained the margin he held after two rounds. These who had been closest to him folded under the pressure of trying to catch up.

Bill Casper fired a 3-under-par 68 on the 6,765-yard Phoenix Country Club course and moved into second place at 208.

Blowing himself practically out of contention was Art Wall Jr., who was the runner-up after two rounds. Wall lost his touch and his temper, posting a 2-over 73 and falling seven strokes off the pace.

U.S. Open champion Gene Littler had an even worse day and soared to a 75 for a three-round total of 214.

For Palmer, it was just a case of bogeys offsetting his three birdies. One of the bogeys came on the par 3 210-yard 15th hole when his tee shot splashed into a lake just in front of the green.

"I hit some good shots out there," he said. "But those greens were very hard. And I just didn't sink any good putts. The longest one was the 6-footer I needed for a par on the 18th."

The lake at the 15th may also have knocked young Bob McCallister out of contention. Four-under-par on his first nine, McCallister came in with a 71 and remained seven strokes back.

McCallister's ball richocheted out of the lake but was stuck in tall grass just at the top of the bank. He got out for a bogey 4.

McCallister's most disastrous hole on a bad back nine was the 17th, where he bounced his drive into a palm tree for an unplayable lie and wound up with a 2-over-par 6.

Rayville Defeats Irish In 2-A Game

RAYVILLE (Special))—Charlie Gammill pumped in 29 points before fouling out to lead the Rayville Hornets to an important District 2-A basketball victory over the St. Matthew's Irish here last night, 57-43.

The loss left Coach Bennie Hollis' Irish with a 7-3 district mark and a 12-16 season record. However, St. Matthew's is still in second place behind Ferriday who has gone undefeated in 10 league games.

Coach Ralph McKinstry's Hornets are now tied with Winnsboro for third place in the league race with a 6-4 record. Rayville possesses an 11-8 season record.

Last night Gammill connected on 12 field goal attempts and cashed in five free tosses before being charged with his fifth personal foul with about six minutes remaining in the game.

Richard Fontana, although slowed with an injured ankle, was St. Matthew's leading point producer with 15. Zeke Zarro popped in five fielders to add 10 more points to the Irish's score. Joe Clements hit nine before fouling out late in the third quarter.

Billy Miller and Billy Ray Gammill also scored nine apiece for Rayville.

The Hornets jumped off to a 15-11 lead by the end of the initial period, but the Irish fought back hard in the second quarter, and went ahead three points before Rayville settled down and took a 27-26 advantage at intermission.

Rayville increased its lead to 43-35 by the end of the third stanza and finished with a 14 point advantage, 57-43.

St. Matthew's matched the Hornets on free throws, each team hitting 11, but Rayville connected on 23 shots from the field as compared to 16 for the Irish.

In the preliminary game, Charles Marsala and Clifford Worley netted 14 points each to pace St. Matthew's B team to a 41-23 victory. Butch Jefferies was high for the losers with eight.

Coach Hollis' Irish host Winnsboro and Tallulah next week in their final district games, while Rayville entertains Ferriday and Oak Grove in its final league contests.

Dixie White Goes To LSU Football Staff

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Dixie B. White — one of Frank Broyles' key assistants at Arkansas for the past seven years — will join the Louisiana State football coaching staff Monday.

The 43-year-old White, a collegiate star in the late thirties at Texas Tech, has been coaching high school and college football since 1940, except for a two-year hitch in the armed forces during World War II.

At Arkansas, White was associated with three bowl teams under Broyles. The Razorbacks won one Southwest Conference title outright and tied for the crown twice.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The latest Cincinnati Reds player to send in his signed contract is pitcher Moe Drabowski, the baseball club announced Saturday night.

Dischinger Sets Scoring Record As Indiana Wins

LAFAYETT, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's Terry Dischinger set a Big Ten three-year basketball career record and took the league scoring lead away from Jimmy Rayl of Indiana Saturday in a 105-93 victory over the Hoosiers.

The Purdue All-America potted 47 points to delight a sellout crowd in the Purdue Fieldhouse, bringing his three-year total to 1,068.

The old mark was 1,027 by Paul Ebert of Ohio State in 1952-54. The best three-year record of a four-year man, in years when freshmen played, still belongs to Indiana's Don Schlundt with 1,207 in 1953-55.

FOR PITTSBURGH

Law Will Return To Mound Duties

FORST MYERS, Fla. (AP) — After a week of testing, pitcher Vernon Law says his arm feels fine and that's good news for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I wouldn't say that I have thrown as hard as I can," Law said, "but I have been throwing well. There is no tichtness in my shoulder and I have felt no pain at all."

Law was a hero of the Pirates' drive to the world championship in 1960. He won 20 games and posted a 3.08 earned run average. He pitched a pair of World Series victories over the Yankees. Last year Law tore muscles in his shoulder and was placed on the disabled list for the balance of the season after posting a 3-4 record and an ERA of 4.73.

After examinations and treatments, he was told to go to his Idaho home and rest. "I fished and hunted with my family, did a little carpentry work and just did as they said," Law said.

"I had this happen once before," said Law. "It was back in 1951 and I went into the service where I didn't pitch any at all and when I came out the shoulder was all right again." Law said that the 1951 injury was much more severe than the one suffered last year. "I think that we got to this one a lot quicker, too," Law said.

Craft Optimistic About Colts In '62

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Harry Craft left for Arizona Saturday to open the firht spring training camp of the Houston Colts.

The field manager of the new National League entry said he would make no promises about the 1962 season but that he is optimistic.

Craft summarizes the Houston outlook this way: Strong defense, comparatively weak power, and uncertain pitching.

"I believe we'll have a good defensive club," he said. "We are rather weak on power. We don't have a string of starting pitchers, but we feel we have some good prospects. We expect a highly competitive spring training camp. That is encouraging because a good competitive spirit leads to winning ball games."

Craft and his coaches begin three days of strategy conferences on Tuesday at the Apache Junction spring training headquarters. Paul Richards, who gave up a job as field manager of the Baltimore Orioles last September to become general manager of the Colts, also will take part.

The first players — 16 pitchers and three catchers—are to report on Friday. The remainder of the 53-man squad reports Feb. 26. The first exhibition games will be March 10 against the Los Angeles Angels at Palm Springs, Calif.

Craft said he is not discouraged by the fact a number of the 21 players the Colts obtained from the National League player pool in October did not play regularly last season.

Sterlington Cage Tourney Officials Meet

STERLINGTON (Special)—The steering committee for the second annual Sterlington Independent Basketball Tournament will meet Monday night to map final plans and set a deadline for entries.

The tourney is sponsored by the Sterlington Booster Club in cooperation with the Sterlington High School, where the tournament will be played. Dates are from February 28 through March 3.

Coach L. J. Fontenot of the Sterlington High School said Friday several out of state teams had filed entries during the past few days. "From the indications this past week, we are looking forward to an even better tournament this year than last," Fontenot said.

High school athletes will not be permitted to participate in the cage play, but teams may icldue college and former college players.

Divisions have been set up for both men and girls' play.

Team rosters must be submitted to Coach Fontenot along with the entrance fee of $10 per team. Following the first game of the tourney no names may be added to any of the teams.

First, second and third place trophies will be given in the men's division, while in the girls' group first and second will be awarded. Individual awards will also be given to the outstanding male and female players.

Preliminary games for the men will have eight minute quarters and finals and semi-finals ten minute quarters. In the girls' division, the quarters will be seven minutes for the early games and eight minutes for the semi-finals and finals.

Ole Miss Grid Team Will Have 'New Look' In 62

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (Special)—Ole Miss will have tailbacks and wingbacks—no halfbacks, please—on its 1962 "new look" football team.

The Rebels, who get their yearly spring training tour underway Saturday, will reintroduce what Coach Johnny Vaught calls "The Charley Conerly offense."

The Conerly style single wing — the old Notre Dame box. Vaught retailored it 15 years ago to give Conerly wide range and an abundance of targets with his passes.

It goes without syaing that the T-quarterback will be the mainspring, the conductor. The wingback will be just that—the back on the wing, left or right—though his chief function will be that of a flanker emissary, or man in motion.

For the most part, the tailback and full back will be companions as set backs, with the tailback to be dispatched as a flanker or motion back on occasion.

There will be as much variety and guile as Vaught and his staff can concoct out of the redesigned Conerly single wing. That year —1947—Vaught created what was actually a new system by moving the wingback aeross laterally. It was a maneuver in the shift from the 'T' into the N. D. box which enabled him to keep Conerly at tailback no matter the direction of the shift. And what the now veteran New York Giants ace did was to set a then-new national collegiate record of 133 pass completions and hike Ole Miss to its first Southeastern Conference championship.

As for the "new look," and the style of play is part of that picture, the Reb rebuilding program figures to be more demanding than usual.

Badgers Tighten 2nd Place Grip With 77-72 Win

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's basketball team tightened its grip on second place in the Big Ten Conference Saturday, whipping Michigan State 77-72.

The Badgers built up a 22-point lead midway in the last half, then coasted to their sixth victory in seven conference starts. The record kept them just one game behind undefeated Ohio State. The Spartans now are 2-7.

It was Ken Siebel's scoring and rebounding that made the difference for Wisconsin. The 6-4 junior from Rock Falls, Ill., netted 23 points to lead all scoring. Siebel hauled in 15 rebounds, many of which set up key fastbreak scoring plays. He sank seven baskets and nine free throws. Tom Gwyn and Mike O'Melia added 14 apiece to the winners' total.

Poke Gridders To Begin Contact Work Tomorrow

Coach Les DeVall has had his Cowboys out in shorts for a week working on conditioning, but full gear will be donned Monday. McNeese's spring training will continue through March 17, five days per week.

Biggest gaps to be filled in the defending Gulf States Conference champions' lineup are at quarterback and end. Graduation has taken quarterbacks Don Breaux and Nolan Viator plus four ends, including all-America Tom Sestak.

Breaux and Viator provided McNeese with a powerful 1-2 signal calling punch for the last four years. Best bet to step into the No. 1 quarterbacking spot this fall is Tommy Thompson, a junior transfer from LSU who redshirted with the Cowboys last fall.

Twenty-one lettermen will be among the 40 or so Cowboy candidates taking part in spring sessions. They will be joined by a crop of 17 incoming freshmen next fall.

Louisiana Tech Has 19 Track Lettermen Back

RUSTON (Special) — Coach Jimmie Mize at Louisiana Tech will have 19 track lettermen available this spring, but will be without the 440 and 880-yard relay personnel that helped carry the Bulldogs to the Gulf States conference title in 1961.

Sprinter Par Garrett, a four-year standout, has graduated. He anchored the GSC championship 440-yard and 880-yard relay teams. Injuries caused the loss of last year's sprint sensation, Mike Mathis, and distance runner Robin Bryan.

Other lettermen back include distance runners Earl Wright, and Bill Powell; field performers Wayne Melton, Steve Adams, Frank Howard, Glen Cox, Butch McLaurin, Joe Cage, Mickey Howell, Herbert Miller, and Percy Holoman.

Dayton Baker, Jim Kirkland, Edwin Davis and Joe Albritton are sprint lettermen; hurdlers are Robert Daulton, and Max Howad. Squadmen back are Allen Herbert and Gene Ball, both distance runners.

Freshman prospects are sprintes Van Max Hays, Ray Penny, Jack Odom, and Kenny Tidwell. Allen Capenter will be a sprinter and hurdler; Frank Bight and Allen Laird will be new distance runners, and Corky Corker will compete in the pole vault. Doyle McCathran is a frosh javelin prospect.

Varangot Wins Tourney Crown

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — French Amateur champion Brigitte Varangot won the Palm Beach Women's Golf Championship Saturday with a 21-hole decision over Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, in the finals.

The 21-year-old Paris girl held a four-hole lead after the first 10. Mrs. Johnstone rallied to win four consecutive holes. They halved the remainder in regulation play and went into sudden death.

They matched stroke for stroke until Mrs. Johnstone hit a 3-iron shot into a pond on the third hole. Miss Varangot played it out for par and victory.

INTENTIONALLY, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, flashes to a conclusive victory in the $50,000-added Seminole Handicap at Hialeah yesterday in Miami. Internationally ran the mile and one-eighth in 1:48 2/5 and paid $9.70, $3.90. (AP Wirephoto)

AT HIALEAH SATURDAY

Internationally May Not Retire After Easy Victory

By FRANK EIDGE

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI)—Intentionally sprinted to such an easy eight-length victory in the $62,300 Seminole handicap at Hialeah Saturday that the performance threw his announced retirement into doubt.

Intentionally, co-holder of the world's record for a mile was due for farming out to stud after Saturday's race. But he easily outdistanced a classy field of nine other handicap stars, including 1961 Kentucky Derby winner Carry Back.

The victory made the black six-year-old thoroughbred a hot prospect for the $100,000 Widener handicap Feb. 24, for which he is nominated. Comments were widespread among trained observors that it would be a shame to retire Intentionally now when he has reached such peak form.

Carry Back, carrying high weight of 127 pounds compared to 126 on the winner, came with his customary late rush in crowded quarters along the rail to grab second by a half-length over Calumet Farms' Yorky. Yorky finished a half-length in front of the fourth horse, Vapor Whirl.

Intentionally was second choice of the large crowd of 25,654. He paid $9.70, $3.90, and $2.90 for a two dollar bet across the board.

A total of $107,005 went down the drain for those who bet on carry back to win. But the Florida-bred colt, odds-on choice of the crowd, returned $2.60 and $2.20 for place and show.

Yorky, fitted with a bar shoe on the hoof the colt injured last summer, ran his best race since the injury. The Calumet star returned $3.30 for show.

Intentionally, ridden by Jockey Manuel Ycaza, who flew in from California for the race, took the lead soon after the gate opened. Vapor Whirl, carring a feathery 114 pounds, gave close pursuit and pulled even with the leader down the backstretch. But Ycaza was merely galloping Intentionally, holding his mount's strength for the later stages of the race.

Royals Trounce St. Louis Five In NBA Contest

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals, trailing briefly at the end of the first quarter, caught fire and trounced the St. Louis Hawks 134-118 Saturday in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game.

The score was tied five times in the first period, which ended with the score 35-29 in favor of St. Louis. But in the second quarter the Hawks failed to get a field goal for five minutes and Cincinnati went ahead.

USL Announces Plans For Grid Clinic On Feb. 17

LAFAYETTE (Special)—The University of Southwestern Louisiana Athletic Department today announced plans for a one-day Football Clinic to be held on the USL campus Saturday, Feb. 17.

The Clinic, in conjunction with spring football practice at USL, will be highlighted by the appearance of two outstanding guest speakers; Jim Pittman, Offensive Coach for the University of Texas, and Pat James, University of Alabama Defensive Coach.

STARTING MONDAY NIGHT

NLSC Faces 2 Busy Weeks Of Cage Play

Gulf States Conference leader Northeast State opens two busy weeks of basketball Monday night by playing host to Spring Hill in the first of six games in 13 days.

The Indians from Monroe will play Arkansas State at home next Wednesday and travel to Ruston for a GSC game with Louisiana Tech Friday evening. The following week they'll meet Northwestern at home Feb. 20, Delta State at home Feb. 22 and Spring Hill at Mobile, Ala., Feb. 24.

Coach Lenny Fant's Tribe improved its conference record to 6-1 and its overall mark to 11-7 with a 66-61 triumph over defending GSC champ McNeese last Friday night. McNeese is the only conference team to beat the Indians this year, taking a 77-67 decision in Lake Charles Jan. 9.

Northeast is 1½ games ahead of Southwestern in the GSC cage chase and must win two of its three remaining GSC games to clinch a tie for the title, provided Southwestern does not lose again. All other league teams have lost at least three times within the circuit.

All-GSC Lanny Johnson scored 26 points against McNeese Friday to boost his scoring average to 19.7, best in the conference. Sophomore forward Jimmy Walker trails Johnson in team scoring with a 12.9 average and is also second in rebounds with an 8.3 mark. Big Robert Cook leads the team in recoveries, and is second in the GSC, with a 10.8 average.

Cook (6-5), Walker (6-4), Johnson (6-1), Bob Groves (6-2) and Stuart Toms (5-11) are the probable Northeast starters against Spring Hill. Cook is averaging 8.3 points a game, Groves 4.8 and Toms 7.7.

Spring Hill, going into a Saturday night game with St. Bernard, had a 3-14 record. The Badgers lost their No. 1 scorer, Dick Hennier, at the end of the fall semester and their No. 2 point-maker, Tom Lawrence, has been ill and may not be able to play Monday. Hennier, averaging 21.9 points, dropped out of school.

Members of Northeast's gymnastics team will give an exhibition of free calisthenics and steel ring routines between the halves of the Northeast-Spring Hill basketball game. Both free calisthenics and steel rings are Olympic events.

Bill Kreiger, Pete Smith, Louis Whitworth and Wynn Jefferson will perform on the rings and Gene Huffty and Marvin Jordan will perform the calisthenics.

Bulldogs Wallop Tennessee, 91-67

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)— Mississippi State, working with machine-like precision, blasted mistake-prone Tennessee 91-67 Saturday night at set the stage for the crucial meeting with Kentucky at Lexington Monday night.

The Bulldogs, parlaying deadly foul shooting, slick, almost perfect ball-handling, and stalling tactics featuring a sophomore guard, ran their season's record to 18-1. They are 7-1 in the Southeastern Conference.

Tennessee led early, but state, capitalizing on sloppy Vol passing, went ahead to stay with four minutes gone on Leland Mitchell's field goal.

The vols cut the deficit to three points late in the half, but little guard Doug Hutton put on a dribbling show and scored five consecutive points to help state to a 45-35 halftime lead.

The margin increased steadily in the second half as State alternated fast breaks with a stymying slow-down.

Mitchell had 23 points, Jie Dan Gold had 21 points and 15 rebounds, sophomore Hutton added 18 and W. D. Stroud chipped in 16.

Center Orb Bowling led the Vols with 18 points and 9 rebounds and forward Jerry Parker had 16 points.

REPORT FROM TOKYO

Robert Kennedy's Japan Visit Hailed As Success

By CONRAD FINK

TOKYO (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy, hitting the campaign trail in Japan with his smile and windblown shock of brown hair and greeted by shouts of "Welcome Kennedy-san" wherever he went, made the biggest hit of any American visitor here in years.

Despite criticism at home and persistent resistance by heckling, banner-waving Japanese Communists, the U.S. attorney general's six-day visit was being labeled here Saturday as a resounding success—within the limited scope of its announced purposes.

He arrived saying he wanted to meet people, explain the New Frontier program of his brother, President Kennedy, and learn all he could about Japan.

He succeeded:

—In meeting thousands of people, the vast majority of whom were so friendly that many stepped on his shoes in eagerness to shake his hand and shout "Banzai" (Long live).

—In explaining the New Frontier in scores of meetings and talks with Japanese ranging from Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda to leftist anti-American labor leaders, he used wit, irony and logic —with sometimes a bit of Irish temper—to get his points across.

—In listening, and adding a new dimension to his ideas of Japan.

Kennedy, 36, was spending a two - day period of rest in the British crown colony of Hong Kong this weekend before going on to Indonesia for a continuation of his 'round-the-world tour. He told newsmen there the Communist world has more problems than the West—as shown by the Red wall in Berlin and Soviet-Red Chinese differences—"and there is great promise for us."

En route he stopped at Taipei in Formosa and told Nationalist Chinese officials "The ties of treaty and spirit that bind us will continue to grow stronger."

With his departure from Japan, one of the nation's most widely read newspapers, Yomiuri Shimbun, surveyed the impact of his visit and said he had demonstrated "a new diplomatic goodwill technique more effective than printing one million propaganda pamphlets.

Japanese newspapers printed reams of material about his smile, his tremendous energy from early morning to late night, and his occasional bluntness. One newspaper published nine separate stories, plus photographs, about Kennedy in one edition.

Kennedy challenged Japan's leftists by doing about everything but walking into Communist party headquarters with the American flag in his teeth.

He debated left-wing Socialists who returned from Red China filled with the party line. In the eyes of many observers he demolished their anti-American arguments with a courtroom style of interrogation in at least one or two instances.

He pushed his motorcade into Tokyo's industrial area, where the Reds had been active, and listened to roars of welcome drown out shouts of "Imperialist go home."

Kennedy took his campaign outside Tokyo and ignored small knots of Communists who failed to disrupt his meetings with peasants, village officials and school children.

In this sparring with the banner wavers and hecklers Kennedy suffered one setback—and that may turn out to be a victory. This was his appearance at Tokyo's Waseda University.

It started well, with thousands of students cheering in friendly enthusiasm when he arrived. But in the auditorium, strategically placed hecklers disrupted his speech.

When he tried to speak, their cries echoed about the room, and the microphone went dead—probably not by accident. When Kennedy selected one heckling spokesman to come forward, the youth monopolized the now-working microphone to make a vitriolic anti-American speech.

Kennedy calmly held the microphone for the screaming youth and then challenged the students to orderly debate. Never once did he show anger or fear.

At the sight of Kennedy being polite to his tormentors, a distinct murmur of embarrassment swept through the assembled students. U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer, an expert on Japan predicted a "boomerang effect" against the hecklers.

Two other things bothered Kennedy throughout his visit. He feared the Japanese would assume all their troubles would disappear overnight as a result of his trip. Whenever he got a chance, he declared that long after he was gone, the United States and Japan probably would still differ on some things.

He was especially sensitive about whether his visit would lead the President to shelve ideas about a U.S. surcharge on cotton textile imports—an issue that has raised a storm in Japan. The attorney general repeatedly told the Japanese they must remember that their low-cost textile exports to the United States have thrown thousands of Americans out of work. He always added that the Kennedy administration favors lowering trade barriers and would keep Japan's interests in mind.

Kennedy also appeared concerned about Republican charges in Washington that he was infringing upon diplomats' territory. Kennedy said he was merely trying to exchange ideas and would not attempt to mediate any disputes such as that between Indonesia and the Netherlands over West New Guinea. He called himself an amateur in diplomacy and commended Reischauer.

TO VISIT PRESIDENT

King Saud Leaving 'Palace' In Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The King of Saudi Arabia got his flowing robe caught in a farewell social whirl this weekend preparatory to abandoning his Palm Beach palace to visit President Kennedy. And he appeared to relish it.

Bakr Yunis, the royal announcer, announced that King Saud and his party of 41 will fly to Washington Tuesday morning. From there they go to the Spanish Balearic Island of Majorca in the Mediterranean Sea and then home.

The 61-year-old desert monarch has recovered from eye and abdominal surgery he underwent in Boston last month, Yunis said.

So he has been emerging more frequently from the veiled, completely guarded ocean front villa where he convalesced. Dinners, cruises, swims, walks, spectator sports and deep sea fishing (an aide confided Saud hadn't been able to hook a single fish) have kept him busy.

The bearded and goggled king's presence has lent Arabian flavor to this exclusive winter resort's busy social life. A highlight was a formal dinner given for Saud by Stephen Sanford, the former polo star, and Mrs. Sanford, and Stanton Griffis, a former U. S. ambassador, and Mrs. Griffis.

The king appeared in royal robe. A gold and black agal, or braid, was amend his white turban.

Mrs. Joseph O. Kennedy, the President's mother, was among those attending.

Saud's wife—the only one of his four here with him—was absent. She remained, Arab fashion, in the secluded and curtained feminine wing of Vida Serena (Serene Life), the temporary royal residence. The 18-room, cream colored Spanish style mansion and gardens are surrounded by a seven-foot-high coral-colored wall.

The glittering gathering sat through the dinner without alcoholic beverages or tobacco, in deference to Moslem custom.

Though the queen does not accompany Saud on his outings, she had an outing of her own the other day. She visited a museum. Such a public appearance is unusual said a royal aide.

But there she was, not even wearing thte traditional Arab veil, and flashing her dark eyes with apparent interest at historical and aristic objects.

And what was the queen's name?

She wouldn't say.

Nor will any member of the royal party say or even talk about women in the royal party. Forbidden by tradition.

Parties for the younger sets filled the days, making last weekend a bright spot on February's calendar. Most gala was the dance honoring MARY TIL WRIGHT on her sixteenth birthday Saturday night. FRANCES M'HENRY was hostess for the affair, held on the Hotel Frances roof.

A Valentine theme was carried out in decorations, with large red hearts used on walls and behind the bandstand. Red and white camellis and sprays of ivy centered individual tables. Red carnations accented with red hearts were placed on the table with the guest book.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cut-work cloth and centered with a cupid figurine holding red carnations and white stock in a tall, fan-shaped arrangement. Cupids holding three red candles stood at each side of the centerpiece. Red punch was served from bowls at either end of the table, and trays held Valentine confections and iced petit fours.

Other dresses noted on the floor included ELAINE BUTLER's green and white printed chiffon, worn with matching chiffon stole . . . KAREN CROW's white organza, embroidered with white flowers around the hem . . . and JEAN CARTER's frock, styled of tiers of white eyelet embroidery . . . Simply beautiful and beautifully simple was NANCY PITTMAN's pale apricot peau d'ange . . . JAN PRICE Wore starched red chiffon with tiers of ruffles finishing the back of the full skirt . . . NANCY TALBOT was stunning in white satin cobwebbed with gold thread and worn under a full length green satin coat . . . A solid yellow cummerbund accented PAULA MORELAND's brocade of yellow - on - beige . . . MAXINE ELDRIDGE chose white chiffon, belted in white satin, and accented her bouffant hairdo with a tiny white satin bow . . . ELAINE SPENCER's black crepe featured a black chiffon skirt and ring collar of black fox . . . WANDA LANGLEY wore green chiffon under a full length green lace coat . . . Bright as the season was MINTA GOYNE in red chiffon with matching stole . . . MIKE M'KINLEY's gold gloves were a brilliant accent to an all-green outfit . . . Another outstanding green ensemble was CAROLE PARKER's pale spring green satin, worn with stole looped to the back . . . GLENDA GATES' white chiffon and brocade was trimmed with red bows up the back . . . SANDRA CHAPMAN's choice was an aqua chiffon skirt, worn with an overblouse embroidered in blue and green sequins.

Members of FUN LOVIN SEVENS fun club attended a bowling party at Bowlero last Saturday morning. One hundred sixty-one seventh graders were present at two sections of the party. Prizewinners in the nine to eleven a.m. group were KATHY MOUK, door prize; GARY SAGET, high score for boys; MARY BASS, high score for girls. Between eleven and one, prizes were awarded to ALEX POAG, best boy's score; ANN LIGHT, best girl's score; and BELINDA SCHMIDT, door prize. Hamburgers, bottled drinks, and candy bars were served for lunch.

On his eighth birthday Sunday, ISAAC LUFFEY, JR., was honored at a Valentine party at Partyland. Hearts and cupids decorated the hall where twenty boys and girls gathered for party games and a puppet show. Cupcakes, ice cream, and punch were served for refreshments, and the birthday boy received a large Valentine cake to take home.

A circus theme was carried out at SUSAN ROBERTS' third birthday party Saturday. A circus tablecloth covered the table, and the birthday cake was shaped like a clown. Little guests received balloons with their names on them. Favors, which were comb and brush sets for girls and little airplanes for boys, were distributed through a go - fishing game.

WILCOX SNELLINGS, here last week end with his parents, the GEORGE SNELLINGS III, from Baton Rouge, celebrated his third birthday. Grandmother MARIE LOUISE invited a dozen children in for homemade cake and ice cream in honor of the event.

A style show was the big event at KATHY THOMAN's eighth birthday at Partyland last Saturday afternoon. Dresses, hats, purses, beads, shoes, were provided for each little girl to select and dress herself for the show. Also on the afternoon's program were a puppet show and bingo games. A pink and blue theme was carried out in decorations. Cupcakes, ice cream, and punch were served to twenty-one little girls.

For the CAR's George Washington luncheon at the Paragon last Saturday, red camellias centered the head table, and red, white, and blue streamers ran the lengths of the tables. At each place was a profile of Washington, cut from red paper, and having the program lettered thereon in white ink. JOHN TAYLOR was speaker of the day. His topic was "Individualism." Chicken was the main course, with ice cream and (of course) cherries for dessert.

Meanwhile, parties for grownups are not omitted. Two favorite reasons for entertaining are visitors or newcomers. PAULINE LOKER invited about fourteen of her neighbors on Island Drive over for coffee Tuesday afternoon to meet ANN COLE, who had recently moved onto the street. Red and white peppermint - striped camellias were used in the centerpiece, which was encircled with tiny figurines. German chocolate pound cake and cookies were served with spiced tea and coffee.

Here for a two week's visit was GLORIA TILGER, enroute with daughters BELINDA and DAWNA from Texas to their new home in Anchorage, Alaska. They were guests of Gloria's sister, SANDY HOLT, and mother, MABLE SANDERSON.

Several informal get-togethers and family dinners honored Gloria during her visit, including a luncheon at the Paragon with VIRGINIA CALHOUN hostess. A bright red cloth covered the table, with the centerpiece a silver compote filled with red carnations, white chrysanthemums, red velvet hearts and white tulle. Lump crab meat au gratin and green beans highlighted the menu. White place cards trimmed with red velvet hearts and red ribbons marked places for CATHERINE HULSEY, SANDY, RHELDA BUTLER, MARY PIERREL, NELL ARMSTRONG, the honoree and hostess.

How do I love thee? Let me count the ways.
I love thee to the depth and breadth and height
My soul can reach, when feeling out of sight
For the ends of Being and ideal Grace.
I love thee to the level of every-day's
Most quiet need, by sun and candlelight.
I love thee freely, as men strive for Right;
I love thee purely, as they turn from Praise.
I love thee with the passion put to use
In my old griefs, and with my childhood's faith.
I love thee with a love I seemed to lose
With my lost saints. — I love thee with the breath,
Smiles, tears, of all my life! — and, if God choose,
I shall but love thee better after death.

Ensemble Gives Program For Coterie Observance

"Federation of Music Day," was celebrated by the Musical Coterie Friday, February 2 in the home of Mrs. Phanor Perot on Park Avenue, with a program by the Ouachita Parish high school Ensemble.

The ensemble, directed by Mrs. Lloydelle Thomas, presented "A Parade of American Folk Songs," with an introduction and background of each number given by the students.

The panorama featuring various types of folk songs was preceded by "The Balladeers," composed of Bob Massingill, guitar; Milton Platt, bongos and Jim Furr, banjo, who played the ballads, "Hard Travelin'" and Shady Grove."

Folk songs sung by the ensemble were "Hard Trap," "Shady Grove," "Ol' Joe Clark," "Red River Valley," "Goin' To Boston," "Harper's Creek," "Shortnin' Bread," and "Poor Man Cazara." A new player in the February 15 concert will be Herr Mayer, cellist, who recently arrived from Germany.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a princess style gown of white Chantilly lace, with scalloped neckline and long sleeves tapering to petal points over the hands. Her waist-length veil of illusion was attached to a queen's crown of Chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of stock centered with a white orchid and showered with pearls.

A reception followed the ceremony with the bride's table covered with an imported white lace cloth and centered with a mound of white roses, carnations, candytuft and ivy. A tiered wedding cake and punch bowl were at opposite ends of the table. The buffet held two silver epergnes with tall white tapers entwined with ivy.

For a wedding trip to New Orleans, the bride changed to a charcoal silk suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They are now at home at 1615 N. 5th in Monroe.

Shrimp News

Shrimp Florentine, like all dishes bearing the name, "Florentine," contains spinach. To make it, spread a layer of cooked, chopped spinach in a shallow casserole. Next, add a layer of cooked shrimp. Pour in a cream sauce, make richer with an egg yolk and seasoned to taste with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Sprinkle the top with grated Parmesan cheese and place under a broiler until the sauce begins to bubble and is lightly browned.

Twenty-six new Brownie Scouts of Troop 87 are proudly wearing shiny trefoil pins which show that they are now full - fledged members of the Girl Scouts. Mrs. B. B. McWhorter, leader of Troop 23, and Mrs. R. W. Plair, West Monroe Neighborhood Chairman, invested Mrs. Clyde Pate and Mrs. William Kelley, leaders of the new troop, who then invested the following Brownises: Barbara Alexander, Kayla Anderson, Paula Jean Boyd, Sheryl Kay Breeden, Ann Calvert, Deborah Lynn Deland, Sherry Fontenot, Sharon Fordyce, Monica Ann Gilmore, Ann Hogan, Teresa Howard, Judy Jackson, Nancy Jane Johnston, Kathy Kelly, Deanne Keltner, Libby McClendon, Sandy Little, Lorrie Moncrief, Patti Pate, Lisa Poche, Susan Potter, Amy Smith, Carol Smith, Juanita Taylor, Deborah Mitchell, Gail Pate, Susan Singleton. Serving as Troop Committee Members are Mrs. R. D. Potter, Mrs. L. D Keltner and Mrs. Lavelle Johnston.

Brownie Scouts have a special ceremony based on the well-known Brownie Story. "Twist me and turn me and show me the elf. I looked in the water and saw ———". Of course, the only word that fits is "myself," which the girl supplies as she looks into the mirror, or magic pool. Each girl repeated the Promise, received her membership card and with the Girl Scout handshake was officially welcomed by the troop leaders.

The girls had invited their mothers to share this important occasion, with a social hour at the conclusion of the ceremony, at Highland Park Country Club.

Girls of Troop 87 attend Millsaps and Highland schools. They have a "big sister" troop in Troop 23, Intermediate Scouts. Marilyn Bedgood, Trudy Hollis, Mary Pate, Susan McWhorter, and Gail Roberson have visited the Brownie Scout troop to teach songs and games and a flag ceremony.

At their last meeting, Troop 23 invested Cathy Fordyce, Trudy Hollis, and Sandra Hulsey, who had completed Tenderfoot requirements and were ready to make the Girl Scout Promise and receive their pins. Also received into the troop were Vicki McDuffie and Kathy Grant, who transferred from other troops.

It is nice to know that girls find a place in Scouting wherever they go. Debbie Grayson, formerly of Troop 94, has joined a troop in Dallas, just in time to prepare for "flying-up" into Intermediate Scouting.

Neighborhood meetings this week are West Monroe on Tuesday at 1:15 and Southside on Thursday at the same time.

The cookie sale, which will begin Feb. 24, will be discussed. Enthusiastic Scouts are already at work taking orders for the good Girl Scout cookies.

Neighborhoods are also at work on the observance of the 50th anniversary of Girl Scouting. Sunday March 11, the first day of Girl Scout Week, will be the Golden Day of Rededication to the Promise and Laws. A council-wide program will be held at 3:00 o'clock on that afternoon at T. O. Brown Auditorium at Northeast State College. That's a month from today. Families of Girl Scouts and interested friends should mark their calendars and plan to attend.

Crawford-Swanson Vows Solemnized In Winnfield

Emerald fern and bouquets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and stock alternated with graduated candelabra holding white tapers formed a setting in the First Methodist Church of Winnfield for the wedding of Miss Ida Elisabeth Crawford and Clyde Fittz Swanson Jr., which was solemnized January 26 at 6 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Edward Crawford, Horseshoe Road, Winnfield and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde F. Swanson, also of Winnfield.

Pews were marked with branched candelabra holding white tapers to complete the setting. Rev. R. H. Staples officiated at the double ring ceremony, following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. Clarice Lohman, organist and Mrs. Reed Carson, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk peau de soie, paneled with reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. The fitted bodice was enclosed with tiny self covered buttons and a cabbage rose of the material accented the back waistline, from which the full skirt extended into a chapel train also embellished with lace appliques. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and her colonial bouquet was fashioned of stock florets and sweetheart roses.

Miss Louise Walters of Colfax was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Brenda Payne, cousin of the bride, of Dodson and Miss Dottie Dawson of Monroe. They wore identical frocks of teal blue peau de soie fashioned with fitted bodices and bell shaped skirts, with pumps to match. Their headpieces were cabbage roses of matching peau de soie to which nose veils were attached. Each carried a bouquet of pink gladioli florets centered with darker pink rosebuds and surrounded by pink glamelias centered with rosebuds. Miss Judy Payne served as flower girl.

Michael Swanson attended his brother as best man and ushers were Ed Crawford, brother of the bride; Thomas White, cousin of the bridegroom; Aubrey Lynn Ryals and Rudy Brian, all of Winnfield.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlors. The bride's table was covered in blue taffeta with a double overskirt of net caught up in poufs with roses and white ribbons. Centering the table was an arrangement of white stock and chrysanthemums flanked by tall white tapers.

When the couple left for Houma where they will reside, the bride was wearing a double knit suit in gold tones with striped pillbox hat and other accessories in bone. Mrs. Swanson will teach in Houma and Mr. Swanson will attend Nicholl's State College. She is a recent graduate of Northwest State College.

Grilled Sausages

Any hearty sausage grilled over wood charcoal briquets is a satisfying main dish, when served with charcoal baked potatoes. Try the plump, smoky, seasoned wursts of all kinds. Turn with tongs on the cooking rack so as not to pierce the skin. Good go-alongs are red cabbage, coleslaw or kale.

Avoid Ravels

When sewing material which ravels easily, take cellophane tape and bind the material before attempting to sew. This method works well and you can sew right through the tape.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Laird of Tallulah and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McKeller of Rodessa.

Miss Ernestine Stewart, organist, presented nuptial music and accompanied W. C. Windham who sang "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father the bride wore a gown of white taffeta fashioned with lace bodice accented with tear drop pearls, long sleeves that tapered to lily points over the hands and lace panels in the skirt that extended into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil fell from a pearl crown and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and carnations atop a white Bible.

Mrs. E. M. Midyet of Smyrna, Tenn., matron of honor and bridesmaids, Miss Lynn Stegall of Flora, Miss., Mrs. A. B. Phillips of Shreveport and Miss Mary Joe Provine of Tallulah, wore dresses of white peau de soie with red satin slippers and carried single long stemmed red roses.

Mrs. Laird was wearing for her daughter's wedding a green lace sheath dress with white gloves and accessories and a green flower hat. Mrs. McKeller, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue linen suit with black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social hall of the church. The bride's bouquet and her attendant's flowers were used to center the refreshment table where Miss Myrtis Wyly presided at the punch service. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. C. L. Norred, Miss Mary Ann Girod and Mrs. Edward Rich, who served the wedding cake and Miss Mary Jane King, at the bride's book.

Egypt Inspires Designers In Spring Fashions

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Using contries for fashion inspiration has its limitations. A designer may find that a turn in international politics has suddenly made his source highly unpopular. And there are whole areas which are permanently out of bounds, such as Russia.

Lately things have been pretty quiet in Egypt, however, so two designers have ventured to base their spring collections on Egyptian themes. After all, there's a lot of good stuff in those tomb paintings and hieroglyphics.

Egyptian costumes fit into the high-waisted look which is coming into fashion, and hence Ceil Chapman has made the silhouette hers for her spring collection. It suits her love for draped chiffon, and the small, emphasized bosom with draperies floating away from under it, is both young and feminine.

Tacques Tiffeau, who vacations in Egypt, adapts the silhouette for daytime clothes, too, starting his waists just under the bosom and letting skirts flow away to wide hemlines.

'Little Nothing' Dress Replaced By New Image

Spring opens with a new feminine fashion image: Soft, pretty, beguiling. The understated "little nothing" dress is gone. In its place is the "something dress," the dress that makes a statement. Clothes are more elaborate — in basic construction, in detail, in shape. And the shape is no longer based on the straight lines of the rectangle. It moves, it flows, it sways. It clings to the body through bias inserts. It is unmistakably feminine.

These fashion trends for spring, 1962, have been summarized by Women's Wear Daily fashion editors after reviewing manufacturers' spring collections.

Some components of the new shape: Little jackets that float, ripple, flutter, some shaped like a capelet with the sleeves worked in, some true capes, some panels that form capes in the back alone. In the same feeling are backs that blouse or backs that are draped.

RUFFLES IN NEWS

Ruffles are a strong softening ingredient, setting up a storm at the hemline (balancing the explosion at the shoulders), climbing up a skirt from hem to waistline or even shoulders. Others trail around in horizontal tiers or extend vertically bordering a jacket or a bodice. And along with the ruffles are godets, low flares, deep flounces.

Pleats are strong, Women's Wear Daily finds. Some hang crisp and straight, breaking open only in motion. Others are diaphanous, set up their whirl at the hint of a breeze or a gesture.

The majority of skirts flare gently, sometimes echoing the flare at the top. Many feature fulness under the control of a wide, soft front panel, many have the fulness set low, reinforced by the ruffles and frills. Skirts are often worked on the bias so the figure is not concealed by a tent of fabric, but the fabric clings, no matter what its width.

FABRICS THIN

Costuming takes many forms, planned to constitute a related whole or to stand on any of its parts, each part with a specific purpose. There are full - length coats that not only complement a dress but can serve as a dress itself. There are overblouses, tunics, the new little fly-aways that provide a dress with its own wrappings, frequently a change of pace.

Fabrics have never been so thin, so drenched with color, so supple. Crepe stars, made for the softness of the hour and lending itself to the gentle flow of fabric, not only in black but in pale colors as well. It is balanced by night with chiffon, in innumerable prints that mingle pale watercolor pastels or deep tones in patterns of the utmost delicacy or boldest strength. Also featured are the lacy, open wools, often in colors of equal lightness . . . the knits appearing even for evening.

Century-Old Fashions Look Contemporary

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Even when most of New York lived below Fourteenth Street, it was a fashion town. The Museum of the City of New York has just opened an exhibit of street scenes of 1860, with eight shops reconstructed from a 19th century print of old Broadway.

The shoes in one shop look quite contemporary. Toes were tapered then, and the soft look in fabrics and leather was the thing. There were lots of dainty boots, and the little girl mannquin, dressed in bonnet and pelisse, is obviously admiring a pair in bronze kid with tassels.

Gale and Willis, jewelers of the day, had a few things not to be seen now. It was a great period for wearing flowers and carrying bouquets. So they sold bouquet holders, of enameled gilt filigree, for carrying your posy to the ball.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Oxford and Mrs. Armstrong, to Mrs. Sue Beasley, Mrs. Bob Branch, Mrs. Henry Camp, Mrs. Joe Carter, Mrs. Harold Crews, Mrs. Richard Curry, Mrs. Gene Hardin, Mrs. James Henderson, Mrs. Dale Hendricks, Mrs. Conley Hogan, Mrs. Harry Liner, Mrs. Donald Logan, Mrs. Billy Nelson, Mrs. Roland Nix, Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mrs. Wood Sers, Mrs. Bud Shepherd, Mrs. Walter Silmon, Mrs. Tommy Spurlock, Mrs. Charles Welch, Mrs. Gene Williams and Mrs. Robroy Young.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Judge Gives Helpful Advice On Displays

By MRS JOHN TOLAR

Five ladies from the West Oak Garden Club made arrangements for the TV and Garden Center show last week.

The president of this club is Mrs. Will Mac Jones. These lovely arrangements were judged and commented on by Mrs. P. A. Colvin, an accredited flower show judge and a qualified teacher of flower arranging. Her comments of praise as well as suggestions for improvement of the designs gave us a very valuable lesson in flower arranging.

As I wrote in another article we strive for perfection in flower arranging. We never quite reach perfection, so, all the good advice we can get will help us toward our goal.

CONSTRUCTIVE

We are taking advantage of our judges in getting them to judge and comment - not critize, but, give us constructive lessons in her comments on the show last week. We appreciate her time and effort spent in helping us. She reviewed with us the importance of the five elements of design — namely: Line (or skeleton), form (shape), pattern (silhouette), texture (rough or smooth), and color (most dynamic of all elements). Line should be considered first of all when making an arrangement. All other parts of our design will fall in place.

FIRST PLACE

The first arrangement, made by Mrs. August Dante, scored the first place with a grade of 93. The grades of the arrangement are not so important in this judging so I will not mention the others. All five designs ranged closely in grades since they were all well made, and equally beautiful. Mrs. Colvin praised each one, and, also suggested points that would improve so that we could learn from the judging of each—thus, giving us a flower arranging lessons. Mrs. Dante used ivy branches for her line in making a slight Hogarth design in a dark brown Ceramic urn-type container. Yellow dahlias with the buds were used within the line to complete this simple and very pleasing design.

OVAL DESIGN

Mr. Larry Anderson created an oval design using fresh fruit with three large red cabbage leaves as the main line material. This was placed on an oval natural wooden tray. The yellow squash, red into yellow apple, and two large green bell pepper were placed within the oval design. Radishes were placed throughout the design as a filler. Also a few sprigs of celery leaves were used as a filler. This was good enough to eat and would be lovely for any time of year as a table arrangement.

Mrs. Colvin commented that to improve this design she would suggest that the fruit be grouped more within the design according to color and size, etc. The radishes would be less "busy" had they been grouped together perhaps in the focal area. Being bright red they called for attention. Just a suggestion. Fruit and vegetables just as flowers in an arrangement should be grouped together in the design according to color and size.

JONQUILS

Mrs. Anderson made a second arangement using the lovely yellow jonquils — a sure sign of spring. She used yucca leaves for her main vertical line. The jonquils were massed within this line. As a filler she used pine branches behind the jonquils, and, low in the design she used lovely polished ivy leaves. Her container was a gray - green compote. Mrs. Colvin suggested that to achieve more simplicity she could have omitted the pine and added a few more ivy leaves for depth. Pine is a little busy for this design. Otherwise this was a lovely design with perfect color combinations.

Mrs. Warren Lambert used green Scotch broom for her design's line. A spray of white and yellow orchids were placed within this line. To complete the design she used yellow Gerber daisies in the focal area. The container was perfect in color for this design, being very modern in colors of gold and green. A gold footed base was added for good balance. Scotch broom, as Pine is sometimes better clipped to achieve a better line, Mrs. Colvin brought out. The curving needle leaves will confuse us and sometimes form a natural line of it's own when we are perhaps striving for another line design. Mrs. Lambert made a triangle design with this permanent material which was very lovely and, long lasting.

DRIED MATERIALS

Mrs. Leslie Clark chose dried materials for her lovely tan into deep brown color scheme. The main line was made of windswept salt cedar from Florida. To accent this line she used the dark brown dock to the right of the design. Three large garlic blossoms were placed in the focal area. The container for this material was perfect in color. It was a tan rectangular shallow bowl on black iron legs. For filler she used a full blown milk weed pod in the central area and two small cattails. Mrs. Colvin suggested the importance of balance in design here.

The Dock which is a dark brown, added quite a lot of weight to one side of this design. She suggested that more of the dock should have been used low to the right to achieve better balance.

Mrs. Colvin stated that color in a design is the most important of the five elements to consider. When making a flower show design, remember that simplicity is important. We are more apt to come away with a blue ribbon if we use less materials.

Not criticism, but expert advise and suggestions from one of authority, and, may I add a little praise thrown in whenever we deserve it, will help us in achieving our goal toward perfection in flower-arranging.

We do appreciate Mrs. Colvin's helpful comments on this show which was brought to us by the West Oak Garden Club. Thanks to them for the lovely arrangements.

This week we will look forward to seeing Dr. John Wright from Ruston Tech. He always presents a wonderful show in flower arranging, so, be watching and come by the Garden Center.

U.S.-British Nuclear Test Pact Assailed

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's agreement to permit U.S. nuclear tests on a British Pacific Island stirred a storm of criticism Saturday. Opposition Labor Party Chief Hugh Gaitksell said he would take his objections directly to President Kennedy in Washington.

In Paris, the French government announced the United States and Britain had asked France to join them and Russia in nuclear test ban talks. It was the first time France had been invited to such talks. But a spokesman said France would accept only if the talks were "well prepared and showed a chance of achieving serious results."

British Liberal party leader Joe Grimond and some leading British newspapers also criticized the agreement under which Britain would stage an underground test in Nevada and the United States use Christmas Island for atmospheric testing.

In Moscow, the official Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said the Anglo-American plan for resumption of testing was another step to intensify the nuclear arms race.

Pravda told its readers about the U.S.-British invitation to the Russians to join them in foreign ministers' talks on a test ban in a prelude to the full 18-nation disarmament conference opening in Geneva next month.

A French government statement issued in Paris sharply criticized the forthcoming disarmament conference in Geneva and said it is unlikely "to make a constructive contribution to the disarmament problem." It urged that the disarmament talks be restricted to the nuclear powers.

In London Gaitskill said he would air his party's objections to the Anglo-American test agreement when he goes to Washington after attending a Bermuda parliamentary conference next week.

Gaitskill was expected to seek to have any further testing indefinitely postponed or delayed at least until after the opening of the Geneva disarmament conference March 14.

Businessman Hasn't Been Checkmated

He has not been checkmated since.

Kaye, who turns 50 this year, is board chairman and chief executive of Friendly Frost, Inc., a complex of enterprises including coin-operated dry cleaning and laundry establishments, radio broadcasting appliance manufacturing, vending and construction. He also runs a discount chain of 30 stores.

Known as "Mr. Brows" because of his bushy eyebrows, Kaye set out as a youth to follow his father's instructions to "be an entrepreneur." The elder Kaye came here from Europe and built a successful business designing and manufacturing artificial flowers.

The stock market crash reversed the Kaye family fortune just as young Gerry was due to start college. With funds provided by his mother, who pawned her most treasured possessions, Kaye entered New York University. He found he had to work, so he took on all challengers in multiple simultaneous chess matches at Coney Island.

COPY WRITER

Upon graduation with a degree in advertising and merchandising, Kaye went to Buffalo, N. Y. where he worked for $28 a week as an advertising copy writer. He found he often had to work late at night because most of his accounts were entertainers and restaurants and this experience has enabled him through the years to do with little sleep.

"I still like to put in 10 to 14 hours a day," he said, "but find that I need a bit more sleep to function at full speed nowadays."

By 1936, Kaye was president of the company advertising associates. He was 24. His salary was $60 a week, which was good for depression times. But Kaye missed New York City and returned at a salary cut — $28 a week — to serve as advertising director of Bruno, New York. Fifteen years later, he became vice president in charge of operations at a much higher salary and worked evenings as an instructor in merchandising at City College of New York and St. John's University.

VOLUME INCREASED

In 1953 Kaye bought the Crosley branch of Avco Manufacturing Company, which he incorporated into his own Gerald O. Kaye & Associates. The annual business volume shot from $4 million to $20 million in four years. When Avco decided to discontinue manufacturing consumer products, Kaye formed Laundercenter Corp. franchised distributor of laundry equipment.

He then took a year's leave of absence to serve as president of radio station WNTA and WNTA-TV. But he stayed away only six months, finding that was all the time he needed to help put the stations on their feet.

Press Is Urged To Help Attain Better Morals

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Jenkin L. Jones, editor of the Tulsa Tribune, Friday night urged the newspaper industry to take the lead in improving the nation's moral standards.

"It is time we hit the sawdust trail and revived the idea there is such a thing as sin," Jones told a dinner meeting of the Alabama Press Association's annual convention.

Jones said the United States is suffering from the "collapse of our moral standards and the blunting of our capacity for righteous indignation."

He asked editors when was the last time they examined their schools to determine the method of grading, what was taught and the quality of education their children were receiving.

Jones said progressive education is becoming the national insanity and the wholesale production of mediocrity the chief preoccupation.

"This is education where everybody passes and all move at a snail's pace like a transatlantic convoy so the slowest need not be left behind. All children proceed toward adulthood in the lockstep of 'togetherness'."

He added, "The funny thing about progressive educators is that theory vanishes when the referee's whistle blows for the kick-off...If our schools were as anxious to turn out brains as they were to turn out winning football teams this strange contradiction wouldn't exist."

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Several thousand women suggested the same use for worn nylons, however Mrs. Koester's was the first one to reach me. Because of the tremendous response to this question, "What to do with old nylons," I later will award another Tailor Trix Pressing Board for a different suggestion.

Here's the suggestion: Worn nylons make excellent stuffing for children's toys as they are washable and need not be removed before laundering. They may also be used as suitable stuffing for the popular toss pillows as they are soft, yet give body.

COMBINE PATTERN

"Dear Eunice:

"Please tell me how to take the 'blouson' out of a pattern and change it to a fitted style."

Mrs. C. N. J.

Dear Mrs. C. N. J.:

The easiest way to make a fitted bodice from a blouson pattern is to combine a pattern which is darted at the waist with your other pattern. Be sure to match the shoulders and the center front, then cut the lower part of the bodice from your pattern with the darts.

ADJUST NOTCHES

"Dear Eunice:

Mrs. A. F.

Dear Mrs. A. F.:

It is often a little difficult to pinpoint your difficulties without seeing you, but it sounds as though your shoulders are squarer than the pattern. This is a rather common condition and not too difficult to remedy. When cutting your garment, add about ½ inch at the outer edge of the shoulder, tapering to the original seam line at the neck edge. This will make the shoulder line less sloping. Now you must also add this ½ inch to the underarm of your garment, tapering to nothing at the notch in front and back. Your arm hole now will be the original shape.

FLAT PLEAT

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"Would you please tell me how to make the back kick pleat on a skirt lie flat at the hem line and not turn out when one wears the garment?"

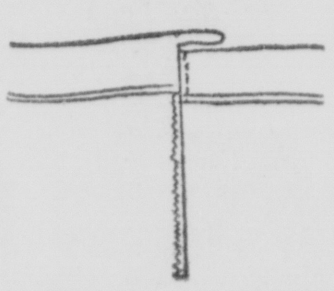
Mrs. H. C.

Dear Mrs. H. C.:

I would like to give you several tips on this. First, be sure and add the additional width of fabric for the pleat all the way from hem to waistline. If your fabric is very heavy, you may cut away one layer of this excess fabric. Your pleat is bound to hang even and you also can avoid machine - stitching the top of the pleat on the right side of your garment.

Second, close the pleat with the basting or longest machine-stitch possible, then press pleat before removing this basting. Again, you will find more accuracy than trying to guess where the pleat should fold.

The last step is to mchine-stitch the fold of the pleat together at the hem of your skirt. The stitching should be about ⅛ inch from the fold and will keep the pleat from spreading. This step also can be used to help keep pleats in shape on a pleated skirt.



"Dear Eunice:

"How do you get rid of the crease line in material caused from the fold? Some just won't press out and you always can see the fold line."

Mrs. A. B.

Dear Mrs. A. B.:

Dilute white vinegar with a little water and dampen sparingly on the wrong side of your fabric. This usually will eliminate a crease when pressed. This should be done primarily on woolens. If you still can't erase the crease, you may have to re-fold your fabric and try to cut your garment without using the original fold where it will show.

Please send all your questions and suggestions to Eunice Farmer, in care of Monroe Morning World.

State Revenue Collections In January Record

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — The State Department of Revenue Friday said Louisianaians paid a record amount of state taxes in January.

The department said it collected $37,451,000 in taxes in January, an increase of $2.25 million over the same month in 1961.

Severance taxes on oil and gas hit $13,057,000, an increase of $755,437 over the same month one year ago.

The next highest source of revenue state sales tax, jumped $446,000 to $8,656,661 last month. State revenues totalled $243,440,000 for the first seven months of the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily has estimated the state should be able to overcome its deficit next year without more taxing if spending remains at the same level.

Reily said he believed the recession was on the ebb in Louisiana, and that an expanding economy should provide a hike in revenues large enough to cover the state deficit.

Future Edison Needs Extra Parental Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — A child who's going to add up in science needs understanding parents.

By the time the young scientist enters teen-age there's even a good chance the understanding parents helpfully will move furniture out of the family room so Junior or Janie can have more elbow room for some fantastic invention under construction.

One index of the payoff for such understanding comes from the biographical sketches of 40 teen-agers recently judged the nation's outstanding high school science buffs. They're all winners in the 21st annual science search.

The boy and girl geniuses in science lead lives as varied as the mysteries they probe. They're far from a bunch of squares who hunch over microscopes when they're not hitting the books.

Probing the biographies, one finds the young scientists have in common a fixed vocational goal—some as early as at age 15. Among them there is interest also in music and participation in school activities apart from the strictly science-oriented ones.

Carol Lee Foley, of Waverly, Pa., is a 17-year-old science buff whose school activities include the editor's post of the school paper and chairman of the cheerleading committee.

The 40 talented high school seniors were chosen from an original field of more than 23,000 students as the nation's most promising future scientists.

Plant Roses This Month

By AUDREY DAWSON

This is the month to plant roses, although many gardeners get discouraged with roses. The control of disease and insects demands a lot of time. However, roses will continue to be one of the most popular plants in the home landscape plan.

If you want one of the All America roses for 1962, then select Golden Slippers, John S. Armstrong, King's Ransom or Christian Dior.

VELVETY RED

Christian Dior is a crimson red hybrid tea. Blooms are abundant and continuous. There are some other new roses that you may want. Conrad Hilton is a deep golden yellow floribunda. Buds are red cheeked. The Farmer's Wife is a fragrant pink floribunda. White Prince is a pure white hybrid tea. Three minatures are Silver Tip, a double pink; Baby Ophelia, soft pink shaded gold, and Simplex, a single white.

If you, Mrs. Gardener, did not get your shrubs and trees transplanted in January, better get them out this month. The future growth and appearance of the plant will depend a great deal on how it is set out.

SOIL MIXTURE

In transplanting, a hole should be dug at least twice the size of the ball of earth around the roots of the plant or the spread of its roots. A good soil mixture high in organic matter should be used around the new plant, replacing the subsoil dug from the hole. Also, the top soil, too, if top soil at the site is not the best quality. Remember, plants should be no lower in the ground than before transplanting and actually should be set a little higher to allow for settling of the earth in which they are placed.

MORE GARDENING

Have you, Mrs. Gardener, examined your plants to attempt to find out the amount of cold damage. Yours truly looked over a number of azaleas and camellias that were burned badly, but the wood seems very much alive, so, perhaps our greatest damage has been to the foliage. Let's hope that's true. Weren't you surprised to see so many camellias in the gardens blooming this past week? The magnoliaeflora in my yard was in full bloom this week and of course it was expected that all the buds were frozen. The blooms are certainly not as beautiful as in the past, but look mighty good to consider the extreme cold. The professor C. S. Sargent is also blooming.

NUTRITION

Nutrition experts of the U.S. Department of Agriculture say one medium size potato (baked, boiled or mashed) supplies as much as one-fifth of the recommended daily requirements of ascorbic acid (vitamin C). It, also, contains worthwhile amounts of thiamine and niacin, (two important B vitamins), minerals, iron, phosphorus and potassium. So, you can easily see, Mrs. Homemaker, that potatoes are one of your best buys in the money you spend on them and in the food value you get for your money.

STORAGE SPACE

Here's an idea from Cornell University Extension Service that can add storage space to your cupboards. Place a narrow shelf between shelves spaced eight to 10 inches apart. Or, if there are 12 or more inches between shelves, add two narrow ones.

Narrow shelves may be added between the counter top and the upper cupboards. If two are built, the upper shelf may be wider than the lower.

CHERRIES

When next time you see fresh bing cherries in the supermarket, there's a good chance you'll find them packaged in pint-sized plastic baskets. These containers are the same type as those used for strawberries and raspberries. A recent study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service showed customers and food stores enthusiastic about test shipments of cherries packed in fruit containers.

WORKSHOP

Yours truly had the privilege of working with a group of young homemakers this past week in a workshop making pre-school-age dresses. The group included Mrs. Robert Fowler, Mrs. Billy Henry, Mrs. W. E. Jones, Mrs. Billy Battaglia, Mrs. E. E. Schultz, Mrs. John Swartz, Mrs. D. M. McClung, Mrs. Floyd Lightsey, Mrs. Bob Branch and Mrs. Kenneth Smith.

Moisture is a bitter enemy of your home's siding and outside paint, so be sure to find and eliminate moisture troubles before you repaint. Our housing specialist, Mrs. Bertha Bryson, says that plumbing and central heating build up water vapor in the house, an dmodern insulation reduces the amount that escapes outdoors. Vapor may condense on the inner surface of the outside wall, causing the paint to blister. One effective way to combat this is to place a vapor barrier such as aluminum foil or polyethylene film between the plaster and the insulation or exterior walls. You may also use metal flashing which keeps water from seeping in from the outside. Flashing is needed in roof valley along dormers and around chimneys.

A THOUGHT

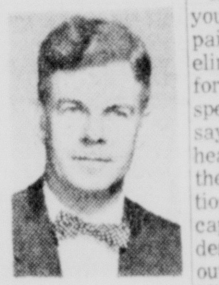
SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fine Plants For Shades



By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

American perennial nurseries are now listing some of the very finest plants, for the shady garden. Here in the hot South, a partly shaded location is necessary to the permanent establishment of such things as hostas, Japanese anemones, the big sedum spectabile and other showy perennials.

One can really enjoy the shady garden during the more daylight hours than the sunny one, and more and more of us in the South have learned that even the sun-loving perennials can take a little shade in our part of the country.

HOSTAS

Our grandmothers used to grow what they called "August Lilies" in tubs. The large fat leaves and the spikes of white "lilies" in late summer were very handsome. For some reason, people thought these hostas (sometimes listed under funkia) had to be protected in winter. They do not. In Denmark and the colder European countries, many fine species and varieties have been developed and grown outdoors in the public parks. If they, never had a blossom, we would grow the handsome hostas or plantain-lilies for their exquisite foliage. Some varieties have narrow, yellow-green foliage, and there are many kinds with mottled yellow and green patterns. The flowers come in white or in lavender in late summer. The clumps get bigger and bigger and form a magnificent ground cover in the sun and and shade.

SEDUM SPECTABILE

Another one of our grandmothers' favorite plants was what they called "house leek," a fat-leaved succulent perennial from which most of us have pulled the leaves and bruised them and then blown them up and called them "frogs." In recent years, this fine plant, Sedum Spectabile, has dingy white or pinkish flowers, but the new kinds are bright deep pink, white or red and a real spectacle in the late summer garden when not much else is showing.

NEW ANEMONES

Not many southern gardens have the Japanese anemones because we have insisted on killing them in the sun with the sun lovers. In part shade or even in places shaded for most of the day, but not dark and where the ground does not dry out in droughts, one can maintain these late summer and fall blooming tall anemones. The old-fashioned kinds did not bloom until late September and October, but the newer varieties have the early wild, anemone hupehansis for one parent. They bloom earlier and are a great deal more drought and heat resistant.

HARDY CARNATIONS

Many Southern gardeners gave up, long since, on the outdoor carnations, but Carroll Gardens of Westminster, Maryland, may have come up with an outdoor carnation or two that can take the heat down here if planted where they can escape the sun for a part of the day. Sweet Memory is a eye-catching white variety with red spots, and Kiss of Fire is a fiery scarlet that has attracted a lot of attention at flower shows.

Again, the column will be happy to supply the names of nurseries where all the above-mentioned plants may be bought. Be sure to send a self-addressed postal—not an envelope—to the column in care of this newspaper.

Between Season Dresses Inaugurate New Trends

Gentle as the first faint harbinger of spring on a February day, transitional dresses fill the period between holiday and spring with a hint of change. A renaissance is in the fashion air . . . a new, softer look is on the way.

Styling moves closer to the body. The blouson is most prevalent but it is not as full as before. Sleeves are frequently set in for a more compact look. Still no collars.

Accent is stronger . . . sometimes emphasizing the waist by belting a longer jacket; sometimes the accent is in the fabric with the linear definition of stripes against solid giving color contrast as a new foil to easy shaping. In a reverse manner, knits accent a lovely neck with the dramatic statement inherent in a simple V neckline. And for those whose necks do not quite resemble the swan, the V neckline in knits looks good against jewelry or filled in with a scarf.

Movement continues in pleated and fuller skirts and also in soft self tie belts, frequently with fringed ends.

Related Colors Aid Small Room

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: We have recently bought a new house, living room is pretty small, sofa is very long. Sofa and chair are rose-beige, walls are light blue grey. Draperies have white ground with turquoise brown, black and light beige. What color would you suggest for sofa pillows, lamps, rug and do you think the wall should be another color?

A: With present color scheme, I suggest a rose-beige rug, pale beige lamps and turquoise toss pillows. Since nothing relates to the wall color and a slate blue rug would be, to me, uninteresting and would do nothing to help size of a small room, if you change present scheme, this one might appeal. Pale rose beige walls and woodwork, also rug. Sofa and chair stay same. For draperies, a small scale pattern with a rose beige ground and turquoise, clear green and coral rose in print. Two sofa pillows in print and two solid turquoise.

Q: Have large living room. I have found that nothing I do improves its appearance. Walls are blue, draperies brown with blue specks. Sofa and two chairs beige, scatter rugs are brown. What can I do?

A: It might add considerable sparkle to room if you have a sunny yellow for the draperies. Also, a suggestion would be to slip cover or reupholster sofa in a soft, medium blue (blend with wall). Cover one chair in yellow and other in a figured fabric of brown and blue. Keep brown rugs and select yellow for accessories.

Q. — I would like suggestions on color of walls, couch, chairs, lamps for my living room. I already have blond and white tweed rug, blond paino, white draperies and sheer curtains.

A. — Avocado green (darkish, gray green) and orange make a now - popular conplimentary color scheme which would be fine against your neutral backgrounds. Walls could be a pale shade of the avocado. Couch could also pick up the green. Chairs should inject the strong pumpkin color which should be repeated in throw pillows. The same shade is around in accessories and lamp bases in Italian glass which comes from around Venice and would be an exciting accent in the room. Shades should be eggshell.

Working Girl's Paradise Down Acapulco Way

By JACK RUTLEDGE

ACAPULCO, Mex. (AP) — A year after moving from the Gay White Way of New York to this lazy tropical resort, Sloan Simpson says.

"I am grateful to Providence and to Mexico for letting me live in Acapulco, which must be the anteroom to heaven."

She is the former wife of William O'Dwyer, who was once mayor of New York and once ambassador to Mexico. But Miss Simpson was a television and theatrical star in her own right and is doing well as a working gal in Acapulco.

Friends say she's also unofficially engaged to Ken Morgan of Hollywood, public relations director for Desilu Productions. He spent his 1961 vacation and the Christmas holidays here, and visits frequently.

Friends say they're not in a hurry to get married — both are divorced — but are known as a "couple" here. It's always Sloan and Ken at parties.

Sloan Simpson moved to Acapulco Dec. 23, 1960 and opened a women's clothing shop in a swank hotel. It has been a success, and she's planning a second shop in the downtown area.

HARD WORKER

"People want to buy from Sloan," says an American here. "She has a big following from the East. And she's the hardest worker in Acapulco."

"Everyone told me I was crazy to go to Acapulco to live and work, that I'd get bored in two weeks," she writes in a guest column in a Mexico City newspaper. "They said working in Acapulco would be totally different from vacationing there, that I couldn't stand the climate all year. I'd miss the city, the theater, my friends, and most of all the summer would be impossible."

Nuts, she says.

"When one is managing a shop in a top - flight hotel in Acapulco, if one is designing and manugacturing the clothes for that shop as well as starting a small export business to take up the slack in the slow season, and about to open another shop — when does one have time to get bored?"

SHE'S SOLD

She admits that "working anywhere is not my idea of the ideal way to pass the time, but as long as one must work, it is a blessing to enjoy what one is doing."

She says the summers here are really her favorite time of year. She says this "stuns my Mexican friends." She blames them for "giving a black eye to Acapulco's summertime weather."

Compared with the suffocating heat and humidity of New York, Washington, or the New Jersey shore, she says, Acapulco is a paradise in summer.

"It is true that this paradise slows down the tempo of the worker," she says, "and this might be bad for the pocketbook. But it does give one a chance to enjoy some of the pleasures usually restricted to vacationers . . .

"A longer lunch hour which includes a swim in the ocean, and a siesta in a lazy hammock on the beach."

She says her only problem is that she just doesn't have time to enjoy all the wonders of her new life.

Colors In Spring Shoes Range Wild To Muted

NEW YORK — The leading leather colors in the women's shoe spectrum for Spring 1962 were previewed here by the nation's leading fashion editors at special showing staged by Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America. The experts report that the most important colors afoot next season will be:

Wild greens, vivid orange-reds, cool pinkish corals, deep and light blues. In the muted families, the spectrum runs from brown to taupe to bone and white. Gold will be used either as a neutral or a strong tone.

Bright green smooth and suede leather shoes will be worn in the afternoon with multi-colored abstract prints or stripes and matched to lime green and turquoise solids in shantung. Green grain leather pumps and spectators flash under rayon wool and cotton suits in a variety of greens and predominantly green plaids.

The orange to red family in smooth, patent and grained leathers will give bounce to an understated ensemble of wool, cotton or rayon print. A deep brown suede leather pump will add a classic tone to a town suit that combines orange with a bone or off-white. Whitened coral colored leather — be it smooth, patent or textured—coordinates with peach or pink dresses and skirts.

Blue beats a handsome fashion path from deep navy to misty ice blue in polished leather, patent and — in casual footwear—brushed leather. The tight grain of a textured blue leather pump or spectator adds a lady-like note to a blue nubby coat or a blue and white tweed suit. In the Easter parade, navy will sparkle more brightly than ever under checks, slubbed fabrics and prints.

This will also be a big year for the muted brown-taupe-bone family of leather shoes. A daytime pump in smooth bone leather or medium brown patent leather walks handsomely with chamois colored suits and dresses, be they wool, cotton or manmade fabrics. The greige tones also match moods with light blue suits and coats.

Feminine footwear will show the flag this year with red, white and blue worn from early spring through late summer. Any one color will be worn afoot to coordinate with the other two to complete a patriotic ensemble. Or, just as popular, will be tricolor arrangements in daytime, casual and spectator styles in one, two or three leathers on the same shoe.

White will come into Spring shoes directly from late winter and resort fashions. It will be available on pumps in polished or patent leather, in walking shoes in combinations of smooth with grained or suede, and in casual footwear in brushed, grained or smooth leather.

Gold is another leading color this season. Unexpectedly popular last fall, it is seen this year in every style and for every occasion. Traditionally a spring-summer footnote in pumps of crushed or grained leathers, gold is used this year as both a neutral or a brilliant tone in smooth and brushed leather on pumps, flats and even lightweight leather fun boots.

Color will also pop on leather linings, which will be seen far more often this year than in past seasons. Here again, the choice will be wide — from neutral bone, tan and whitened pastels to bright reds, matte black and brilliant gold leathers.

These Ring The Bell

When grilling a steak over wood charcoal briquets, you can add canned French fried onion rings to the top during the last few minutes of grilling. The onion rings warm gently and pick up some of the juicy steak flavor.

LOUVER DOORS

A practical solution to the problem of closet ventilation is the louver door. Louver doors maintain good air ciculation that prevents mustiness and possible closet odors. In addition, they add to the distinctiveness and beauty of closet exteriors, in bedrooms, hallways or bathrooms.

SEWING TIP

Set your machine for a medium to long stitch, about 10 to 12 stiches per inch, when sewing wash-n-wear fabrics.

JACK BE NIMBLE
...JACK BE QUICK!

The physical fitness of our youngsters—boys and girls—has declined so sharply that they're nowhere near as nimble, as quick, as active as youngsters of only a generation ago.

We must get our children back in tip-top physical condition! We must make them "doers" instead of sitters and spectators!

The President's Council on Youth Fitness has developed a program that will help make them able-bodied. It calls for at least 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day for every child as part of the physical education period. In schools that have carried out this program, pupils have improved remarkably in strength, endurance and agility.

Insist that your child's school put more emphasis on physical education. Act at your next PTA meeting!

YOUR INCOME TAX—NO. 3

Exemptions Great At Tax Time

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Millions of Americans pay no federal income tax simply because of the number of $600 exemptions they are able to claim.

Each exemption means that you pay no tax at all on $600 of income. This makes the exemption the biggest of all tax-cutting devices.

Everyone filing a tax return gets at least one exemption, for himself. Those who were 65 or older on or before Jan. 1, 1962, are eligible for a second personal exemption and still another exemption is offered all blind taxpayers.

On a joint return, you also get an exemption for your husband or wife—two if your mate was 65 or older.

DEPENDENTS

Additional exemptions may be claimed for your children, members of your household (NOT counting servants) and dependent relatives. However, these people must:

1. Have received more than half their total support from you.
2. NOT have filed a joint return for 1961 with their husband or wife.
3. Be a citizen of the United States or a resident of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone. This does NOT apply if an adopted alien child lives with a U. S. citizen abroad.
4. Either have been a member of your household for the entire tax year or be related to you, or to your spouse if you file jointly.

The income ceiling sometimes does NOT apply in the case of your children, stepchildren or legally adopted children. If a youngster was under 19 for the entire tax year or was a full-time student, you can claim an exemption regardless of his or her income provided the other tests are met.

A student is defined as one who was enrolled full time in an educationel institution or certain institutional on-farm training courses for at least five months during the year. In figuring out whether you provided more than half the total support of a student, you ignore the value of any scholarship aid. Benefits under the GI Bill do count, however.

Even if your dependent child was under 19 or a student, he must file his own income tax return if his income totaled $600 or more. He can, in that case, claim a $600 exemption for himself. In addition, you can claim him as an exemption on your return if you provided more than half his support and he met the other requirements.

RELATIVES

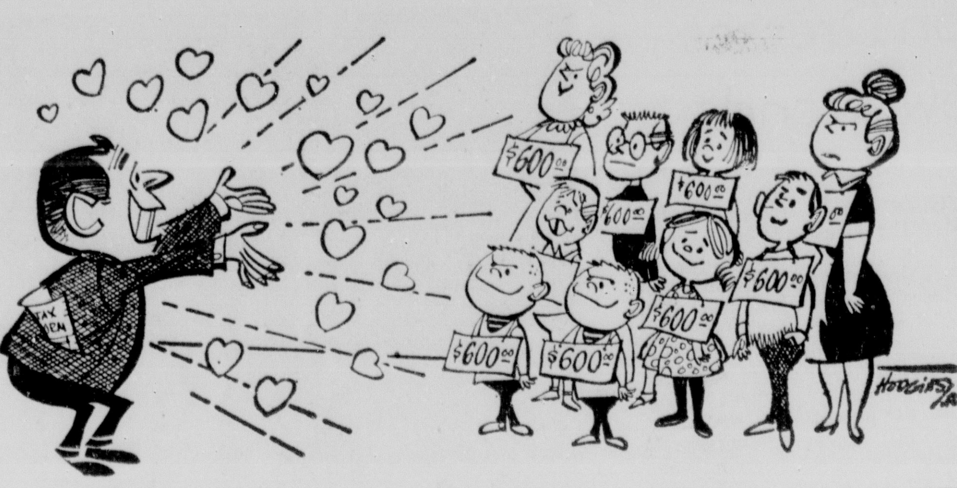
Relatives who can be claimed as exemptions if they meet the standards, even though they were NOT members of your household, are: mother, father, mother-in-law, father-in-law, brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, brother - in - law, sister - in-law, son-in-law, daughter - in-law, stepmother, stepfather, grandparents, grandchildren and, if related by blood aunt, uncle, niece or nephew.

You can claim a full $600 exemption for a dependent who was born or died during 1961 if he or she met the requirements for an exempt dependent while alive.

If your wife or husband died during 1961, the number of his or her exemptions (which may be claimed on a separate or joint return) is determined as of the date of death.

Sometimes, several members of a family each contribute to provide more than half the support of a dependent relative. Even though NO one person alone provides more than half the support, each can take a turn claiming an exemption if he provides more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support and others who contribute file statements that they will NOT claim the same exemption for the same year. A special statement form, No. 2120, is available at all IRS offices.

Tomorrow: Your deductions.



Ford Supports Romney's Bid

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II says he personally will support George Romney's bid to become governor of Michigan but the major auto companies indicated Saturday they will have no comment as corporations on the political race.

Ford emphasized he was speaking for himself when he replied to a reporter's question. Spoesman for General Motors and Chrysler said they doubted if any comment would be forthcoming.

U.S. CLOTHIERS AGREE

Russians Trailing In Men's Fashions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russian clothing is designed to keep out the cold and wear a long time. In the United States, men's clothes are cut for fashion and comfort.

This means, in the slightly biased view of top menswear retailers gathering here for their annual convention Sunday, that the Soviets are far behind Amercans in men's fashions.

To prove their point—and also get a little publicity for their convention—the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers today paraded for newsmen and photographers models wearing the latest in U.S. and U.S.S.R. menswear.

Just so the newsmen would get the message, a panel of experts pointed out the heavy weight and baggy britches on the Soviet suit and the light, trim fit of the American clothing.

And they cited figures to show how much longer the average Russian must labor than the American for equivalent clothing.

"The purpose of the meeting is to get our names in the paper," said association Executive Director Louis Rothschild, opening the show. "To achieve this purpose, I've brought along some trained seals."

Rothschild then introduced an 8-man panel of experts, all association officials, and the two models. He said the Russian clothing was bought off the rack in a Moscow department store and tailored to fit the model as well as possible. The American suit came from a local clothing store.

The experts then centered a withering crossfire of comments on the Russian clothing.

"Those pants fit at the waist, but that seat must have been made for Khrushchev," said one.

Jena Center Dedication Is Big Success

JENA (Special) — The dedication of the Greer Jones Recreation Center in Jena was a tremendous success Saturday despite the somber note in the festivities caused by the unexpected death of Miss Esta Mae Wade, sister of the featured speaker for the occasion, "Sparkey" Wade, officials said.

Wade, two - time all-American basketball star, made his scheduled appearance despite the death.

Hundreds turned out to test the facilities of the new recreation center. To many it was the first view of the new center and an atmosphere of enthusiasm and approval was evident everywhere.

The scheduled 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. program was recessed from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. when the center was closed in memory of Miss Wade. The program then continued until 9 p.m. as planned. Many persons who were unable to attend the dedication ceremonies took advantage of the later hours to view the new facilities after working hours.

The building, erected by Jena contractor C. D. Keene for approximately $24,000, is located off Louisiana Highway 84 from the Jena Elementary school on a 17 acre plot donated by the Bodcaw Oil Company.

Different persons and organizations were recognized for their part in making the recreation program a success.

Some of the furnishing that will be enjoyed in the center include four bowling lanes, two pool tables, a concession stand, four domino tables, one ping pong table and one miniature bowling lane.

Burglars Fail To Take Loot

The break in of a service station on the Winnsboro Road was discovered by Monroe police early Saturday morning, but they reported nothing was taken.

Investigation revealed that the door had been pried open by jimmying the lock and the party or parties had apparently hurriedly fled through a rear window.

Envoy Says Jet Attacks Soviet Plane

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Alexander Abramov charged Saturday that a jet fighter attacked a Soviet transport plane and wounded an airman, but Abramov later weakened on his story.

The ambassador said the twin-engined Ilyushin 14 transport was en route to Communist North Viet Nam from the Laotian rebel base at Xieng Khouang in the Plaine des Jarres when it was attacked by an unidentified jet. He said the transport reached Hanoi safely.

Later, Abramov told newsmen the report had come from his cook and that he wasn's sure it was a jet that attacked. The cook was told about the incident by Soviet pilots while on a visit to Xieng Khouang, Abramov said.

He was angry when he first reported the incident, but when discussing it with reporters later he was calm and somewhat vague. He did not give a date for the incident.

The royal Laotian air force has no jet planes, and the U.S. Embassy said Americans certainly were not involved because, "There are no American jet aircraft in or over Laos."

On the political front, Abramov told reporters, "There is no longer a way of restoring peace in Laos without a change of American policy."

He said Prince Boun Oum, the pro-American premier, was making so many conditions for his acceptance of a meeting with neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma that he in effect is "demanding capitulation of the other side."

The Boun Oum government has called off a meeting with Souvanna to discuss a projected coalition government because of an attack by rebel Pathet Lao and pro-Communist forces on Nam Tha, strategic village in northwest Laos.

Military sources said enemy troops intermittently shelled the Nam Tha airstrip and set some houses afire in the deserted village Saturday. A government communique said a force of about 2,500 men from Communist North Viet Nam was edging around to the south side of the village, apparently in an effort to encircle it.

Mrs. Ione Smith Succumbs; Rites Are Set Today

Burial will follow in Flatwood Cemetery in Flatwood.

She is survived by one son Frank C. Smith of Port Arthur, Tex., five daughters, Mrs. Ernest Hall and Mrs. Annette Hall, both of West Monroe, Mrs. A. L. Temple of Leesville, Mrs. Dave Hall of Temple and Mrs. Carl May of Wheaton, Md.; nine grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

JONESVILLE (Special) — The resident property owners of Catahoula parish will vote on the renewal of the existing two - mill special parish wide school building and improvement tax Tuesday.

The polls will open at 7 a.m. on election day and close at 5 p.m. The School Board will convene on February 14 at 10 a.m. to promulgate the votes.

$50 Million State Deficit Forecast

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana is definitely not broke although the state's deficit might run as high as $50 million, in the opinion of Sen. W. J. Cleveland.

The Crowley lawmaker, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, had been quoted as saying the deficit might run as high as $150 million.

PREMIER SOON TO BE 68

Soviets Facing Policy Problems

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is at a near standstill in high-level policy making on a series of problems so complexly related as to beggar description.

Premier Khrushchev is getting no younger. He will be 68 on May 17. Visitors who have seen him say he still has plenty of vigor. But Westerners have noted that he sometimes shows signs of strain, and some insist his capacity to make decisions is slowing down.

Yet, some tough debates in the powerful party Presidium are in prospect, and probably soon, because solutions of some major problems must be ready to show the Central Committee when it meets March 5.

The release of U2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers is explained here as an effort to improve relations with the United States. This involved no major decision, however, as the Powers' case long had ceased to be a matter of primary importance to the Russians although it once generated great heat.

The major problems demanding solution, in their order of importance, are:

—Agriculture. For the last three years farm production has fallen behind the plans, and this despite a steady growth not only of the population but also of the people's desire for better food.

—The rift in the Communist bloc, as shown in the open rupture with Albania and the more polite clashes with Chinese and Italian Communist leaders.

—Khrushchev's de-Stalinization program.

The agricultural problem is growing more acute with each year of slim harvests. It represents a basic hindrance to the Soviet plan for industrial growth and future world economic and military competition.

Khrushchev piloted the country into vast expenditures for opening up virgin lands. This is proving only moderately profitable, and somewhat uncertain. At the same time, the richest farm areas in the Ukraine and other areas are suffering seriously from lack of capital investment and modernization.

Arguments are being advanced more intensely for spending more to develop the rich high-yield areas in the Ukraine and elsewhere. But if this is undertaken it will rob heavy industry of some of its capital.

The rift in the Communist bloc is increasingly troublesome and is tied together with Berlin, agriculture and de-Stalinization. If the dispute with Red China over communism's world program is pressed to a showdown and a real break, then Moscow's position facing the big Western powers is weakened. Not only that, Moscow's influence is weakened in the Communist camp. Yet, if Khrushchev further postpones a solution of the Berlin problem, or softens, the prospect of a rift with Red China grows.

The Russians automatically associate the problem of disarmament with the Berlin and German issues because of the growing power of West Germany.

Like the other problems, de-Stalinization also is coupled with Red China, with Stalin admirers tending to take the old hard-line view of the Chinese Communists toward the capitalistic world.

De-Stalinization is a complex problem. It is not easy to turn the nation away from the near worship of Stalin it was taught for so long, nor from the great respect in which former Foreign Minister V.M. Molotov was once held.

The recent talks between U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko showed more than ever that a final decision on Berlin has not been reached by the Presidium members. Gromyko merely stated in new words old positions that already had been rejected by the West.

Khrushchev is expected to return from a rest period at his Black Sea resort of Sochi this week. Then Soviet policy making machinery may get into motion again.

Man Believed To Be Victim Of Maniac

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—The body of a young service station attendant was found Saturday lying in a pool of blood in a ditch. Police said he may have been the latest victim of a maniac who is killing just for the thrill of it.

The death of James Earl Adams, 19, was similar to the sadistic slayings of an Air Force sergeant in Wichita Falls, a lawyer at Duncan, Okla., and a taxi driver at Lawton, Okla., all within a 100 mile radius of here.

The four killings, at least two of which are being investigated by the FBI, have occurred within the past three weeks.

Still another mysterious slaying, which has some similarities, was the Jan. 20 killing of J. R. Castle, 46, a Lubbock, Tex., carpenter who was shot three times in the back, beaten and thrown into a rock pit.

At the same time, police in Texas and three other states are searching for another apparent thrill-killer believed to have killed at least four persons and dismembered his victim's bodies.

Sheriff Ham Vance of Wichita Falls said robbery was not the motive in Adams' killing, and he doubts that it was in the death of Richard Robert Reed, the airman stationed at the Wichita Falls air base.

Vance said the killer apparently made Adams drive to the spot where he was shot in the head.

No Contests In Calvin Race

CALVIN (Special) — Only one candidate for mayor and two candidates for the three-man board of aldermen qualified for the Democratic primary at deadline time here 5 p.m. Friday.

A spokesman said Saturday that the third spot on the ticket for alderman will be filled by appointment.

The two men running for alderman are Leon Carpenter, and John Henry Martin.

Incumbent Town Marchall Zack Hodges qualified for re-election.

Negro Is Booked In Theft Case, Money Is Taken

Monroe police booked a Negro woman for theft and vagrancy early Saturday in connection with the theft of between $200 and $300 from a man Thursday night.

Police Chief James C. Kelly identified her as Louella Hughes, 26, of 613 Wilson St., Monroe. She was apprehended on Ridge Drive in West Monroe, booked at 9:15 a.m. Saturday and held under a $500 bond.

Police booked another woman, Elizabeth Ann Sanford, 24, of 608 Wilson St., Monroe, Friday in connection with the same incident.

Mrs. Sanford was booked for vagrancy and theft at 9:40 a.m. Friday and held under a $500 bond.

'Hobo Jungle' Melee Ends In Arrest Of Five

E. A. Conway Memorial hospital officials said that Ernest Walker, of Jackson, Miss., who was cut near the heart, was in fair condition Saturday. Another man, Richard Weber, 48 of Edgard, La., received treatment for a cut on the left arm and was released.

Weber was booked by Monroe police for disturbing the peace by public drunkeness and carrying a concealed weapon.

Police identified the other men arrested as Jesse Hughes, 55, of Monroe, booked for aggravated battery, vagrancy and public drunkenness; Robert Tinsley, 43, of Ruston, booked for vagrancy and disturbing the peace by public drunkenness; Bertie Lee Kelly, 53, of Jonesboro, booked for vagrancy; and Hansel Edwards, Memphis, Tenn., booked for vagrancy.

Investigating officers said that Walker was reportedly cut by Hughes, (alias Pop) in a fight that ensued after Walker and Weber walked up and tried to take over. The incident was reported by Carl Edwards, who gave his address as Baton Rouge.

In a separate incident, police booked Negro James Hebert, 47, of 1112 Olive St. for aggravated battery after a Negro woman, Joyce Gibson of the same address was injured. She suffered a cut on the forehead in a tussle with Hebert, according to reports.

Hebert told police that she attempted to hug him and he pushed her away, causing her to fall against a dresser and cut her head.

WITH WEATHER MAP ANNE

WEATHER SUMUMARY

The eastern half of the country was under the influence of a high pressure area centered over Lake Huron Saturday. East of this high, cold and dry winds from the north brought artic air from Canada southward along the eastern seaborad causing temperatures in some inland areas of New England and northern New York State not to rise above the zero mark. Fair and cold weather was the rule along the entire east coast except for some coastal sections of New England. A storm area off the coast caused cloudiness to linger here and at the Cape Cod area it snowed continuously throughout the day. To the west of the high pressure area moist and mild southerly winds brought light rain, snow and drizzle to the upper Mississippi Valley and fog to a large area of the central and northern plains. Warm temperatures near 70 were recorded as far north as western South Dakota in this southerly flow. In the west rain continued to fall over much of southern California and showers were also reported in the Pacific Northwest. This moisture spilled over into the Great Basin and the northern Rockies where precipitation was widespread.

Temperatures were much below normal in New England where some recorded inland barely reached zero. In the other extreme, high 80s were common in the lower Rio Grande Valley and in southern Arizona. Most of Florida remained in the 50s and 60s with some high 70s in the extreme south. Mild 60s and 70s were also the rule along the eastern slopes of the Rockies from New Mexico to South Dakota along the Pacific coast cloudiness and rain kept the temperatures mostly in the 50s.

Fair and cold weather is forecast for the Atlantic coastal states with cold wave warnings issued for inland sections of New England and northeastern New York state. In these areas temperatures are expected to drop well below zero by morning. Most of the south will also have clear skies today but should bring rapidly rising temperatures. A warming trend is forecast for the upper midwest with light rain, snow and drizzle expected to spread south eastward from the upper Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley. The rain along the southern California coast is forecast to diminish to showers during tonight and tomorrow followed by partial clearing. Scattered rain and snow is expected to continue over much of the Sierras, the Great Basin and the northern Rockies.

PORT ALLEN, La. (AP) — A pedestrian was killed Saturday by an auto about five miles west of here.

The car was driven by Joe Williams Jr., 48, of Port Allen, troopers said.

Bob Kennedy Keeps On Go In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy landed on this doorstep of Communist China Saturday for a two-day rest but showed no sign of slakening the pace he maintained during a hectic six-day visit to Japan.

He fielded a few political questions from reporters, hopped on a waiting launch and spent two hours riding around fog-blanketed Hong Kong Harbor, visiting four U.S. Navy ships, clambering aboard, shaking hands and chatting with captains and crews.

Then he drove to the southern shore of Hong Kong island for a 10 p.m. dinner before tackling what apparently will be a busy Sunday.

He looked tired but still in high spirits.

He minimized the significance of leftist demonstrations against him in Japan and made little of possible troubles ahead of him in Indonesia, where he stops Monday on his round-the-world goodwill tour.

Kennedy's arrival from Tokyo was delayed more than two hours heavy fog which lifted briefly, permitting his plane to land.

In his session with reporters, Kennedy painted a relatively rosy picture of the world, saying the Communists have more problems than the West and, "There is great promise for us."

The Communist wall in Berlin, he said, was an indication of "the troubles in the 'workers' paradise.'" Asked about the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam, he said, "The solution there lies in our winning it. This is what the President intends to do."

He described Communist heckling and banner waving against him in Japan as not serious and said he drew three times the number of pickets and demonstrators during recent visits to Cleveland, Ohio, and Fordham University in New York.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Law students at the University of Indonesia have applied for permission to carry rifles and small arms into a lecture to be given by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy when he appears before them Tuesday.

The students said, "In this way we will demonstrate to Kennedy the Indonesian government's policy over West Irian—West New Guinea—has our full support."

A spokesman for the Jakarta war administration said, "In such cases this sort of thing is usually forbidden." But their military authorities have made no final decision.

Cotton Prices Continue To Drop Steadily

At the close of trading Friday, active cotton futures on the New York Cotton Exchange showed declines of 40 cents to $1.30 a bale for the week.

Also influencing the downward trend was a lag in the amount of cotton moving into the 1961 loan stocks and short surpluses registered for export.

The Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated exports for the week at 90,000 bales, compared with 68,000 in the week before and 88,000 in the comparable week a year ago.

For the season through Feb. 6 exports reached an estimated 2,756,000 bales, compared with 4,386,000 in the similar period last season.

Mayor's Election

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Mayor George B. Hoffman will be opposed by Perry Elmo Futrell Jr., in the Democratic primary April 7. Deadline for qualifying was 5 p.m. Saturday. No Republican opposition was expected.

Studebaker Pact Given Union Okay

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Members of United Auto Workers Local 5 voted Saturday to ratify a new three-year contract with Studebaker-Packard Corp.

Agreement on the contract was reached early Thursday at Washington in talks arranged by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Local president Woodrow Frick said the vote at Saturday's meeting, attended by 2,577 of the almost 6,500 striking S-P workers, was 2,225 in favor of ratification with 352 votes against the new pact.

A company spokesman said the S-P would be ready to resume production Tuesday at the regular starting time with some workers expected to be recalled Monday. A few workers, mostly maintenance and plant protection employes, actually returned to work Friday with union permission to ready the plant for the resumption of production.

Frick said many of the previously unresolved questions which were settled in the Washington talks will continue the provisions which were in effect under the old contract which expired last Nov. 30. These included vacation pay, shift premium pay, seven-day pay, cost of living increases and union representation.

The relief time of 24 minutes a day in effect under the old contract also will remain in effect and the 15 minutes of washup time allowed on each shift also will remain in effect until the end of the current model year.

Frick said with the start of the 1963 model year it will be cut to 10 minutes with one five-minute period in the middle of the shift and one at the end. The period at the end of the shift is currently 10 minutes.

The new contract, which will expire Oct. 30, 1964, also provides that 12 cents of the current 19 cent cost of living "float" will be made a part of the base pay. Frick said that, under this clause, only seven cents could be cut from the pay if there was a drop in the cost of living.

The contract also provides for a wage increaee of four cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year, 6 cents an hour in January, 1963, and 6 cents an hour in January, 1964.

Another provision of the pact gives the UAW "full representation right" at the company's new defense products division here.

Frick said the agreement on the washup time provides that workers will not leave the plant until the end of the washup time. In the past, workers have been in the habit of punching out during the washup time instead of waiting for the actual end of the shifts.

The old three-year contract expired in November but was extended on a day-to-day basis until midnight Jan. 1 when the UAW called the strike after talks broke down.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEIGHBORHOOD NEIGHBORHOOD

AN old saying in the real estate world is that the 3 most important elements in choosing a fine home are (1) neighborhood, (2) neighborhood, and (3) neighborhood. There is a lot of truth in it, when you stop to think that neighborhood regulates the price range within which it is wise to buy or build a home. Neighborhood determines the kind of people who live by you, and whose children will influence the conduct of your children. Neighborhood is a contributing factor in privacy, appreciation, and resale value. Look at this lovely home on Jasmine St. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, den, separate dining room. Air conditioned, centrally heated, hardwood floors. Lifetime roof. Wood - burning fireplace, utility, enormous kitchen, worlds of storage, attic fan, disappearing stairway. 2-car carport, patio. French Reds May Create New Strife

PARIS (AP)—The possibility of new clashes in the streets of Paris loomed Saturday as calls from the left grew for public demonstrations and strikes Monday.

Organizers appealed to Frenchmen to demonstrate hostility to the right-wing Secret Army Organization and to protest police repression of a similar demonstration Thursday night. The Thursday turnout erupted into rioting which left eight dead and several hundred injured.

As it had Thursday, the French government announced Monday's demonstrations were banned under a state of urgency in effect since last April's abortive Algiers putsch against the Paris government.

But organizers of Monday's day of action against "fascism" and "police brutality" showed no signs of calling off their plans.

Half-hour, or longer, work stoppages were set for Monday morning and early afternoon. Half-hour public meetings were set to begin at the dinner hour in Paris and other cities and towns of France. In Paris the meeting was fixed for the Place de la Republique, not far from the Place de la Bastille, scene of Thursday's demonstration.

The Socialist party Friday night issued the first call for the Monday evening demonstrations. The Central Committe of the big French Communist party jumped aboard Saturday and summoned its militants and sympathizers to participate "shoulder to shoulder with their Socialist brothers."

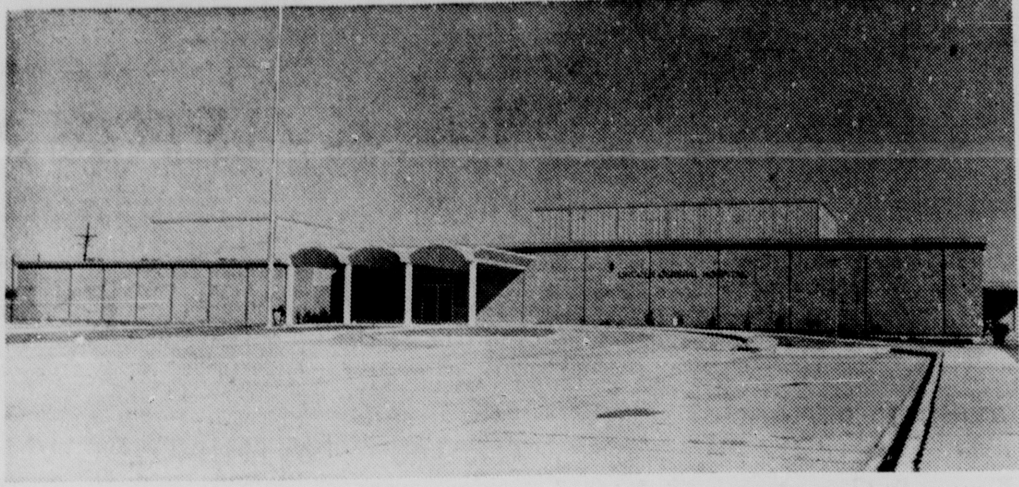
But so far, there was no popular front talk among the Socialists, led by bitter anti-Communist Guy Molley. And the Socialists issued no "shoulder to shoulder" statement to match the Communist appeal.

The secret army, which violently opposes Algeria's independence, touched off the Thursday riots by its terror bombings in the capital. Should the government fail to snuff out secret army activists and a settlement in Algeria is long delayed, the present greatly fragmented French left might crystalize and pose a serious threat to the government.



PRACTICALLY COMPLETED and awaiting final inspection is the new 75-bed Lincoln General Hospital, built at a cost of $1,500,000. The final work payment has not been paid, pending a few "touch-up'" measures. Low bidders on equipment for the hospital will begin making deliveries beginning February 15 through March 1. Plans are in the making for a dedication celebration some time later. Date of occupancy is still uncertain, but probably will be some time in April.

Probe Of Berry Case To Resume

By BEN MCCARTY

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The legislative investigation of the Kimble Berry case and penitentiary affairs will intensify this week and lawmakers will begin probes into reports of kickbacks to county supervisors.

Sen. W. B. Lucas, chairman of the special penitentiary investigating committee, said the group has scheduled another open hearing Thursday and will officially ask four previous witnesses to take lie detector tests on their testimony.

Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson and House Speaker Walter Sillers of Bolivar County are scheduled to name members to a 6-man House-Senate committee to look into possible graft paid to supervisors by equipment firms.

Prison Supt. Fred Jones, Jackson attorney John Gregg, Probation and Parole Board Chairman Martin Fraley and Gulfport businessman Loyd Day will be asked to take the test, Lucas said.

Johnson, who testified he signed the order that released Berry while Gov. Ross Barnett was out of the state, was not asked to take the test. He said it was a routine matter and he handled it as such.

All five witnesses denied they started proceedings to free Berry.

The penitentiary investigation began after Berry received a 10-day leave and showed up in Lynn, Mass., with a story that he was released to pick up loot from a $519,000 burglary at Hattiesburg last May.

Berry arrived in Lynn with the Cadillac of Day and said he was given the car, $20 and a gun to get the loot.

Lucas said the commtitee would hear two or three witnesses at the open hearing Thursday, but would not disclose their names.

However, one of the witnesses is expected to be Marshal Powell of Pensacola, Fla., a former Durant, Miss., night club operator who went to the penitentiary several times with Day.

Powell first told newsmen he had no plans to testify before the committee because he accidentally became involved, but later changed his mind and said he had nothing to hide.

The committee likely will start looking into other phases of penitentiary operations after a message from Barnett and misbehaviour recently of other convicts on leave.

Barnett wrote Lucas suggesting creation of a penitentiary board made up of members with staggered terms which would select the prison superintendent and other prison personnel.

Under the present system, each governor selects a complete board which usually follows his recommendation in naming a superintendent.

In the letter, Barnett said he hopes the committee will "broaden the scope of its activity to include a study of the adequacy or inadequacy of the present statutes in regard to the orgunization setup of the penitentiary."

Robert F. Westbrook, 39-year-old Smith County native under life sentence for a 1954 bank robbery, was a day overdue on a 10-day leave at the prison when arrested.

Two convicts on 10-day leaves were sent back to the penitentiary Friday after police cut short their attempt to swindle an 18-year-old girl out of a $3,000 inheritance.

Washington County arrested Jerry Wayne Hamm, 24, of Greenville and Edward Baldwin, 24, of Biloxi after they tried to collect $3,000 in bonds an Eudora, Ark., girl was about to inherit.

Officers said Hamm was to marry the girl to get the funds, but the girl "got wise" and notified the sheriff.

Services Slated For Mississippi Bank President

MEADVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Funeral services were scheduled Sunday for Daniel Rayford McGehee, a Mississippi attorney, planter, banker and onetime congressman.

The former seventh district representative died at the Franklin Clunty Hospital Friday night ater a lengthy illness. He was 78. Services will be held at 3 p.m. from the Meadville Baptist Church, with burial in Midway Cemetery.

McGehee was the father of movie actress Gloria McGehee, who had flown to his bedside earlier this week from Hollywood.

He was president of the Bank of Franklin from 1918 until his death and served in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1935-1947, representing Mississippi's old 7th District.

McGehee was born Sept. 10, 1883, at Little Springs, Miss., graduated from Mississippi College in 1903 and received a law degree from the University of Mississippi in 1909. He became a practicing attorney the same year.

The tall, portly Mississippi statesman entered politics in 1924. He served a four-year term in the state Senate. From 1928-1932 he was a member of the state House of Representatives before winning re-election to the Senate. He resigned from the Senate after winning re-election to the Senate. He resigned from the Senate after winning election to Congress.

Survivors, in addition to his actress daughter, include his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Hunt McGehee; two other daughters, Mrs. Patricia M. Bush and Mrs. Deane M. Black, both of Washington, D.C.; and a brother, Dr. J. C. McGehee of Bude, Miss.

THEY CALL IT THE GOLDEN AGE
I'LL GET A PENCIL AND PAPER AND FIGURE OUT A WAY TO SAVE MONEY FOR YOUR RETIREMENT
BY TAKING YOUR LUNCH TO WORK AND USING PLAIN SALT INSTEAD OF TOOTH PASTE YOU CAN SAVE A LOT
NOT SEALING THE CHRISTMAS CARDS WE SEND OUT WILL ADD A DOLLAR EACH YEAR TO YOUR RETIREMENT FUND
NO MORE SMOKING-- NO MORE CANDY BARS-- WE'LL USE PLAIN MILK IN YOUR COFFEE INSTEAD OF CREAM
ALL DEPOSITS ON EMPTY BOTTLES WILL GO TO THE FUND, AND HEREAFTER USE YOUR RAZOR BLADES THREE OR FOUR EXTRA TIMES

WELL, JOHNNY, ALL THE PAPERS YOU'LL NEED ARE IN THERE, AND ALL THE FACTS YOU'LL NEED ARE IN YOUR HEAD!
I'LL BE IN LONDON TOMORROW IN TIME FOR OUR OFFICE THERE TO BRIEF ME ON ANY NEW TWISTS!
YES! THEN PARIS: THAT AFRICAN OIL FIELD: THE MATTER IN HONG KONG! WE'LL BE IN TOUCH BY RADIOPHONE, OF COURSE!
YOU THINK IT'LL BE O.K. FOR MARLENE AND OUR BABY TO MEET ME IN PARIS?
HA-HA! THIS BUSH SUIT IS HARDLY THE THING FOR A FORMAL BUSINESS CONFERENCE!
BY THE WAY, WHAT YOU SAID YESTERDAY; "BE HONEST, AND TRUE TO THE PEOPLE OF OUR COUNTRY AND TO ONESELF: AND BE TOUGH ENOUGH TO STAY THAT WAY, NO MATTER WHAT!"
YOU'VE LIVED ALL YOUR LIFE, SO FAR, BY THAT CODE! I JUST HOPE I CAN DO THE SAME! I SURE AIM TO!
HERE COMES THE FIRST MECHANICAL HORSE IN YOUR RELAY RACE TO LONDON!
GOOD-BY FOR NOW, ANNIE! I'LL SEND YOU A POST CARD!
GOOD-BY AND GOOD LUCK, PARTNER!
TILL WE MEET AGAIN, PARTNER!
WELL, THERE HE GOES!
YOU'RE SO QUIET, "DADDY"! WHATCHA THINKIN' ABOUT?
JOHNNY! SO YOUNG AND YET SO FULL OF DRIVE! SO MUCH OF LIFE, VIOLENCE, WORLDLY EXPERIENCE ALREADY BEHIND HIM!
OUT ON THE ROAD I USED TO TRAVEL, NEVER COMPLETELY TRUSTING ANYONE, ALWAYS ALERT AND WATCHFUL, READY TO GAMBLE A KINGDOM ON A GUESS ...BUT ON AN INFORMED GUESS!
